McGlennen, 2014-08-04 Tribal histories suggest that Indigenous peoples from many different nations continually allied themselves for purposes of fortitude mental and physical health and creative affiliations Such alliance building Molly

McGlennen tells us continues in the poetry of Indigenous women who use the genre to transcend national and colonial boundaries and to fashion global dialogues across a spectrum of experiences and ideas One of the first books to focus exclusively on Indigenous women's poetry Creative Alliances fills a critical gap in the study of Native American literature McGlennen herself an Indigenous poet critic traces the meanings of gender and genre as they resonate beyond nationalist paradigms to forge transnational forms of both resistance and alliance among Indigenous women in the twenty first century McGlennen considers celebrated Native poets such as Kimberly Blaeser Ester Belin Diane Glancy and Luci Tapahonso but she also takes up lesser known poets who circulate their work through social media spoken word events and other nonliterary forums Through this work McGlennen reveals how poetry becomes a tool for navigating through the dislocations of urban life disenrollment diaspora migration and queer identities McGlennen's Native American Studies approach is inherently interdisciplinary Combining creative and critical language she demonstrates the way in which women use poetry not only to preserve and transfer Indigenous knowledge but also to speak to one another across colonial and tribal divisions In the literary spaces of anthologies and collections and across social media and spoken word events Indigenous women poets are mapping cooperative alliances In doing so they are actively determining their relationship to their nations and to other Indigenous peoples in uncompromised and uncompromising ways

The Holy Land in Transit Steven Salaita, 2015-02-01 Steven Salaita's ambitious and thought provoking work compares the dynamics of settler colonialism in the United States related to Native Americans with the circumstances in Israel related to the Palestinians revealing the way in which politics influences literary production The author's original approach is based not on similarities between the two disparate settler regions but rather on similarities between the rhetoric employed by early colonialists in North America and that employed by Zionist immigrants in Palestine Meticulously examining histories theories and literary depictions of colonialism and its interethnic dialects Salaita identifies the commonalities in the myths employed by both groups as well as the counter discourse cultivated in the literature of resistance by native peoples He complements his analysis with personal observations of Palestinians in Lebanese refugee camps where he encountered a sympathetic perception of American Indians The Holy Land in Transit presents one of the first intercommunal studies to assess the ways in which indigenous authors react to analogous colonial dynamics With great perception and energy the author offers a fresh contribution to an emerging frame of reference for historical political literary and cultural investigation the implications of simply dismissing Indigenous healing and storytelling traditions Therapeutic Nations is the first book to demonstrate affect and trauma's wide ranging historical origins in an Indigenous setting offering insights into community healing programs The author's theoretical sophistication and original research make the book relevant across a range of disciplines as it challenges key concepts of American Indian and Indigenous studies      When the Other is Me Emma LaRocque, 2011-03-10 In this long awaited book from one of the most recognized and respected scholars in Native Studies today Emma LaRocque presents a powerful interdisciplinary study of the Native literary response to racist writing in the Canadian historical and literary record from 1850 to 1990 In When the Other is Me LaRocque brings a metacritical approach to Native writing situating it as resistance literature within and outside the postcolonial intellectual context She outlines the overwhelming evidence of dehumanization in Canadian historical and literary writing its effects on both popular culture and Canadian intellectual development and Native and non Native intellectual responses to it in light of the interlayered mix of romanticism exaggeration of Native difference and the continuing problem of internalization that challenges our understanding of the colonizer colonized relationship
