Some Mothers I Know Living With Handicapped Children:

Some Mothers I Know Tom Wakefield, 1978 The Nature of Special Education Tony Booth, June Statham, 2003-09-02

This book contains a collection of brief case studies of children families professionals curricula and schools which illustrate and illuminate contemporary methods in special education Together they demonstrate the wide range of sympathies experience and knowledge required for the special education of a child in any instance It considers children with mild and severe handicaps both physical and sensory and those with educational difficulties ranging from reading problems to profound mental handicap Children in care and in poverty are also represented they can be said to be socially handicapped by their circumstances often experiencing educational difficulties as well All the case studies emphasise the needs and wishes of children and their families and encourage greater involvement for children with special needs in ordinary schools

The Family and the Handicapped Child Elizabeth Newson, 2017-09-04 This book describes an inquiry into the upbringing of young cerebral palsied children Following the precedent set by John and Elizabeth Newson in their studies of normal children at home Sheila Hewett visited the mothers of 180 spastic children and obtained their personal accounts of their experiences There is considerable literature on handicapped children in which the adverse effects of their presence in the family are emphasized This study is the first to present not evidence provided by professional people but that of a large number of mothers of all social classes who have children with all degrees of handicap They tell in their own words how they meet the problems and anxieties of everyday life and how they strive to maintain the norms of family living in spite of their very real difficulties A measure of their success is provided by a number of comparisons with the families of normal children Hewett's nursing experience combined with a social science training and personal experience of parenthood contributed a useful background for this research Resulting as it does from close collaboration with the Newsons her work provides an important extension of the main work of the Child Development Research Unit in Nottingham It will help all those who work with handicapped children to achieve a better understanding of the families to whom they offer their specialist knowledge To the general public it offers an opportunity to gain insights into a situation which calls for their support and acceptance but not their pity For the parents of handicapped children themselves it provides a much needed opportunity to make their views known and to see that they are not alone in the difficulties which they face with such stoicism and resourcefulness This book's last aim has been achieved by using the now extensive information about the upbringing of normal children obtained from Nottingham mothers in the United Kingdom by John and Elizabeth Newson Daily Living with a Handicapped Child

Diana M. Millard, 2016-01-13 First published in 1984 this book focuses on the support and reassurance needed by parents of children with handicaps It provides a practical guide in relation to daily care and is equally as relevant to professionals therapists teachers doctors and psychologists who must advise parents Written by an Occupational Therapist the book highlights the need to make such children as independent as possible and gives advice on care of a special baby modifications to the home environment the needs of a child with a physical handicap problems of educational handicap and the place of a child in the family and community The Family and the Handicapped Child Sheila Hewett,2007-06-01 This book describes an inquiry into the upbringing of young cerebral palsied children Following the precedent set by John and Elizabeth Newson in their studies of normal children at home Sheila Hewett visited the mothers of 180 spastic children and obtained their personal accounts of their experiences There is considerable literature on handicapped children in which the adverse effects of their presence in the family are emphasized This study is the first to present not evidence provided by professional people but that of a large number of mothers of all social classes who have children with all degrees of handicap They tell in their own words how they meet the problems and anxieties of everyday life and how they strive to maintain the norms of family living in spite of their very real difficulties A measure of their success is provided by a number of comparisons with the families of normal children Hewett s nursing experience combined with a social science training and personal experience of parenthood contributed a useful background for this research Resulting as it does from close collaboration with the Newsons her work provides an important extension of the main work of the Child Development Research Unit in Nottingham It will help all those who work with handicapped children to achieve a better understanding of the families to whom they offer their specialist knowledge To the general public it offers an opportunity to gain insights into a situation which calls for their support and acceptance but not their pity For the parents of handicapped children themselves it provides a much needed opportunity to make their views known and to see that they are not alone in the difficulties which they face with such stoicism and resourcefulness This book s last aim has been achieved by using the now extensive information about the upbringing of normal children obtained from Nottingham mothers in the United Kingdom by John and Elizabeth Newson Disabled Children in a Society at War Rachel Hastie,1997 This book looks at the themes of development in conflict disability in conflict and the social model of disability in a post communist society in detail

Children ,1968 Oversight on Education for All Handicapped Children Act, 1979 United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Human Resources. Subcommittee on the Handicapped,1980 Taking Care Mary Grimley Mason,2012-10-23 Taking Care based on twenty six interviews and other autobiographical narratives challenges the negative stereotypes about mothers with disabilities These women s stories tell of their successes despite the barriers they encounter from the society in which they live Covering issues in the mothering cycle from pregnancy and birth to raising a child through adulthood the mothers experiences and strategies provide valuable information for other women with disabilities as well as for doctors and health and social service professionals This book will provide a significant model for all parents

Valuing Disabled Children and Young People Berni Kelly,Bronagh Byrne,2018-04-19 Focusing on contemporary childhood disability issues and relevant to the lived experiences of disabled children and young people and their families this book addresses themes such as transition identity education inclusion and service provision It also includes insightful contributions on participatory research and practice with disabled children and young people including an emphasis on capability voice and communicative spaces for those with life limiting and more severe levels of impairment The contributions to this book are grounded in a commitment to the rights of disabled children and young people as explicitly recognised under the United Nations Conventions on the Rights of the Child 1989 and Rights of Persons with Disabilities 2006 However the authors also draw our attention to the detrimental impact of economic austerity and conflict on the extent to which these rights are being realised encouraging further consideration of issues relating to social justice interdependence and participation Addressing the diversity of disabled children s lives across service domains and international contexts this book provides an evidence base to support the realisation of the rights of disabled children and young people This book was originally published as a special issue of Child Care in Practice Bureau Publication ... ,1964 Historical Perspective on Mental Retardation During the Decade. 1954-1964 Arthur Jacques Lesser,Donough O'Brien,Elizabeth Prescott,1964 Historical Perspective on Mental Retardation During the Decade 1954-1964 ,1964 Living with Cerebral Palsy T. T. S. Ingram,Stella Jameson,Jane Errington,2014-05-12 Living with Cerebral Palsy correlates studies made in early life in patients with cerebral palsy with the status and social adjustment of the same individuals when they become adult This book discusses the problem of fitting handicapped patients for life in the community after leaving school Organized into eight chapters this book begins with an overview of the fate of patients suffering from cerebral palsy once they outgrow childhood and come to seek employment or vocation in adult life This text then examines the classification of cerebral palsy Other chapters consider the likelihood of the handicapped being able to work in open employment or sheltered conditions or of being unemployable This book discusses as well information about personal relationships and social life of patients The final chapter deals with the prevalence of cerebral palsy and the types of cerebral palsy encountered in a given community This book is a valuable resource for teachers social workers therapists psychologists and physicians The Views and Experiences of Disabled Children and Their Siblings Clare Connors,Kirsten Stalker,2003 The authors explore the implications of their study for a childhood model of social disability They identify and draw out the significance of their findings for a range of mainstream specialist and statutory providers It is an invaluable resource for effective ways of communicating directly with disabled children Rethinking Disability in India Anita Ghai,2019-01-15 Moving away from clinical medical or therapeutic perspectives on disability this book explores disability in India as a social cultural and political phenomenon arguing that this difference should be accepted as a part of social diversity It further interrogates the multiple issues of identification of the disabled and the forms of oppressio Families with Disabled Children United States. Congress. House. Select Committee on Children, Youth, and Families,1985 Childhood disability issues and implications for an effective rehabilitation process Marta Prota,2015-02-05 Disability and specifically childhood disability is an issue that is evolving and which recently met worldwide interest in both developed and developing countries After the enactment of the Convention on Rights for Persons with Disability CRPD in 2006 many moves have been made toward the establishment of disabled children's rights both on international and national panoramas but there is still a long way to go primarily for complete and effective inclusion in their local community Working with children with special needs means working with disability working with disability means firstly knowing that it is a multi factor and multi faceted experience that every person could potentially experience during his life Because of the complexity and the plurality of the topic we are going to focus on two specific aspects of disability Firstly the side related to culture which means the different perspectives meanings and connotations that the concept of disability has in different cultural social and economic conditions starting from the definition of disability itself Secondly we are going to focus on the rehabilitation process not limiting this to technical considerations such as physical therapy occupational therapy speech therapy and so on but investigating the essential role that the disabled child's family plays in the process of rehabilitation and the consequent need to build successful cooperation with them What link is there between disability and rehabilitation The goal of rehabilitation is to restore an individual's ability to his/her normal or near normal functional capabilities after the occurrence of a disabling event So rehabilitation is a tool through which it is possible to reduce the impact of disability in a person's life But very often some disability is going to remain and this is truer in childhood rehabilitation since disabling diseases that affect children are very complex and involve many different body functions In this situation the compliance and the understanding of the family is crucial to obtain maximum results from rehabilitation A realistic but non cruel picture of the situation shared goals good levels of communication and feedback are essentials components for good results The aim of this handbook is to provide basic but indispensable tools for reaching them
