Confronting the Golden Age Junko Aono,2025-10-01 Is it possible to talk about Dutch art after 1680 outside the prevailing critical framework of the age of decline Although an increasing number of studies are being published on the art and society of this period genre painting of this era continues to be dismissed as an uninspired repetition of the art of the second and third quarters of the seventeenth century known as the Dutch Golden Age In this stunningly illustrated study Aono reconsiders the long dismissed genre painting from 1680 1750 Grounded in close analysis of a range of paintings and primary sources this study illuminates the main features of genre painting highlighting the ways in which these elements related to the painters close connections to on the one hand collectors and on the other to classicism one of the dominant artistic styles of that time Three case studies richly supplemented by a catalogue of 29 selected painters and their work offer the first clear picture of the genre painting of the period while providing new insights into painters activities collectors tastes and the contemporary art market In this stunningly illustrated study Junko Aono reconsiders the long dismissed genre painting from 1680 1750

Fuseli's Milton Gallery Luisa Cale, 2006-12-21 Fuseli's Milton Gallery challenges the antipictorial theories and canons of Romantic period culture Between 1791 and 1799 Swiss painter Henry Fuseli turned Milton's Paradise Lost into a series of 40 pictures Fuseli's project and other literary galleries developed within an expanding market for illustrated books and a culture of anthologization used to reading British and other classics in terms of the visualization of key moments in the text Thus transformed into repositories of virtual pictures literary texts became ideal sources of subjects for painters Illustrating British literature was a way of inventing a national grand style to fit the needs of a consumer society Cale calls into question the separation of reading and viewing as autonomous aesthetic practices To turn readers into spectators meant to place readers and reading within the dizzying world of associations offered by an emerging culture of exhibitions Attending to the energized reading effects developed by Fuseli's Gallery we rediscover a new side of the Romantic imagination which is not the solitary mentalist experience preferred by Wordsworth and Coleridge nor divorced from the senses let alone a refuge from the crowded public spaces of the Revolutionary period Rather Fuseli's embodied aesthetic exemplifies the associationist psychology espoused by the radical circle convening around the publisher Joseph Johnson including Joseph Priestley and Mary Wollstonecraft This book analyses exhibitions as important sites of Romantic sociability and one of many interrelated mediums for the literature debates and controversies of the Revolutionary period
