Senior Political and Military Leaders as Principals to International Crimes Héctor Olásolo,2009-05-15 As shown by the trials of Slobodan Milosevic Charles Taylor and Saddam Hussein the large scale and systematic commission of international crimes is usually planned and set in motion by senior political and military leaders Nevertheless the application of traditional forms of criminal liability leads to the conclusion that they are mere accessories to such crimes This does not reflect their central role and often results in a punishment which is inappropriately low in view of the impact of their actions and omissions For these reasons international criminal law has placed special emphasis on the development of concepts such as control of the crime and joint criminal enterprise also known as the common purpose doctrine which aim at reflecting better the central role played by senior political and military leaders in campaigns of large scale and systematic commission of international crimes The Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court and the case law of the ICTY and the ICTR have in recent years played a unique role in the achievement of this goal The 1996 Annotated Tremeeear's Criminal Code Canada,1995

Backhouse,1999-11-20 Historically Canadians have considered themselves to be more or less free of racial prejudice Although this conception has been challenged in recent years it has not been completely dispelled In Colour Coded Constance Backhouse illustrates the tenacious hold that white supremacy had on our legal system in the first half of this century and underscores the damaging legacy of inequality that continues today Backhouse presents detailed narratives of six court cases each giving evidence of blatant racism created and enforced through law The cases focus on Aboriginal Inuit Chinese Canadian and African Canadian individuals taking us from the criminal prosecution of traditional Aboriginal dance to the trial of members of the Ku Klux Klan of Kanada From thousands of possibilities Backhouse has selected studies that constitute central moments in the legal history of race in Canada Her selection also considers a wide range of legal forums including administrative rulings by municipal councils criminal trials before police magistrates and criminal and civil cases heard by the highest courts in the provinces and by the Supreme Court of Canada The extensive and detailed documentation presented here leaves no doubt that the Canadian legal system played a dominant role in creating and preserving racial discrimination A central message of this book is that racism is deeply embedded in Canadian history despite Canada's reputation as a raceless society Winner of the Joseph Brant Award presented by the Ontario Historical Society
