The 39 Steps Criterion Collection:

Shakespeare's Histories on Screen Jennie M. Votava, 2023-06-29 This volume reframes the critical conversation about Shakespeare's histories and national identity by bringing together two growing bodies of work: early modern race scholarship and adaptation theory. Theorizing a link between adaptation and intersectionality, it demonstrates how over the past thirty years race has become a central and constitutive part of British and American screen adaptations of the English histories. Available to expanding audiences via digital media platforms, these adaptations interrogate the dialectic between Shakespeare's cultural capital and racial reckonings on both sides of the Atlantic and across time. By engaging contemporary representations of race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, disability, and class, adaptation not only creates artefacts that differ from their source texts but also facilitates the conditions in which race and its intersections in the plays become visible. At the centre of this analysis stand two landmark 21st-century history adaptations that use non-traditional casting: the British TV miniseries The Hollow Crown (2012, 2016) and the American independent film H4 (2012), an all-Black Henry IV conflation. In addition to demonstrating how the 21st-century screen history illuminates both past and present constructions of embodied difference, these works provide a lens for reassessing two history adaptations from Shakespeare's 1990s box office renaissance when actors of colour were first cast in cinematic versions of the plays. As exemplified by these formal adaptations, reappropriations of race in history, non-traditional Shakespearean casting practices are also currently shaping digital culture's conversations about race in non-Shakespearean period dramas such as Bridgerton.

Situating the Feminist Gaze and Spectatorship in Postwar Cinema Marcelline Block, Angela Laflen, 2009-01-14 Marcelline Block's Situating the Feminist Gaze and Spectatorship in Postwar Cinema breaks new ground in exploring feminist film theory. It is a wide-ranging collection revisiting important theoretical questions as well as offering close analyses of films produced in the United States, France, England, Belgium, and Russia. This anthology investigates exciting areas of research for critical inquiry into film and gender studies as well as feminist, queer, and postfeminist theories and treats film texts from Marguerite Duras to 21st-century horror films from Agnès Varda's 2007 installation at the Pantheon to the post-Soviet Russian filmmakers Aleksei Balabanov and Valerii Todorovskii from Quentin Tarantino's Death Proof to Sofia Coppola's postfeminist trilogy from Chantal Akerman's transhistorical transgressive and transgendered gaze to the quantum gaze in Steven Spielberg's Jurassic Park from Hitchcock's good-looking blondes to the career woman in peril thriller among others. According to the semiotician Marshall Blonsky of the New School University in New York, given the breadth of the editor's choices, this volume makes a splendid contribution to feminist and cinematic fields as well as cultural and media studies, postmodernism, and postfeminism. It lends readers new eyes to view canonical and other film texts. David Sterritt, chairman of the National Society of Film Critics, states that this anthology should be required reading for students and scholars among other readers interested in the interaction of cinema with contemporary culture. Situating the Feminist Gaze and Spectatorship is prefaced by Jean Michel

Assembling Arguments Jonathan Buehl, 2016-01-20 Scientific arguments and indeed arguments in most disciplines depend on visuals and other nontextual elements however most models of argumentation typically neglect these important resources In Assembling Arguments Jonathan Buehl offers a concentrated study of scientific argumentation that is sensitive to both the historical and theoretical possibilities of multimodal persuasion as it advances two related claims First rhetorical theory when augmented with methods for reading nonverbal representations can provide the analytical tools needed to understand and appreciate multimodal scientific arguments Second science an inherently multimodal enterprise offers ideal subjects for developing general theories of multimodal rhetoric applicable across fields In developing these claims Buehl offers a comprehensive account of scientific persuasion as a multimodal process and develops a simple but productive framework for analyzing and teaching multimodal argumentation Comprising five case studies the book provides detailed treatments of argumentation in specific technological and historical contexts argumentation before World War I when images circulated by hand and by post argumentation during the mid twentieth century when computers were beginning to bolster scientific inquiry but images remained hand crafted products and argumentation at the turn of the twenty first century an era of digital revolutions and digital fraud Each study examines the rhetorical problems and strategies of specific scientists to investigate key issues regarding visualization and argument 1 establishing new instruments as reliable sources of visual evidence 2 creating novel arguments from reliable visual evidence 3 creating novel arguments with unreliable visual evidence 4 preserving the credibility of visualization practices and 5 creating multimodal artifacts before and in the era of digital circulation Given the growing enterprise of rhetorical studies and the field's contributions to communication practices in all disciplines rhetoricians need a comprehensive rhetoric of science one that accounts for the multimodal arguments that change our relation to reality Assembling Arguments argues that such rhetoric should enable the interpretation of visual scientific arguments and improve science writing instruction
