Supportive Care In Cancer Patients:

Issues in Supportive Care of Cancer Patients Donald J. Higby, 2011-10-12 Cancer in Context James Brennan, Clare Moynihan, 2004 This book offers healthcare professionals academics and anyone affected by cancer a fresh and original approach to the supportive care of people with cancer It looks at the underlying reasons why cancer so often leads to high levels of distress and more importantly it suggests many practical ways distress can be minimised and prevented The actual experiences of cancer patients as recorded in their personal diaries are combined with theory research and practical clinical advice In each of its seven chapters Cancer in Context takes a different perspective towards supportive care in cancer It begins by considering how people in general manage and adjust to massive changes in their lives and in particular how they react to the threat of cancer It goes on to examine the lived experience of people with cancer as they negotiate the many changes and challenges that follow their diagnosis Of course cancer doesn't only affect the person who has the disease it also impacts on families partners and carers One chapter explores these and other issues such as sexual difficulties the needs of older people single people and gay and lesbian couples Chapter 4 shows that the social and cultural context of a person's life is critical to understanding their resources the way they are treated and the responses they make to serious illness However it is in the clinical context that professionals have an opportunity to minimise disruption to their patients quality of life as they endure the notorious demands of oncology treatments The book offers practical clinical advice on psychosocial aspects of conventional cancer treatments common treatment difficulties cancer rehabilitation and palliative care Chapter 6 provides a summary of the burgeoning area of information and communication skills within healthcare and finally the book ends by considering how doctors nurses radiographers and other healthcare professionals can maintain their supportive care in light of such high levels of stress and burnout among these staff groups Supportive Care in Cancer Patients Hans-Jorg Senn, Agnes Glaus, Luzius Schmid, 1988-05-30 Supportive Care in Cancer Patients II Hans-Jörg Senn, Agnes

Glaus, 2012-12-06 The second international symposium on Supportive Care in Cancer Patients took place March 1-3 1990 again in St Gallen in eastern Switzerland It was an honor once more to welcome dozens of internationally recognized experts in the field and more than 800 participants from over 30 countries around the world Australia Canada China USSR USA and many countries in Europe The international nature of the grade facilitated lively and exciting contributions and critical discussions aimed at fostering professional knowledge and skills and rethinking our personal attitudes toward cancer patients in all stages of their disease Cancer patients need various types of tailored support whether during active initial curative therapies in phases of worrying relapsing disease or during the demanding terminal stage of their illness The symposium tried to bridge the strange gap between curative and palliative cancer care it must be our aim to be and remain supportive for our patients during both curative and palliative treatment strategies This requires extended knowledge and even more and flexible professional skills The symposium was designed to promote improved approaches that are helpful and supportive for all our oncology patients not just for a selected disease or stage dependent minority Supportive Care in Cancer Therapy David S. Ettinger,2014-03-14 In this volume Supportive Care in Cancer Therapy a part of the Cancer Drug Discovery and Development series the contributors provide an up to date concise review of specific consequences of cancer and its treatment The book will assist those who care for the cancer patient to better understand all of the consequences of cancer and its treatment In addition the reader will gain thoughtful information on the care of the older patient as well as the dying patient Supportive Care in Cancer Therapy David S. Ettinger,2009-01-07 Supportive care of the cancer patient begins with the diagnosis of cancer and terminates with the end of life The supportive care is for symptoms related to the cancer and or its treatment physical psychosocial and emotional issues associated with the cancer Patients with cancer in general are living longer Even those with advanced metastatic disease have an increase in their survival This in part is due to better therapies novel treatments and the multimodality approaches to treating many cancers In Supportive Care in Cancer Therapy edited by David Ettinger the contributors provide an up to date concise review of specific consequences of cancer and its treatment The chapters will allow the reader to better understand the sequelae associated with all aspects of cancer and how to treat them in order to achieve control of symptoms and provide psychosocial care to improve the quality of life of the cancer patient In addition the reader will gain information on the care of the older patient as well as the dying patient

Supportive Care in Cancer Patients Meinolf Karthaus,Arnold Ganser,2000 This book attempts to cover the most frequent problems of supportive care in detail especially the prevention diagnosis and treatment of infections adverse events in the gastrointestinal tract and the treatment of cytotoxic drug extravasation with special consideration of recently introduced cytotoxic agents The rational use of hematopoietic growth factors for the reversal of disease or treatment related neutropenia anemia and thrombocytopenia are discussed extensively Further issues considered include anticoagulant prophylaxis quality of life and recent advances in the use of effective antiemetics which have increased the tolerability of standard chemotherapy and radiotherapy and have opened up new ways of enhancing treatment Supportive care requires an interdisciplinary approach This book therefore is designed to provide an up to date overview for oncologists as well as general physicians nurses pharmacists and all those giving care to cancer patients The UK Association of Supportive Care in Cancer Handbook of Supportive Oncology Richard Berman,Ben Heyworth,Ashique Ahamed,2025-05-19 What does supportive oncology do that palliative care doesn't already do Answering that question forms part of the rationale behind this text Supportive oncology is delivered across the whole cancer experience from diagnosis through treatment to post treatment care and so necessitates the involvement of most clinical specialties and many non clinical services Palliative care which focuses on advanced disease and end of life has a special and important role within this broader and longer term scope of supportive care in cancer This handbook defines the new and emerging specialty of supportive oncology and equips the workforce with the appropriate skill sets Providing personalized and targeted treatments consistent with the stage of disease A focus on preservation and improvement in quality of life Affecting survival and the quality of that survival Permitting the use of the most effective anti cancer agents Assisting in accurate diagnosis and management Supportive

Care in Cancer Patients Hans-Jörg Senn, Agnes Glaus, Luzius Schmid, 1988-05-30 The symposium on supportive care in cancer patients which took place in St Gallen Switzerland on February 18 21 1987 welcomed renowned experts in the field and more than 600 participants from 25 countries with the aim of stimulating discussion on how to improve our professional skills and personal attitudes toward cancer patients in all stages of their disease Why did we organize such a symposium on supportive care in cancer patients Recent decades have witnessed remarkable success in cancer treatment and we have learned how to cure a finite number of neoplastic diseases Some malignant tumors that previously entailed high fatality rates such as leukemias lymphomas and testicular cancers can now be cured even when at an advanced stage Yet it seems to many that our struggle to improve results and to fight death from cancer has also imposed greater toxicity on patients Conventional scientifically based oncology has only recently made adequate efforts to improve the subjective quality of life of cancer patients for example through prophylaxis against emesis nausea and scalp hypothermia pain control and the development of psychosocial support structures The search for less toxic and yet equally effective treatment measures has not been one of our primary goals in the past Supportive care has always been part of nurses professional aim even though many have not known how best to offer it Supportive Care in Cancer Patients II Hans-Jörg Senn, Agnes Glaus, 1991-03-28 The second international symposium on Supportive Care in Cancer Patients took place March 1 3 1990 again in St Gallen in eastern Switzerland It was an honor once more to welcome dozens of internationally recognized experts in the field and more than 800 participants from over 30 countries around the world Australia Canada China USSR USA and many countries in Europe The international nature of the grade facilitated lively and exciting contributions and critical discussions aimed at fostering professional knowledge and skills and rethinking our personal attitudes toward cancer patients in all stages of their disease Cancer patients need various types of tailored support whether during active initial curative therapies in phases of worrying relapsing disease or during the demanding terminal stage of their illness The symposium tried to bridge the strange gap between curative and palliative cancer care it must be our aim to be and remain supportive for our patients during both curative and palliative treatment strategies This requires extended knowledge and even more and flexible professional skills The symposium was designed to promote improved approaches that are helpful and supportive for all our oncology patients not just for a selected disease or stage dependent minority The Cancer Patient and Supportive Care Donald J. Higby, 2012-12-06 During the course of editing Supportive Care in Cancer Therapy Martinus Nijhoff Publishers 1983 it became apparent that several topics would have to await a second volume Furthermore development of new information and evolution of ideas continues This volume continues the intent of the first to present reviews of issues relating to supportive care and to identify areas where further definition and further research is needed The physician reading this volume will find the contents though provoking In addition to reviews authored by physicians there are chapters authored by non physicians who present a different perspective and a different style of writing Reverend Bigler writes from his long experience as a chaplain for cancer patients and tries to identify the changes that take place in the personality of the chaplain who works with dying patients Ms Kil lion and Ms Powell try to describe what an Oncology Nurse is rather than what one does Attorneys Reese and Price present a very practical summation of issues which face the cancer patient and their chapter could easily be copied and offered to one's patients furthermore this chapter gives direction to the physician who is frequently called upon for advice regarding issues which lie entirely outside his/her formal training Excellent reviews on more medical subjects are here Cancer in the Elderly should provoke oncologists to re-examine their approach to the geriatric patient
