The Patagonian Fishery Resources And The Offshore Fisheries In The Southwest Atlantic:

The Patagonian Fishery Resources and the Offshore Fisheries in the South-west Atlantic J. Csirke, 1987 The state of the main fishery resources exploited by the offshore fleets in the South West Atlantic is examined and some suggestions are made regarding research and management of the offshore fisheries in the region Common hake Merluccius hubbsi is mostly caught in the northern Patagonian Shelf and off the River Plate Basin area and the resource seems to be lightly to fully exploited Southern blue whiting Micromesistius australis is mostly caught over the Patagonian Shelf and Slope around the Falkland Islands Malvinas and the resource seems to be lightly to moderately exploited Shortfin squid Illex argentinus is mostly caught in the offshore Patagonian Shelf and Slope from the area off the River Plate to the northern part of the Falkland Islands Malvinas the abundance and annual catches are highly variable and until 1985 the resource was reasonably exploited but it is likely that the increased fishing effort in 1986 may have driven the stock to an overfishing situation A variable fishing effort policy is suggested to manage this fishery in view of the great fluctuations in recruitment strength It seems that the common squid Loligo sp stock is fully exploited with a high probability of becoming overexploited Some general aspects regarding the state of other fish resources and of other possible effects of these offshore fisheries are also examined FAO Fisheries Technical Paper, 2005 The Patagonian Fishery Resources and the Offshore Fisheries in the SW Atlantic J. Csirke, 1987 Worldwide review of bottom fisheries in the high seas in 2016 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2020-02-28 The Worldwide review of bottom fisheries in the high seas in 2016 is an update to the first Worldwide review of bottom fisheries in the high seas published in 2009 based on information from 2003 to 2006 It provides states and other interested parties with a summary of the current status of high seas bottom fisheries worldwide The present updated review begins with a description of the demersal finfish and shellfish resources before offering a global perspective on fisheries and management it then provides specific regional information over eleven chapters covering the high seas of the world's oceans by region Drawing on data up to and including 2016 it provides a survey of the current state of bottom fisheries since the original Worldwide review considering these fisheries in the context of their historical evolution Review of the state of world marine fishery resources - 2025 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, Sharma, R. (ed.); Barange, M. (ed.); Agostini, V. (ed.); Barros, P. (ed.); Gutierrez, N.L. (ed.); Vasconcellos, M. (ed.); Fernandez Reguera, D. (ed.); Tiffay, C. (ed.); Levontin, P. (ed.), Marine fisheries are crucial to the food security and nutrition economy and overall well being of coastal communities Maintaining the long term prosperity and sustainability of marine fisheries is therefore not only ecologically significant but has social economic and political importance The aim of this report is to provide FAO Members national and regional policymakers academia civil society fishers and managers of world fishery resources with a comprehensive objective and global review of the state of the living fishery resources of the oceans This document updates the regular reviews of the state of the world's marine fishery resources based on stock assessments and complementary information up to 2023 and official catch statistics through to 2021. The introductory and methodology chapters provide the wider context in which this updated edition of the Review of the state of world marine fishery resources was prepared, highlighting evolutions in the landscape of fisheries and stock assessment capacities since the previous edition of this report in 2011. The methodology section gives a detailed overview of the updated FAO process for providing the state of stocks index, which involved a highly participatory and transparent process including 19 regional workshops and consultations with around 650 in person experts representing 92 countries and 200 organizations. Importantly, the total number of stocks in the assessments included in this report has significantly increased to 2 570. Discussions on major trends and changes at the global level are explored in a dedicated global overview chapter, while more detailed information on the status of stocks for each of the FAO Major Fishing Areas is set out in dedicated regional chapters. Special sections address the global issue of tunas and tuna-like species and other high profile fisheries such as deep sea fisheries in areas beyond national jurisdiction and highly migratory sharks. Summary tables are provided for each species grouping used in this assessment, indicating the number of stocks included, their sustainability classification between overfished, maximally sustainably fished, and underfished categories, and the number of stocks classified into tiers based on the availability and quality of information, and thus the assessment methods used.

Management of Shared Fish Stocks Andrew I. L. Payne, Carl M. O'Brien, Stuart I. Rogers, 2008-04-15. Celebrating the centenary of the Centre for Environment Fisheries and Aquaculture Science (CEFAS) Fisheries Research Laboratory at Lowestoft, UK, this peer-reviewed edited tome discusses four interwoven themes: The consequences and management of unregulated/unreported catches; Competition; External drivers and resource behaviour; Ecosystems and migration. With contributions from fisheries scientists, policy makers and managers from more than twenty countries, this international volume has evolved from the CEFAS symposium on International Approaches to Management of Shared Fish Stock Problems and Future Directions. The editors, Andrew Payne, Carl O'Brien and Stuart Rogers, have succeeded in bringing together the research of over sixty participants into an essential source of reference for all those involved in or studying fisheries management across the globe.
