Soay Sheep Dynamics And Selection In An Island Population:

Soay Sheep T. H. Clutton-Brock, 2003 Synthesis of remarkable long term and well known study of the population dynamics of soay sheep on St Kilda

Soay Sheep T. H. Clutton-Brock, Josephine M. Pemberton, 2004 Dynamics of Large Herbivore Populations in Changing Environments Norman Owen-Smith, 2009-12-18 This book aims to reconcile theoretical models of population dynamics with what is currently known about the population dynamics of large mammalian herbivores It arose from a working group established at the National Center for Ecological Analysis and Synthesis at the University of California Santa Barbara to address the need for models that better accommodate environmental variability especially for herbivores dependent on changing vegetation resources The initial chapter reviews findings from definitive long term studies of certain other ungulate populations many based on individually identifiable animals Other chapters cover climatic influences emphasising temperate versus tropical contrasts and demographic processes underlying population dynamics more generally There are new assessments of irruptive population dynamics and of the consequences of landscape heterogeneity for herbivore populations An initial review of candidate population models is followed up by a final chapter outlining how these models might be modified to better accommodate environmental variability The contents provide a foundation for resolving problems of diminishing large mammal populations in Africa over abundant ungulate populations elsewhere and general consequences of global change for biodiversity conservation This book will serve as a definitive outline of what is currently known about the population dynamics of large herbivores

Wildlife Disease Ecology Kenneth Wilson, Andy Fenton, Dan Tompkins, 2019-11-14 Introduces readers to key case studies that illustrate how theory and data can be integrated to understand wildlife disease ecology

Introduction to Modeling in Wildlife and Resource Conservation Norman Owen-Smith, 2009-03-12 This book provides students with the skills to develop their own models for application in conservation biology and wildlife management Assuming no special mathematical expertise the computational models used are kept simple and show how to develop models in both spreadsheet and programming language format Develops thought provoking applications which emphasize the value of modeling as a learning tool Examines basic descriptive equations matrix representations consumer resources interactions applications in simulation scenarios harvesting population viability metapopulation dynamics disease outbreaks vegetation stage and state dynamics habitat suitability assessment and model selection statistics Includes a wide range of examples relating to birds fish plants and large African mammals

Hurcombe, 2014-04-24 Perishable Material Culture in Prehistory provides new approaches and integrates a broad range of data to address a neglected topic organic material in the prehistoric record Providing news ideas and connections and suggesting revisionist ways of thinking about broad themes in the past this book demonstrates the efficacy of an holistic approach by using examples and cases studies No other book covers such a broad range of organic materials from a social and object biography perspective or concentrates so fully on approaches to the missing components of prehistoric material culture This book will be an essential addition for those people wishing to understand better the nature and importance of organic materials as the missing majority of prehistoric material culture Alternative Reproductive Tactics Rui F. Oliveira, Michael Taborsky, H. Jane Brockmann, 2008-03-13 The study of alternative reproductive tactics the behavioural strategies used by individuals to increase their reproductive success is an evolutionary puzzle and one of great interest to researchers For instance why do some males guard both nest and eggs while others sneak into nests while pairs are spawning and fertilise those eggs The field offers a special opportunity to study the evolution and functional causes of phenotypic variation which is a general problem in the field of evolutionary biology By integrating both mechanistic psychological and evolutionary behavioural ecology perspectives and by covering a great diversity of species Alternative Reproductive Tactics addresses this integrated topic of longstanding interest bringing together a multitude of otherwise scattered information in an accessible form that is ideal for graduate students and researchers

Mammal Societies Tim Clutton-Brock, 2016-04-25 The book aims to integrate our understanding of mammalian societies into a novel synthesis that is relevant to behavioural ecologists, ecologists and anthropologists. It adopts a coherent structure that deals initially with the characteristics and strategies of females before covering those of males, cooperative societies and hominid societies. It reviews our current understanding both of the structure of societies and of the strategies of individuals; it combines coverage of relevant areas of theory with coverage of interspecific comparisons, intraspecific comparisons and experiments; it explores both evolutionary causes of different traits and their ecological consequences; and it integrates research on different groups of mammals with research on primates and humans and attempts to put research on human societies into a broader perspective.
