for Sustainable Change Linda Kuk, James H. Banning, Marilyn J. Amey, 2023-07-03 At a time of increasing student diversity concern about security demand for greater accountability and of economic difficulty what does the future hold for higher education and how can student affairs organizations adapt to the increasing and changing demands How can university leaders position existing resources to effectively address these and other emerging challenges with a sense of opportunity rather than dread How can organizations be redesigned to sustain change while achieving excellence As student affairs organizations have grown and become increasingly complex in order to meet new demands they have often emphasized the expansion of their missions to the detriment of focusing on understanding their roles in relationship to other units to reviewing their cultures and structures and to considering how they can improve their effectiveness as organizations This book provides the tools for organizational analysis and sustainability Intended for practitioners graduate students interns and student affairs leaders this book presents the key ideas and concepts from business oriented organizational behavior and change theories and demonstrates how they can be useful in and be applied to student affairs practice and in particular how readers can use these theories to sustain change and enhance their organization s ability to adapt to complex emerging challenges At the same time it holds to values and perspectives that support the human dimension of organizational life Recognizing the complexity of today s organizations and the value of viewing them from multiple perspectives this book follows the emerging practice of providing three general epistemological perspectives the Positivist Social Constructionist and Postmodernist for analyzing often paradoxical organizational structures environments and behavior The book explores the environmental context of student affairs and how the organization interacts with both the internal and external environments examines the human dimension of organizations through a review of individual attributes human need and motivation social comparison theory and organizational learning theory presents the dimensions of structure and design theory and discusses why student affairs organizations need to think differently about how they organize their resources considers the context and process of organizational change and the dynamics of decision making power conflict and communication addresses the role of assessment and evaluation and new forms of leadership Each chapter opens with a case study and closes with a set of reflective questions The authors have all served as practitioners within student affairs and now teach and advise graduate students and future leaders in the field      Marketing 2000 and Beyond William Lazer, Priscilla La Barbera, James M. MacLachlan, Allen E. Smith, 2012-03-15      Writing as Performance Georgina Gabor, 2022-07-05 The third millennium confronts academics of all disciplines of study with the exigency of addressing their emergent dilemmas as professionals in their fields through scholarly publications This volume finds an outlet for such expressiveness in autoethnography which helps to emancipate individuals institutions and societies through creating authentic relations between scholars and their writing It explores the new relationships between scholars and their writing which the worldwide context of the SarsCov2 pandemic forced into being The contributions here describe personal experiences related to the changes in their authors approach to work in general and to writing in particular with an eye to how they may shed light upon the cultural and social dynamics upon the whole The authors offer implicit criticism of the newly constructed social reality

European Organised Crime Scenarios for 2015 Tom Vander Beken, 2006

Policy makers no longer focus on repressive aspects of organised crime alone but want to be informed about coming challenges and threats to allow them to take appropriate preventive action and target their reactive response better For that reason there is a growing demand to change the traditional assessments into analyses that include more prospective elements about current and potential future organised crime situations to identify specific risks or threats to society The book outlines a methodology to perform analyses of long term threats of organised crime and scenario studies and applies this on four case studies at two different levels three studies at Member State level Belgium Slovenia and Sweden and one at the European Union level In a last chapter conclusions and recommendations about the method and its applications are presented The developed methodological tool and the scenarios are intended as a guide for action and consideration for all actors involved in the fight against organised crime
