His Name Was John Barbara F. Coffman,2003-08-18 Does the age produce the man or does the man produce the age It can be argued both ways John S Coffman Mennonite evangelist writer and organizer was born at a time when his church long the quiet in the land needed leaders to show the way to a more vital spiritual life and a more effective Christian witness in the world Into this vacuum of need came this dynamic man with just exactly the qualities of character and the spiritual and natural gifts to accomplish this task Although he died young his years were sufficient to make a powerful impression on the church of his fathers the church he loved and for which he poured out his life A granddaughter has immersed herself for a number of years in the life and work and influence of this great man She has heard the recollections of her father S F Coffman who walked in the footsteps of his father to become also a great church leader She accumulated the reminiscences of other members of the family and of older people who knew her subject intimately She found many primary sources of information such as files of old letters and her grandfather s diaries She spent time in both Virginia and Indiana to absorb atmosphere and setting for a competent biography The author chose to use a semi fictional form for her story All quotes from letters and diaries are verbatim Conversation is constructed from this factual background using a good deal of the colloquial style which she knows the principals of the story used The result is a biography which is not only an accurate portrayal but is also interesting reading

The Australian Dream Alan Morris, 2016-10-01 Australia is experiencing a significant demographic shift the proportion of the population that is aged 65 years and older is increasing substantially and will continue to do so With this shift comes particular housing challenges for older people The Australian Dream examines the impacts of housing tenure on older Australians who are solely or primarily dependent on the age pension for their income Drawing on 125 in depth interviews it compares the life circumstances of older social housing tenants private renters and homeowners their capacity to pay for their accommodation how this cost impacts on their ability to lead a decent life maintain social ties and pursue leisure activities and how their housing situation affects their health and wellbeing The book considers some key questions Are older homeowners who are solely dependent on the single age pension managing financially Are they able to maintain their homes and engage in social activity How are older private renters who have to pay market rents faring in comparison with older homeowners and social housing tenants What are the implications of subsidised rents and legally guaranteed security of tenure for older social housing tenants Based on a study conducted in Sydney and regional New South Wales this pioneering research starkly and powerfully reveals the fundamental role that affordable adequate and secure housing plays in creating a foundation for a decent life for older Australians
