Renewing New Testament Christology Leander E. Keck, 2023-10-10

Advocating New Testament Christology as a historically informed theological enterprise readily suggests the book's two-part structure. The treatment of the four Christologies in Part Two is warranted by the arguments in Part One, whose first chapter neither surveys nor summarizes the history of research but instead presents a historically informed argument about the impact of history on Christology. The second chapter provides a crisp formal statement of Christology's task as the clue to its nature. Christology's logic, its reasoning, is especially important for it accounts for the way Jesus's religious significance is grounded in his relation to God. In Part Two, the approach outlined in the second chapter of Part One is applied to two Gospels, Matthew and John, and two Epistles, Romans and Hebrews. These four chapters can be read in any sequence because their order is not part of the argument. Simply juxtaposing these chapters allows each voice to be heard in its own register. Part Two shuns talking of New Testament Christology's unity, sometimes a mischievous word without thereby doubting that
