Beaumont,2013-01-17 Childhood in Ancient Athens offers an in depth study of children during the heyday of the Athenian city state thereby illuminating a significant social group largely ignored by most ancient and modern authors alike It concentrates not only on the child s own experience but also examines the perceptions of children and childhood by Athenian society these perceptions variously exhibit both similarities and stark contrasts with those of our own 21st century Western society The study covers the juvenile life course from birth and infancy through early and later childhood and treats these life stages according to the topics of nurture play education work cult and ritual and death In view of the scant ancient Greek literary evidence pertaining to childhood Beaumont focuses on the more copious ancient visual representations of children in Athenian pot painting sculpture and terracotta modelling Notably this is the first full length monograph in English to address the iconography of childhood in ancient Athens and it breaks important new ground by rigorously analysing and evaluating classical art to reconstruct childhood s social history With over 120 illustrations the book provides a rich visual as well as narrative resource for the history of childhood in classical antiquity

The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology of Childhood Sally Crawford, Dawn Hadley, Gillian Shepherd, 2018-05-10 Real understanding of past societies is not possible without including children and yet they have been strangely invisible in the archaeological record Compelling explanation about past societies cannot be achieved without including and investigating children and childhood However marginal the traces of children's bodies and bricolage may seem compared to adults archaeological evidence of children and childhood can be found in the most astonishing places and spaces The archaeology of childhood is one of the most exciting and challenging areas for new discovery about past societies Children are part of every human society but childhood is a cultural construct Each society develops its own idea about what a childhood should be what children can or should do and how they are trained to take their place in the world Children also play a part in creating the archaeological record itself In this volume experts from around the world ask questions about childhood thresholds of age and growth childhood in the material culture the death of children and the intersection of the childhood and the social economic religious and political worlds of societies in the past

Infancy and Earliest Childhood in the Roman World Maureen Carroll, 2018-03-01 Despite the developing emphasis in current scholarship on children in Roman culture there has been relatively little research to date on the role and significance of the youngest children within the family and in society This volume singles out this youngest age group the under one year olds in the first comprehensive study of infancy and earliest childhood to encompass the Roman Empire as a whole integrating social and cultural history with archaeological evidence funerary remains material culture and the iconography of infancy it explores how the very particular historical circumstances into which Roman children were born affected their lives as well as prevailing attitudes towards them Examination of these varied strands of evidence drawn from throughout the Roman world from the fourth century BC to the third century AD allows the rhetoric about earliest childhood in Roman texts to be more broadly contextualized and reveals the socio cultural developments that took place in parent child relationships over this period Presenting a fresh perspective on archaeological and historical debates the volume refutes the notion that high infant mortality conditioned Roman parents not to engage in the early life of their children or to view them or their deaths with indifference and concludes that even within the first weeks and months of life Roman children were invested with social and gendered identities and were perceived as having both personhood and value within society

Runes Across the North Sea from the Migration Period and Beyond Livia Kaiser, 2021-09-20 The scattered research history of the Old Frisian runic inscriptions dating to the early Medieval period ca AD 400 1000 calls for a comprehensive and systematic reprocessing of these objects within their socio cultural context and against the backdrop of the Old English Runic tradition This book presents an annotated edition of 24 inscriptions found in the modern day Netherlands England and Germany It provides the reader with an introduction to runological methodology a linguistic commentary on the features attested in the inscriptions and a detailed catalogue which outlines the find history of each object and summarizes previous and new interpretations supplemented by pictures and drawings This book additionally explores the question of Frisian identity and an independent Frisian runic writing tradition and its relation to the contemporary Anglo Saxon runic culture In its entirety this work provides a rich basis for future research in the field of runic writing around the North Sea and may therefore be of interest to scholars of historical linguistics and early Medieval history and archaeology

The Regional Production of Red Figure Pottery Stine Schierup,Victoria Sabetai,2014-10-27 In the latter part of the fifth century BC regional red figure productions were established outside Attica in regional Greece and in the western Mediterranean propelled by the impact of the art of Attic vase painting This collection of papers addresses key issues posed by these production centres Why did they emerge To what degree was their inception prompted by the emigration of Attic craftsmen in the context of the weakened Attic pottery market at the onset of the Peloponnesian War How did Attic vase painting influence already existing traditions and what was selected adopted or adapted at the receiving end Who was using red figure in mainland Greece and Italy and what were its particular functions in the local cultures These and more questions are addressed here with the presentation not only of syntheses but also primary publication of much newly discovered material Regional production centres covered include those of Euboea Boeotia Corinth Laconia Macedonia Ambracia Lucania Apulia Sicily Locri and Etruria
