The Past Today Historic Places In New Zealand:

New Zealand's First World War Heritage Imelda Bargas, Tim Shoebridge, 2015-04-01 Rediscover New Zealand's hidden First World War history through the places where it happened. No battles were fought here yet the First World War intruded into the daily life of every New Zealander who remained at home. This ground-breaking book provides vivid new insights into their experiences through exploring the places where they lived, worked, coped and mourned: army camps, fortifications, soldier settler farms, town halls, wharves, convalescent homes and hospitals, cemeteries and war memorials, dairy factories and woollen mills. From Northland to Stewart Island, our landscape is signposted with thousands of poignant memorials, and behind the façades of old buildings, beneath scrub and behind farm fences, lies a less visible landscape of war and hundreds of hidden stories waiting to be told: a soldier's name carved on a remote railway station, a once-bustling uniform factory in the heart of a city, a long-abandoned gun battery. This unique book will be a revelation to all New Zealanders. Extensively illustrated with new and period photographs and fascinating maps, it contains original research and information that will open the eyes of every reader to places and stories in their community hidden in plain sight. The impact of the First World War on New Zealanders was immense; its legacy can be seen all around us today. Richard Seddon: King of God's Own Tom Brooking, 2014-08-27 2014 Must Read Otago Daily Times. The life, the health, the intelligence and the morals of the nation count for more than riches, and I would rather have this country free from want and squalor and unemployed than the home of multi-millionaires. Richard Seddon 1905. Casting a long shadow over New Zealand history. Richard John Seddon, Premier from 1893 to his untimely death in 1906, held a clear vision for the country he led. Pushing New Zealand in more egalitarian directions than ever before, he was both the builder and the maintenance man, if not the architect of our country. Challenging popular opinion of New Zealand's longest-serving Prime Minister as a ruthless pragmatist, cunning misogynist and Imperialistic jingoist, this landmark biography of Seddon presents an altogether more sympathetic, erudite appraisal. Reconciling two generations of New Zealand scholarship, Richard Seddon: King of God's Own demonstrates that while holding fast to common ideals, Seddon was successful by mastering the art of the possible. He knew instinctively what his electorate would tolerate and remained in step with public opinion. Despite contradictions in his attitudes towards other races, he fought to ensure privilege did not become entrenched in what he envisioned as a white man's utopia. In this perceptive new evaluation, political historian Tom Brooking explains Seddon's complex relationship with Māori and shows how he, in fact, held a progressively bi-cultural vision for the future of God's Own Country. Seddon was no saint. Somewhat autocratic and given to petty nepotism, he nevertheless remains the most dominant political leader in our country's history. Internationally, his high profile within the Empire helped put New Zealand on the map. Domestically, he sought a middle ground between free market extremism and full-blown socialism. And more privately, Seddon was a devoted family man; his actions shaped much more by his supportive wife and assertive daughters than has previously been realised. Richard Seddon: King of God's Own is a superlative achievement in New Zealand history writing Absorbing wide ranging and beautifully articulated it reframes and repositions one of the founding fathers of modern New Zealand The definitive biography of one of New Zealand s most influential political leaders Paul Moon author of New Zealand in the Twentieth Century King of God s Own is a nuanced and generous assessment of our most famous Premier a man very much of his own time Gavin McLean co editor of the bestselling Frontier of Dreams The Story of New Zealand An excellent biography and a major revision of an important period in this country s history Barry Gustafson acclaimed biographer of Sir Keith Holyoake Sir Robert Muldoon and Michael Joseph Savage Also available as an eBook

Handbook of Blended Shore Education Gabriele Strohschen,2008-11-07 As we confront the future of our professional endeavors we tend to rely with confidence on longstanding and widely honored assumptions about the world and ourselves We believe we have accumulated sturdy structures of knowledge effective practices and sound values Yet we rely on these resources with scant consciousness that in the long run our assumptions practices and values may not only be inimical to the viability of our profession but as well oppressive in their effects on others There is at least one assumption common across many professions and cultures that is of particular significance It is the assumption that the world is made up of discrete entities or units There are not only the species of plants and animals for example but there is me as opposed to you us vs them my business enterprise in competition with yours our nation or religion and yours And with this assumption of separable units we assemble ways of sustaining and protecting those units of which we feel a part We erect buildings laws schools governments and armies to ensure that what is inside the boundary will flourish and what is outside cannot threaten us In effect the assumption of a world of independent entities establishes the way in which we understand and conduct ourselves within relationships

Ethics and Archaeological Praxis Cristóbal Gnecco, Dorothy Lippert, 2014-11-10 Restoring the historicity and plurality of archaeological ethics is a task to which this book is devoted its emphasis on praxis mends the historical condition of ethics In doing so it shows that nowadays a multicultural sometimes also called public ethic looms large in the discipline By engaging communities differently archaeology has explicitly adopted an ethical outlook purportedly striving to overcome its colonial ontology and metaphysics In this new scenario respect for other historical systems worldviews and social accountability appear to be prominent Being ethical in archaeological terms in the multicultural context has become mandatory so much that most professional international and national archaeological associations have ethical principles as guiding forces behind their openness towards social sectors traditionally ignored or marginalized by their practices This powerful new ethics its newness is based to a large extent in that it is the first time that archaeological ethics is explicitly stated as if it didn't exist before emanates from metropolitan centers only to be adopted elsewhere In this regard it is worth probing the very nature of the dominant multicultural ethics in disciplinary practices because a it is at least suspicious that at the same time archaeology has tuned up with postmodern capitalist market needs and b the discipline along with its ethical principles is contested worldwide by grass roots organizations and social movements Can archaeology have socially committed ethical principles at the same time that it strengthens its relationship with the market and capitalism Is this coincidence just merely haphazard or does it obey more structural rules The papers in this book try to answer these two questions by examining praxis based contexts in which archaeological ethics unfolds

Chinese Market Gardening in Australia and New Zealand Joanna Boileau, 2017-07-27 This book offers a fresh perspective on the Chinese diaspora It is about the mobilisation of knowledge across time and space exploring the history of Chinese market gardening in Australia and New Zealand It enlarges our understanding of processes of technological change and human mobility highlighting the mobility of migrants as an essential element in the mobility and adaptation of technologies Truly multidisciplinary Chinese Market Gardening in Australia and New Zealand incorporates elements of economic agricultural social cultural and environmental history along with archaeology to document how Chinese market gardeners from subtropical southern China adapted their horticultural techniques and technologies to novel environments and the demands of European consumers. It shows that they made a significant contribution to the economies of Australia and New Zealand, developing flexible strategies to cope with the vagaries of climate and changing business and social environments which were often hostile towards Asian immigrants. Chinese Market Gardening in Australia and New Zealand will appeal to students and scholars in the fields of the Chinese diaspora, in particular the history of the Chinese in Australasia, the history of technology, horticultural and garden history, and environmental history, as well as Asian studies more generally.

The Edwin Fox Boyd Cothran, Adrian Shubert, 2023-10-17. It began as a small, slow and unadorned sailing vessel in a world ordinary. Later it was a weary workhorse in the age of steam. But the story of the Edwin Fox reveals how an everyday merchant ship drew together a changing world and its people in an extraordinary age of rising empires, sweeping economic transformation, and social change. This fascinating work of global history offers a vividly detailed and engaging narrative of globalization writ small, viewed from the decks and holds of a single vessel. The Edwin Fox connected the lives and histories of millions, though most never even saw it. Built in Calcutta in 1853, the Edwin Fox was chartered by the British navy as a troop transport during the Crimean War. In the following decades it was sold, recommissioned, and refitted by an increasingly far-flung constellation of militaries and merchants. It sailed to exotic ports, carrying luxury goods, mundane wares, and all kinds of people, not just soldiers and officials but indentured laborers brought from China to Cuba, convicts, and settlers being transported from the British Empire to western Australia and New Zealand, with dire consequences for local Indigenous peoples and others. But the power of this story rests in the everyday ways people, nations, economies, and ideas were knitted together in this foundational era of our modern world.
