biographical and bibliographical notes and comprehensive indexes Falling into Grace John Newton, 2016-04-01 Jesus was quite clear that we must lose our life before we find it This book gives a hopeful and realistic look at what losing our life entails articulating how growth in the Christian life is not our ascent to God but the process by which our eyes are opened to the beauty God has already given to us It is a book about descending into God and into our own inner depths about the deep waters of the Christian faith Put out into the deep and let your nets down for a catch Luke 5:4 We live in a world that values productivity and success and we vainly imagine that God expects us to be spiritually productive and successful too It doesn't matter how much we talk about grace our conversation is often narrowly focused on what we need to do for God so much so that we often block the work God longs to do in us This book does not articulate God's work as a process by which we become spiritually strong but rather as the process by which we embrace our weakness as the place where we most fully experience God's perfect strength 2 Corinthians 12:9 The City and the Grassroots Manuel Castells, 1983 Creation, God, and Humanity Catherine Wright, 2017 Examines the history and development of ecological theological anthropology and how it engages human suffering so that people of faith can better understand the suffering inherent to earth's creative processes and that inflicted by human sin National Library of Medicine Audiovisuals Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), Jews and the Cults, 1981
