The History And Conservation Of Zanzibar Stone Town:

The History & Conservation of Zanzibar Stone Town Abdul Sheriff, 1995 Illustrated with photographs plans and maps this book examines the issues underlying the conservation of the historic Stone Town of Zanzibar Zanzibar Chris McIntyre, Susan McIntyre, 2009 The seventh edition of the most thorough accurate and frequently updated guidebook to Zanzibar Pemba and Mafia Physical Space and Spatiality in Muslim Societies Mahbub Rashid, 2021-08-10 Mahbub Rashid embarks on a fascinating journey through urban space in all of its physical and social aspects using the theories of Foucault Bourdieu Lefebvre and others to explore how consumer capitalism colonialism and power disparity consciously shape cities Using two Muslim cities as case studies Algiers Ottoman French and Zanzibar Ottoman British Rashid shows how Western perceptions can only view Muslim cities through the lens of colonization a lens that distorts both physical and social space Is it possible he asks to find a useable urban past in a timeline broken by colonization He concludes that political economy may be less relevant in premodern cities that local variation is central to the understanding of power that cities engage more actively in social reproduction than in production that the manipulation of space is the exercise of power that all urban space is a conscious construct and is therefore not inevitable and that consumer capitalism is taking over everyday life Ultimately we reconstruct a present from a fragmented past through local struggles against the homogenizing power of abstract space

The Swahili World Stephanie Wynne-Jones, Adria LaViolette, 2017-10-16 The Swahili World presents the fascinating story of a major world civilization exploring the archaeology history linguistics and anthropology of the Indian Ocean coast of Africa It covers a 1 500 year sweep of history from the first settlement of the coast to the complex urban tradition found there today Swahili towns contain monumental palaces tombs and mosques set among more humble houses they were home to fishers farmers traders and specialists of many kinds The towns have been Muslim since perhaps the eighth century CE participating in international networks connecting people around the Indian Ocean rim and beyond Successive colonial regimes have helped shape modern Swahili society which has incorporated such influences into the region's long standing cosmopolitan tradition This is the first volume to explore the Swahili in chronological perspective Each chapter offers a unique wealth of detail on an aspect of the region's past written by the leading scholars on the subject The result is a book that allows both specialist and non specialist readers to explore the diversity of the Swahili tradition how Swahili society has changed over time as well as how our understandings of the region have shifted since Swahili studies first began Scholars of the African continent will find the most nuanced and detailed consideration of Swahili culture language and history ever produced For readers unfamiliar with the region or the people involved the chapters here provide an ideal introduction to a new and wonderful geography at the interface of Africa and the Indian Ocean world and among a people whose culture remains one of Africa's most distinctive achievements World Heritage, Tourism and Identity Laurent Bourdeau, Maria Gravari-Barbas, 2016-03-09 The remarkable success of the 1972 UNESCO Convention Concerning the Protection of World

Cultural and Natural Heritage is borne out by the fact that nearly 1 000 properties have now been designated as possessing Outstanding Universal Value and recognition given to the imperative for their protection However the remarkable success of the Convention is not without its challenges and a key issue for many Sites relates to the touristic legacies of inscription For many sites inscription on the World Heritage List acts as a promotional device and the management challenge is one of protection conservation and dealing with increased numbers of tourists For other sites designation has not brought anticipated expansion in tourist numbers and associated investments What is clear is that tourism is now a central concern to the wide array of stakeholders involved with World Heritage Sites

The Archaeology of Capitalism in Colonial Contexts Sarah K. Croucher, Lindsay Weiss, 2011-08-10 The Archaeology of Capitalism in Colonial Contexts Postcolonial Historical Archaeologies explores the complex interplay of colonial and capital formations throughout the modern world The authors present a critical approach to this topic trying to shift discourses in the theoretical framework of historical archaeology of capitalism and colonialism through the use of postcolonial theory This work does not suggest a new theoretical framework as such but rather suggests the importance of revising key theoretical terms employed within historical archaeology arguing for new engagements with postcolonial theory of relevance to all historical archaeologists as the field de centers from its traditional locations Examining case studies from North America South America the Caribbean Africa Australia the Middle East and Europe the chapters offer an unusually broad ranging geography of historical archaeology with each focused on the interplay between the particularisms of colonial structures and the development of capitalism and wider theoretical discussions Every author also draws attention to the ramifications of their case studies in the contemporary world With its cohesive theoretical framework this volume is a key resource for those interested in decolonizing historical archaeology in theory and praxis and for those interested in the development of modern global dynamics

Cracks in the Dome: Fractured Histories of Empire in the Zanzibar Museum, 1897-1964 Sarah Longair, 2016-03-09 As one of the most monumental and recognisable landmarks from Zanzibar's years as a British Protectorate the distinctive domed building of the Zanzibar Museum also known as the Beit al Amani or Peace Memorial Museum is widely known and familiar to Zanzibaris and visitors alike Yet the complicated and compelling history behind its construction and collection has been overlooked by historians until now Drawing on a rich and wide range of hitherto unexplored archival photographic architectural and material evidence this book is the first serious investigation of this remarkable institution Although the museum was not opened until 1925 this book traces the longer history of colonial display which culminated in the establishment of the Zanzibar Museum It reveals the complexity of colonial knowledge production in the changing political context of the twentieth century British Empire and explores the broad spectrum of people from diverse communities who shaped its existence as staff informants collectors and teachers Through vivid narratives involving people objects and exhibits this book exposes the fractures contradictions and tensions in creating and maintaining a colonial
