Patrons, Partisans, and Palace Intrigues Christoph Rosenmüller, 2008 Palace intrigues and clientelism drove politics at the viceregal court of colonial Mexico By carefully reconstructing social networks in the court of Viceroy Duke of Albuquerque 1702 1710 Christoph Rosenm ller reveals that the Duke presided over one of the most corrupt viceregal terms in Mexican history Albuquerque was appointed by Spain s King Philip V at a time when expanding state power was beginning to meet with opposition in colonial Mexico The Duke and his retainers though seemingly working for the crown actually built close alliances with locals to thwart the reform efforts emanating from Spain Albuquerque collaborated with contraband traders and opposed the secularization of Indian parishes He persecuted several local craftsmen and merchants some of whom died after languishing in jail accusing them of treason to bolster his own credentials as a loyal official In the end however the dominant clique at the royal court in Madrid sought revenge Albuquerque was forced to pay an unheard of indemnity of 700 000 silver pesos to regain the king s favour Dealing with a topic and period largely ignored by historiography Rosenm ller exposes the vast patronage power of the viceroy at the historical watershed between the expiring Habsburg dynasty and the incoming Bourbon rulers His analysis reveals that precursors of the Bourbon reforms and the struggle for Mexican independence were already at play in the early eighteenth century International Review of Social History ,2004

Response Leendert Andrew de Bell,2005 In a world that has become increasingly interconnected over the past decades economically politically socially and culturally new challenges are posed to development Since the 1980s development has increasingly become interpreted in terms of increasing integration into the world economy Export oriented manufacturing became widely viewed as the surest recipe for realizing economic growth while reducing income inequality and the role of foreign direct investments became increasingly important in development strategies worldwide However not every region industry and social group managed to become successfully integrated into the world economy In order to explain why these processes of economic restructuring have had such a differential impact this study situates developments within a wider historical social and political context to establish how these processes of globalization are mediated at the regional and local level The main object of study concerns the drastic socioeconomic transformation that has taken place in the state of Coahuila situated in the northeast of Mexico bordering the United States over the past three decades In particular since the start of NAFTA in 1994 Coahuila has become one of Mexico's most successful export oriented manufacturing states most importantly as a result of the large number of foreign direct investments it received However the effects of these developments have been unevenly distributed among its sub regions while questions must also be raised about its ability to contribute to sustained long term growth with equity The key issue appears to be not whether but how regions and localities become linked to the world economy page 4 of cover
