Surfing The Zeitgeist:

Surfing the Zeitgeist Gilbert Adair, 1997 Surfing the Zeitgeist is a collection of essays by Britain's preeminent post-modernist. Confronted with a world in which too much is changing too fast, the attitude of most British critics is simply to ignore the fact that today's culture is in a state of constant ebullience and continues turning out or churning out week after week, month after month, the kind of article a complacent conflation of artistic impressions that could have been written thirty, fifty, or a hundred years ago. Gilbert Adair is a critic with a difference. Witty, perspicacious, and in love with language, he is prepared to engage with the multifarious realities of our culture in the least restricted sense of the word. He is prepared to embrace them if not unconditionally, then at least without encumbering himself with any twinges of nostalgia for the past's redundant credos and repertoires. The essays, which make up this collection on subjects as various as postmodernism and pop music, AIDS and art movies, Tintin and the Titanic, thus constitute a uniquely stimulating record of the nineties and, like the cool, glinting surfaces of a Calder mobile, reflect the most significant fragments of our cultural agenda.

The Science and Culture of Surfing David M. Kennedy, 2025-03-29 This volume explores all aspects of surfing from the underlying physics of waves, the shape of wave breaks, through to the development of surf culture and its influence on society. It explores the links between science and engineering, with arts, sociology, and economics, all through the lens of surfing. The book provides the one-stop location of knowledge on this global sport, bringing together the leading researchers in the field in a coherent framework. The book will appeal to undergraduate students and the general public and will cater to readers from all backgrounds due to its transdisciplinary reach.

Meaning and International Relations Peter Mandaville, Andrew Williams, 2015-04-15 This innovative volume brings together specialists in international relations to tackle a set of difficult questions about what it means to live in a globalized world where the purpose and direction of world politics are no longer clear-cut. What emerges from these essays is a very clear sense that while we may be living in an era that lacks a single universal purpose, ours is still a world replete with meaning. The authors in this volume stress the need for a pluralistic conception of meaning in a globalized world and demonstrate how increased communication and interaction in transnational spaces work to produce complex tapestries of culture and politics. Meaning and International Relations also makes an original and convincing case for the relevance of hermeneutic approaches to understanding contemporary international relations.

Surfing and Social Theory Nicholas J. Ford, David Brown, 2005-11-16 Drawing on popular surf culture, academic literature, and the analytical tools of social theory, this is the first sustained commentary on the contemporary social and cultural meaning of surfing, exploring mind and body, emotions and aesthetics.

Humane Warfare Christopher Coker, 2001-08-23 The decision to fight humanitarian wars, such as Kosovo, and the development of technology to make war more humane, illustrates the trend in the West to try to humanise war and thereby humanise modernity.
