Dobbs,2010-02-19 In a strange way the United States achieved its goal for the Vietnam War but forgot why it was fighting It was not fighting to keep South Vietnam from falling to the communists it was fighting in Indochina to buy time for the other free nations of the region to develop economically and strengthen their respective relationships with their polities In 1961 the region seemed weak economically Japan was on the eve of its great expansion that turned it into the world s second largest economy for many years South Korea and Taiwan still depended on US economic assistance and focused more on the perceived communist threat than improving the quality of life for their peoples Thailand similarly watched the civil war in Laos the Philippines needed to develop stability in government and the Malay peoples moved from Malaya to Malaysia to Malaysia and Singapore all the while warily watching events in Indonesia Trade and Security discusses how the US government sought to rally the region against the Communist threat and in part opened the American economy to exploitation by its East Asian allies and how those Allies used the Cold War and the perceived Chinese threat to gain greater access despite the consequent damage the American economy suffered While US financial officials complained about the increasing damage to the domestic economy and to the worsening balance of trade and balance of payments deficits diplomatic and military leaders remained fixated on the general superpower confrontation with the Soviet Union and the regional competition with the People s Republic of China Norms in Conflict Anchalee Rüland,2022-06-14 The people of Myanmar were struck by three major human rights disasters during the country s period of democratization from 2003 to 2012 the 2007 Saffron Revolution the aftermath of Cyclone Nargis in 2008 and the 2012 Rakhine riots which would evolve into the ongoing Rohingya crisis These events saw Myanmar s government categorically labeled as an offender of human rights and three powerful Southeast Asian member states Indonesia Thailand and Malaysia responded to the violations in very different ways In each case their responses to the crises were explicitly shaped by norm conflict which may be understood as a tension between international and domestic norms Their reactions were compelled by a need to address conflicting domestic and international expectations for norm compliance regarding human rights protection and non interference in internal affairs In Norms in Conflict

Southeast Asia's Response to Human Rights Violations in Myanmar Anchalee R. Land makes sense of state action that occurs when a governing body is faced with a circumstance that is at once in line with and contrary to its own governing policies. She defines five different types of response strategies to situations of norm conflict and examines the enabling factors that lead to each strategy. Domestic norms are known to evolve as a country's values change over time yet R. Land argues that the old and new norms may also coexist. Knowledge of the underlying political context is crucial for those seeking a solid understanding of state behavior. Norms in Conflict challenges the conventional understanding of the logic of consequences in determining state behavior, advancing constructivist theory and establishing a provocative new conversation in international relations discourse.

State, Society, and Minorities in South and Southeast Asia Sunil Kukreja, 2015-05-27 South and Southeast Asia continue to be extremely critical regions deeply intertwined and bound in many ways by centuries of intersecting histories. As the recent experiences of rapid and transformative political and economic changes in several countries in these two regions illustrate, these changes have significant bearing on and are simultaneously affected by the legacy and continued dynamic of dominant minority group relations. To be sure, while the dynamics of dominant minority relations in each country are distinct and often mitigated by distinct historical conditions, the phenomenon of these dominant minority relations, especially along ethnic and religious fault lines, are deeply consequential to many of the nations in these regions. This book, featuring eight case studies, provides a multidisciplinary and multi-layered assessment of the salience of the ethnic and religious realities in shaping various South and Southeast Asian nations. Featuring chapters on Afghanistan, Bangladesh, India, Sri Lanka, Cambodia, Thailand, Malaysia, and Indonesia, this volume provides a deep appreciation of the challenges that these societies confront in integrating and/or responding to specific ethnic and/or religious-based conflicts and tensions.

The National Interests of the United States in Foreign Policy Prosser Gifford, 1981 The 700-year history of the novel in English defies straightforward telling. Geographically and culturally diverse, with contributions from Great Britain, Ireland, America, Canada, Australia, India, the Caribbean, and Southern Africa, influenced by great novelists working in other languages and encompassing a range of genres, the story of the novel in English unfolds like a richly varied landscape that invites exploration rather than a linear journey. In The Novel: A Biography, Michael Schmidt quotes from artist-practitioners, from letters, diaries, reviews, and essays of novelists and draws on their biographies to invite us into the creative dialogues between authors and between books and suggest how these dialogues have shaped the development of the novel in English.
