Supporting Bereaved and Dying Children and Their Parents Martin Herbert, 1997 Supporting bereaved and dying children and their parents Parent adolescent and child training skills no 10 Supporting Dying Children and their Families Paul Nash, 2011-01-20 This practical guide offers invaluable and sensitive advice for all who work alongside terminally ill children their families and families who have been bereaved Paul Nash helpfully describes the different types of care that are needed depending on the age of the child from baby to teenager and on the particular needs of the child s family He also provides resources to help with remembering and celebrating the life of a child including rituals that can be used in preparation for death at the time of death and at funeral or memorial services

Supporting Bereaved Children in the Primary Classroom Emma L. Palastanga, Poppy Gibson, Marie Greenhalgh, 2025-11-11 Children experience a range of emotions during their time in primary school however bereavement is both unique and challenging This book seeks to enable adults working with children to be prepared for this part of life's journey and ready to support the child affected by the death of their loved one. This accessible book explores topics that may have not been fully explored during teacher training, including defining loss, grief and bereavement, looking at different models of grief, identifying how grief affects children and investigating how the differing needs of minority groups can be met. Focussed on delivering practical and hands-on guidance, readers are presented with expert advice and case studies from the classroom to understand how to create an effective childhood bereavement policy. Whilst supporting a bereaved child is crucial, the emotional toll on the adult should not be underestimated and this book offers applied self-care strategies tailored for educators. A resource bank with contact details for specialist childhood bereavement organisations is also included for quick reference in a crisis. The authors also make suggestions for play-based activities and guided tasks using high-quality texts for school adults to use in small groups or with the whole class. This is a much-needed resource for every classroom to best support young people experiencing anxiety, depression and mental health issues after facing a death. This book gives primary teachers, school leaders and staff the confidence to build learning environments that nurture and support students through this difficult time.

What Do We Tell the Children? Joseph M. Primo, 2013-09-17. One out of seven children will lose a parent before they are 20. The statistics are sobering, but they are also a call for preparedness. However, pastors and counselors of all types are often at a loss when dealing with a grieving child. Talking to adults about death and grief is difficult; it's all the more challenging to talk to children and teens. The stakes are high: grieving children are high risk for substance abuse, promiscuity, depression, isolation, and suicide. Yet despite this, most of these kids grow up to be normal or exceptional adults. But their chance to become healthy adults increases with the support of a loving community. Supporting grieving children requires intentionality, open communication, and patience. Rather than avoid all conversations on death or pretend like it never happened, normalizing grief and offering support requires us to be in tune with kids through dialogue as they grapple with questions of how and why. When listening to children in grief, we often have to embrace the mystery, offer love and compassion, and stick with the basics. The author says, "We don't have to answer the why and how for them, but we can assure our children that God is with us as we suffer. We can do so by doing good for others and pointing out all of those moments when someone has done something good for us. I believe that most of the time that's as far as we will get, and that is okay."

Helping Children and Adolescents Think about Death, Dying and Bereavement Marian Carter, 2016-07-01. How can children begin to understand death and cope with bereavement? And how can we as adults support and engage with children as they encounter this complex subject? Exploring how children and adolescents can engage with all aspects of death, dying, and bereavement, this comprehensive guide looks at how children comprehend the death of a pet or someone close to them, their own dying, bereavement, and grieving. It covers how you should discuss death with children, with a particular emphasis on the importance of listening to the child and adapting your approach based on their responses. The book offers guidance on how your own experiences of loss can provide
