Ralph Dunning 1804-1874 Smith, 2016-08-26 The History of Connecticut, from the First Settlement of the Colony Hollister, 1857 The History of Connecticut Theodore Dwight, 1841 From Revivals to Removal John A. Andrew, III, 2007-11-01 Between the end of the Revolutionary War in 1781 and Andrew Jackson's retirement from the presidency in 1837, a generation of Americans acted out a great debate over the nature of the national character and the future political, economic, and religious course of the country. Jeremiah Evarts (1781-1831) and many others saw the debate as a battle over the soul of America. Alarmed and disturbed by the brashness of Jacksonian democracy, they feared that the still young ideal of a stable, cohesive, deeply principled republic was under attack by the forces of individualism, liberal capitalism, expansionism, and a zealous blend of virtue and religiosity. A missionary reformer and activist, Jeremiah Evarts (1781-1831) was a central figure of neo-Calvinism in the early American republic. An intellectual and spiritual heir to the founding fathers and a forebear of American Victorianism, Evarts is best remembered today as the stalwart opponent of Andrew Jackson's Indian policies, specifically the removal of Cherokees from the Southeast. John A. Andrew's study of Evarts is the most comprehensive ever written. Based predominantly on readings of Evart's personal and family papers, religious periodicals, records of missionary and benevolent organizations, and government documents related to Indian affairs, it is also a portrait of the society that shaped and was shaped by Evart's beliefs and principles. Evarts failed to tame the powerful forces of change at work in the early republic; Evarts did manage to shape broad responses to many of them. Perhaps the truest measure of his influence is that his dream of a government based on Christian principles became a rallying cry for another generation and another cause: abolitionism. The Evolution of the Connecticut State School System, with Special Reference to the Emergence of the High School Orwin Bradford Griffin, 1928 Early New England David A. Weir, 2005 The idea of covenant was at the heart of early New England society. In this singular book, David Weir explores the origins and development of covenant thought in America by analyzing the town and church documents written and signed by seventeenth-century New Englanders. Unmatched in the breadth of its scope, this study takes into account all of the surviving covenants in all of the New England colonies. Weir's comprehensive survey of seventeenth-century covenants leads to a more complex picture of early New England than what emerges from looking at only a few famous civil covenants like the Mayflower Compact His work shows covenant theology being transformed into a covenantal vision for society but also reveals the stress and strains on church state relationships that eventually led to more secularized colonial governments in eighteenth century New England He concludes that New England colonial society was much more English and much less American than has often been thought and that the New England colonies substantially mirrored religious and social change in Old England

The "Old Northwest" Genealogical Quarterly ,1900 The Descendants of Governor Thomas Welles of Connecticut and his Wife Alice Tomes, Volume 2, Part A Barbara Jean Mathews,2015-02-03 Thomas Welles ca 1590 1660 son of Robert and Alice Welles was born in Stourton Whichford Warwickshire England and died in Wethersfield Connecticut He married 1 Alice Tomes b before 1593 daughter of John Tomes and Ellen Gunne Phelps 1615 in Long Marston Gloucestershire She was born in Long Marston and died before 1646 in Hartford Connecticut They had eight children He married 2 Elizabeth Deming Foote ca 1595 1683 ca 1646 She was the widow of Nathaniel Foote and the sister of John Deming She had seven children from her previous marriage Firsting and Lasting Jean M. Obrien,2010-05-10 Across nineteenth century New England antiquarians and community leaders wrote hundreds of local histories about the founding and growth of their cities and towns Ranging from pamphlets to multivolume treatments these narratives shared a preoccupation with establishing the region as the cradle of an Anglo Saxon nation and the center of a modern American culture They also insisted often in mournful tones that New England s original inhabitants the Indians had become extinct even though many Indians still lived in the very towns being chronicled In*Firsting and Lasting* Jean M O Brien argues that local histories became a primary means by which European Americans asserted their own modernity while denying it to Indian peoples Erasing and then memorializing Indian peoples also served a more pragmatic colonial goal refuting Indian claims to land and rights Drawing on more than six hundred local histories from Massachusetts Connecticut and Rhode Island written between 1820 and 1880 as well as censuses monuments and accounts of historical pageants and commemorations O Brien explores how these narratives inculcated the myth of Indian extinction a myth that has stubbornly remained in the American consciousness In order to convince themselves that the Indians had vanished despite their continued presence O Brien finds that local historians and their readers embraced notions of racial purity rooted in the century s scientific racism and saw living Indians as mixed and therefore no longer truly Indian Adaptation to modern life on the part of Indian peoples was used as further evidence of their demise Indians did not and have not accepted this effacement and O Brien details how Indians have resisted their erasure through narratives of their own These debates and the rich and surprising history uncovered in O Brien s work continue to have a profound influence on discourses about race and indigenous rights
