Spur Of Fame:

Fame is the Spur Howard Spring,1966 Friendship and Healing Sheila Dickman Zarrow,2010 Sheila Zarrow writes Dr Joseph Henderson was mentor to me for many years until his death in 2007 at age 104 He felt a deep connection to American history was most interested in John Adams and had spent some time on Benjamin Rush s farm When I told Henderson about how I had spent three years meditating at the foot of Adams s statue in Worcester Massachusetts he enthusiastically encouraged me to study Adams a study that led me also to Rush My journey into their world ran parallel to my journey inward and the many synchronicities that came together with the writing of Friendship and Healing are testimony to the eternal nature of the living psyche The letters of John Adams and Benjamin Rush depict the friendship that grew between the two as the course of history brought change into their lives and forced them to change themselves Of particular interest are the dreams both men described in their letters and the evidence Zarrow has uncovered about how they considered the effects of their dreams Rush in his seminal text on medicine wrote that dreaming is as much a native faculty as memory or imagination Dreams have meaning well beyond the personal and the present They have roots and tendrils that stretch throughout the unknown inner world of our psyches While we sleep they make connections between our lives and the lives of others throughout history back through mythology and out to the eternal Friendship and Healing explores one bright thread in the history of our country through the letters and dreams of two men who were there at the beginning The Spur of Fame John Adams,2000 John Adams and Benjamin Rush were two remarkably different men who shared a devotion to liberty Their dialogues on the implications of fame for their generation prove remarkably timely even for the twenty first century Adams and Rush championed very different views on the nature of the American Revolution and of the republic established with the United States Constitution yet they shared one of the most important correspondences of their time Their recurring subject was fame This emphasis on fame was crucial Adams and Rush believed because on the fame attached to individual leaders of the Revolutionary generation would depend the view of the Revolution and of the Constitution and republican government that would be embraced by generations to come including our own Francisci Baconi Baronis de Verulamio ...
