Surfacing Sadness A Centennial Of Korean American Literature 1903-2003:

Surfacing Sadness Yŏn-hong Ch'oe, Haeng-ja Kim, 2003 Surfacing Sadness is an anthology of poems, essays and short stories by thirty seven Korean American writers. Anger and Change in Korean American Literature Brian Willems, 2025-03-21 This book illustrates how Korean American novels and poetry use anger to enact change foregrounding the various ways it can pinpoint injustice and suggest alternatives. Experiences of the forgotten Korean War, Korean military mediated immigration to the US in the twentieth century and the role of Korean Americans in some of the largest upheavals in American history all inform a specific relation to anger and both its expression and use in Korean American literature. Through various texts comprised of both poetry and prose from authors including Steph Cha, Cathy Park Hong, Eugene Lim and Yongsoo Park, Willems highlights how anger is seen to function in some contexts as a positive fulcrum for change.

Encyclopedia of Asian-American Literature Seiwoong Oh, 2015-04-22 Presents a reference on Asian American literature providing profiles of Asian American writers and their works. Korean and Korean American Life Writing in Hawai'i Heui-Yung Park, 2015-12-16 Korean and Korean American Life Writing in Hawai'i examines such self-representing genres as lyric poems, oral history, autobiography and memoirs written by Korean and Korean Americans from the early twentieth century to the present in order to explore how these people have shaped their individual or collective identities. Their representations produced in different periods by successive generations reveal how Koreans in their diaspora to Hawai'i came to terms with their ethnic and local selves and also how the sense of who and what they are changed over the years both within and beyond the initial generation. Looking into their individual and collective identities in lyric poems, oral history, autobiography and memoirs reveals how the earliest arrivals, their children and their grandchildren have come to terms with their national, ethnic and local selves and how their sense of identity changes over the course of time both within and beyond the initial generation. In the lyric poems found in Korean language periodicals of the native born generation we can trace the significance of the motherland and Hawai'i for these writers' sense of identity. The oral histories of first generation women, most of whom arrived as picture brides, also represent another us, often vulnerable Koreans who define themselves in relation to both the present culture and to Korean men. The self developed by the second, third and in-between generation Koreans diversifies because their identity is not defined exclusively by their ancestral land extending to Hawai'i and to America. This study focuses on three main areas of emphasis: Hawai'i, Korean language and culture, and life writing. By tracing how identity changes with each generation, this study reveals how identity formation for Hawai'i diasporic Koreans has evolved.

I Want to Hijack an Airplane Sŭng-hŭi Kim, 2004 Kim Seung Hee's poetry is a blend of rigorous intellectualism and lyricism that borders on the sentimental. Uprising which took place in May 1980 when paratroopers brutally broke up a group of protesters who demonstrated against General Chun Doo-hwan's acceptance of the Korean presidency. People who lived in the Gwangju and South Jeolla provinces fought the paratroopers insisting that martial law be abolished. During the event now known as the Gwangju Uprising, 191 people perished and 852 were wounded. Here Choi Jung-woon explores the ramifications of this pivotal day in Korea's modern history on the country's society, economy, and politics. Rather than give a traditional historical narrative of the event, he gives an in-depth analysis of the participants' mentalities and incentives and the type of the brutality involved in the uprising. He also examines the stages the participants went through during the uprising from the calm and togetherness they felt before the event to the uprising's turmoil and then a return to peace after the event. The author analyzes various discourses related to the uprising, looking into the ideological underpinnings of those who commented on the uprising, labor movements, and political relationships in Korea.

Korea's Pastimes and Customs I-hwa Yi, 2006. The book explores the favorite pastimes and customs of the Korean people under the Great Empire from the late 14th century to 1910 when Korea was occupied by Japan. Some of the popular games discussed include Baduk, the Korean version of Go, a strategic board game for two players; Janggi, the Korean version of chess; and Yutnori, a game played with four short sticks. The author also discusses games played by young boys, e.g., flying kites, and young girls, e.g., hide and seek; men, e.g., archery; and women, e.g., seesaw, and pastimes enjoyed by both sexes, e.g., tug of war. Lee examines the origin of family names and common people's obsession with genealogy during the Joseon dynasty. He also discusses the important ceremonies celebrating milestones in one's life as well as ceremonies associated with various holidays on the calendar. The last segment of the book is devoted to people's interest in fortune telling. The author discusses behaviors that were considered taboo and the various ways people tried to predict their future.

Korean Drama Under Japanese Occupation Ch'i-jin Yu, Man-sik Ch'ae, 2004. From 1910 to 1945 Japan occupied Korea and controlled every aspect of the Korean life. This book presents three plays by two prominent Korean writers who ventured to voice anti-Japanese sentiments in their plays despite the harsh censorship of the time.
