Reading Matters Ulrich Marzolph, 2023 The present book is a special gift for a special colleague and friend Defined as an Unfestschrift it gives colleagues students and friends of Regina Bendix an opportunity to express their esteem for Regina s inspiration cooperation leadership and friendship in an adequate and lasting manner The title of the present book Reading Matters is as close as possible to an English equivalent of the beautiful German double entendre Erlesenes meaning both something read a reading and something exquisite Presenting matters for reading the Unfestschrift unites short contributions about readings that mattered in some way or another for the contributors readings that had an impact on their understanding of whatever they were at some time or presently are interested in The term readings is understood widely Since most of the invited contributors are academics the term implies in the first place readings of an academic or scholarly nature In a wider notion however readings also refer to any other piece of literature the perception of a piece of art a painting a sculpture a performance listening to music appreciating a folkloric performance or a fieldwork experience or just anything else whose reading or individual perception has been meaningful for the contributors in different ways Contrary to a strictly scholarly treatment of a given topic in which the author often disappears behind the subject the presentations unveil and highlight the contributor s personal involvement and thus a dimension of crucial importance for ethnographers such as the dedicatee

Analysing Architecture Simon Unwin, 2013-12-17 Now in its fourth edition Analysing Architecture has become internationally established as the best introduction to architecture Aimed primarily at those wishing to become professional architects it also offers those in disciplines related to architecture from archaeology to stage design garden design to installation art a clear and accessible insight into the workings of this rich and fascinating subject With copious illustrations from his own notebooks the author dissects examples from around the world and all periods of history to explain underlying strategies in architectural design and show how drawing may be used as a medium for analysis This new edition of Analysing Architecture is revised and expanded Notably the chapter on Basic Elements of Architecture has been enlarged to discuss the powers various architectural elements offer the architect Three new chapters have been added to the section on Themes in Spatial Organisation covering Occupying the In between Inhabited Wall and Refuge and Prospect Two new examples a Mud House from Kerala India and the Mongyotei a tea house from Kyoto Japan have been added to the Case Studies at the end of the book The Select Bibliography has been expanded and the Index revised Works of architecture are instruments for managing orchestrating modifying our relationship with the world around us They frame just about everything we do Architecture is complex subtle frustrating but ultimately extremely rewarding It can be a difficult discipline to get to grips with nothing in school quite prepares anyone for the particular demands of an architecture course But this book will help Analysing Architecture is the foundation volume of a series of books by Simon Unwin exploring the workings of architecture Other books in the series include Twenty Buildings Every Architect Should Understand and Exercises in Architecture

Book Presence in a Digital Age Kiene Brillenburg Wurth, Kári Driscoll, Jessica Pressman, 2018-06-28 Contrary to the apocalyptic

pronouncements of paper media's imminent demise in the digital age there has been a veritable surge of creative reimaginings of books as bearers of the literary. From typographic experiments Mark Z Danielewski's House of Leaves Steven Hall's The Raw Shark Texts to accordion books Anne Carson's Nox from cut ups Jonathan Safran Foer's Tree of Codes to collages Graham Rawle's Woman's World from erasures Mary Ruefle's A Little White Shadow to mixups Simon Morris's The Interpretations of Dreams print literature has gone through anything but a slow inevitable death. In fact it has re-invented itself materially. Starting from this idea of media plurality Book Presence in a Digital Age explores the resilience of print literatures, book art and zines in the late age of print from a contemporary perspective while incorporating longer term views on media archeology and media change. Even as it focuses on the materiality of books and literary writing in the present Book Presence also takes into consideration earlier 20th century moments of media transition developing the concepts of presence and materiality as analytical tools to perform literary criticism in a digital age. Bringing together leading scholars, artists and publishers Book Presence in a Digital Age offers a variety of perspectives on the past, present and future of the book as medium, the complex relationship of materiality to virtuality and of the analog to the digital. Fado and the Place of

Longing Richard Elliott, 2017-07-05. Fado, often described as urban folk music, emerged from the streets of Lisbon in the mid nineteenth century and went on to become Portugal's national music during the twentieth. It is known for its strong emphasis on loss, memory and nostalgia within its song texts which often refer to absent people and places. One of the main lyrical themes of fado is the city itself. Fado music has played a significant role in the interlacing of mythology, history, memory and regionalism in Portugal in the second half of the twentieth century. Richard Elliott considers the ways in which fado songs bear witness to the city of Lisbon in relation to the construction and maintenance of the local. Elliott explores the ways in which fado acts as a cultural product reaffirming local identity via recourse to social memory and an imagined community while also providing a distinctive cultural export for the dissemination of a remembered Portugal on the global stage.

Deep Locational Criticism Jason Finch, 2016-03-18. A lively series of spatial turns in literary studies since the 1990s give rise to this engaged and practical book devoted to the question of how to teach and study the relationship between all sorts of literature and all sorts of location. Among the many concrete examples explored are texts created between the early seventeenth and the early twenty-first centuries in genres ranging from stage drama and lyric poetry to television by way of several studies of fiction definable in a broad way as realist. Writers and thinkers discussed include Michel de Certeau, Edward Casey, Gwendolyn Brooks, Christina Rossetti, Dickens, J Hillis Miller, Lynne Reid Banks, Heidegger, Shakespeare, Thomas Middleton, Thomas Dekker, Stephen C Levinson, Bernard Malamud, E M Forster, Thomas Burke and Samuel Beckett. The book is underpinned by the philosophical topology of Jeff Malpas who insists that human life is necessarily and primarily located. It is aimed at students and teachers of literary place at all university levels. Creativity — A New Vocabulary

associated with creativity that offer us insight into creative action as a social material and cultural process A wide range of specialists within the humanities and social sciences will find this interesting as well as practitioners who are looking for novel ways of thinking about and doing creative work

The Routledge Handbook of Literary Geographies Neal Alexander, David Cooper, 2024-08-09 The Routledge Handbook of Literary Geographies provides a comprehensive overview of recent research and a range of innovative ways of thinking literature and geography together It maps the history of literary geography and identifies key developments and debates in the field Written by leading and emerging scholars from around the world the 38 chapters are organised into six themed sections which consider differing critical methodologies keywords and concepts literary geography in the light of literary history a variety of places spaces and landforms the significance of literary forms and genres and the role of literary geographies beyond the academy Presenting the work of scholars from different disciplinary backgrounds each section offers readers new angles from which to view the convergence of literary creativity and geographical thought Collectively the contributors also address some of the major issues of our time including the climate emergency movement and migration and the politics of place Literary geography is a dynamic interdisciplinary field dedicated to exploring the complex relationships between geography and literature This cutting edge collection will be an essential resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students in both Geography and Literary Studies and scholars interested in the evolving interface between the two disciplines
