Surface Tension Poems:

Surface Tension and Other Poems David James Murray, 2008-11-14 The 145 short poems in this volume deal with certain problems concerning human relationships that seem particularly frequent in the western industrialized world at the present time The volume starts with a collection of 117 poems entitled SURFACE TENSION Monologues in which the author relates his inner states of emotion to events in Nature are alternated with shorter and more lyrical poems In the first movement the sea is used to symbolize conflicts between men and women in a partnership In the second movement the earth is used to symbolize conflicts within an individual over how far he or she should allow intellectual concerns to win out over romantic concerns or vice versa In the third movement air and sky are used to symbolize the states of relative peace interspersed with moments of storm that can arise in a relationship between two people with similar ideals In the second collection entitled MISCELLANEOUS POEMS the unifying undercurrent is the poet's interest in how his own romantic conflicts influence the style and form of the individual poems associated with those conflicts

Surface Tension Alice Stevenson, 2005-08 Surface Tension is an edgy debut anthology of poetry surrounding the theme of self injury The book contains 33 poems that vary in length and style but that contribute to a well rounded collection that showcases the author's work Surface Tension is about denial despair and ultimately the hope of a better future

Surface Tension Derek Beaulieu, 2022-09-06 Typography meets poetry at a Pink Floyd laser light show In Surface Tension poetry is liquefied Flowing away from meaning letters and words gather and pool into puddles of poetry street signs and logos reflected in the oily sheen of polluted gutters of rainwater Like a funhouse mirror reflecting the language that surrounds us the pages drip over the margins suggesting that Madge was right we are soaking in it Surface Tension updates visual poetry for our post pandemic age asking us rethink the verbiage around us to imagine letters as images instead of text to find meaning in their beautiful shapes as Beaulieu stretches torques slides blurs and melts them into Dali esque collages Not words letters not letters shapes not shapes figures not figures ciphers not ciphers ornaments not ornaments decoration not decoration semiotics not semiotics communicative possibilities not vagrant potential slowly forming inflection not melting deflection language as dance in out upside down flapping flipping all ways round Charles Bernstein recipient 2019 Bollingen Prize for American Poetry The striking compositions you'll find in Surface Tension are being presented sequentially in book form yet that they wouldn't be out of place hanging on the wall goes without saying Beaulieu swerves Gomringer when writing that Readability is the key like a logo a poem should be instantly recognizable yet to this reader these works merit sustained and enthusiastic viewing precisely because they teeter on the edge of legibility The kinetic glitchy quality of their alphabetic strangeness keeps them unrecognizable as poems and here that is poetry as I need it to quote Cage Think of them as anti advertisings selling you nothing but bountiful manifestations of the irreducible plasticity of numbers punctuation marks and letter forms No logos M nica de la Torre Madelon Leventhal

Rand Endowed Chair in Literature Brooklyn College co editor of Women in Concrete Poetry 1959 1979 With his distinctive visual palindromes and angled axes of symmetry Derek Beaulieu has developed a signature mastery of Letraset leveraging the twentieth century technology as a vehicle for bring concrete poetry into the twenty first century With Surface Tension Beaulieu takes the possibilities of that new idiom even further unsettling the fixity his symmetries once reinforced and dislodging the set in Letraset as poems distort in fun house mirror swerves sag as if under their own weight pool and smear in the liquid logic of heated ink or swoop and blur as if in motion In the process these poems make visible the filmic potential of the photocopier the facture of abraded transfers from brittle stock and the three dimensional substrate of the page with its flexible bends in curving space These are thus poems in part about their own modes of production They are beautiful products of a self aware and intelligent process Craig Dworkin author of Radium of the Word A Poetics of Materiality When most of the language we consume is non poetic should poetry not attempt to poetically intervene within these spaces that are not traditionally poetic The answer to Derek Beaulieu's question put forward in his beautiful essay is surely yes the ten brilliantly adventurous visual poems in his Surface Tension make a startling case for his fascinating Letraset photocopier inventions Beaulieu's compositions originate in a place of clean design and logical narrative soon as in a dream they open up ushering in what he calls a poetry of difference chance eruption Marcel Duchamp would have called it the poetry of the infrathin watch Simple Symmetry or Dendrochronology open up and come alive in their minutely evolving new spaces This is quite simply an enchanting book a book producing new pleasures with each turn of the page Marjorie Perloff Sadie Dernham Patek Professor of Humanities Emerita Stanford University

Surface Tension Stephanie Conybeare, 2013-08 Surface Tension Stephanie Conybeare's second collection of poems presents a narrative comprised of individual stories and voices which together describe a journey a life's journey punctuated and defined by transition a perpetual encountering and negotiating of borderlands transition points requiring a metamorphic response Faced by uncertainty the stranger the outsider finds that alienation is also a state of grace offering the freedom and the safety of being free for all faces Life lived in translation shifting shape and identity is chronicled by memory which transcends its own surface tension with a metaphysics of mystery deepening like the blue of the sky into midnight blue then midnight

Surface Tension Julie Carr, 2013-04-23 Taking Dante Gabriel Rossetti William Morris and Gerard Manley Hopkins as its primary subjects Surface Tension reveals how these later Victorian poets repeatedly imagine the aesthetic moment charged variegated intensely focused as capable of birthing a new and newly redemptive culture Turning to contemporary experimental poets and theorists of poetry such as Andrew Joron Lisa Robertson Christopher Nealon and Joan Retallack it goes on to reveal how our own poetry's fascination with complex surfaces and imagined social transformation has deep and under recognized ties to Victorian concepts Surface Tension offers new insights into the debt we owe to the most radical of the Victorians while yielding new understandings of how late Victorian poetry even when least explicitly political engages and often re envisions the period's pressing anxieties about social progress decadence and revolution

Celebrations and Other Poems J. Murray David J. Murray, David J. Murray, 2009-11 Explore the feelings of a man who is like many others He feels guilty about being attracted to someone other than his wife It's during these moments that he clamps down on his desires knowing that it could endanger his marriage and family life But still his responsibilities as a parent have him wishing he could escape into the arms of another Find out how he battles through his urges in this book's first selection of poems titled Trepidations With moving candor he delves into his moments of mental infidelity to his wife The poet follows that up with Celebrations a second grouping of poems in which he expresses his appreciation to his loving wife Using a stylistic approach dubbed cosmopolitan formalism these poems are meant to appeal to all people regardless of their gender sexuality or background Weed through the tricky problems of a serious relationship and find a love that lasts in Celebrations and Other Poems

Black Hole and Other Poems David J. Murray, 2012-02-03 Black Hole and Other Poems a new compilation of verse by poet David Murray focuses on the role played by hunger for power in reducing the success of heterosexual romantic relationships Divided into four parts this collection explores the topic in a wide variety of styles and approaches The first part of the collection Poems in a Lighter Vein interprets the familiar vampire story as being an allegory of common male fantasies of having power over many brides and most of its verses are satirical in nature The second part Black Hole contains examples based upon Murray's experiences of the personal power all too easily abused exerted by men over women Treading Water the third part describes Murray's feelings when he found himself forced to compete with a male rival to see which of the two could exert the most power over a particular female's affections In the fourth and final part Bagatelles each poem attempts to arouse in only two lines core emotional responses of the kind that are usually assumed to require longer poems Satirical gutsy and succinct by
