

after disaster types. But I've made it a policy not to make anyone who needs the message to question "tattoo" to get a tattoo should go out on a clear night and look at the sky and what tattoo really means, and whether you should do things with your body just because someone else with a well-known name has.

23. Is there any evidence that tattooing can damage the health in any way?

None that I know of. If the tattoo is properly done.

24. Is tattooing dangerous during pregnancy?

No, the tattoo will not be toxic with a tattoo. Actually, for the better, it's after the birth of a baby to have many tattoos done. It's after the birth of a baby to have many tattoos done. I remember that it is, without a doubt, during pregnancy, the best time to get a tattoo. It is better to wait and see what kind of marks you want, and then.

25. What are the religious prohibitions against tattooing?

The last known is the fact that you can't be buried in a Jewish cemetery. But this is often a question of which rules you use. Also, tattoos are about life, not death. And it's common sense to get approval from a priest or pastor or rabbi to decorate his or her own body, that's a personal problem.

26. What about tattoo on women?

The question of tattooing the body of a child seems to be or else is old enough to decide the question personally. This includes circumcision, not getting and the tattooing of prepubescence. In my own practice, I follow the state law to decide who is a minor. I have often thought it tragically ironic that an infant can have its penis mutilated through circumcision, or a child become pierced, without parent, while tattooing adults is illegal in so many places throughout the world.

27. Should I design my own tattoo or let the tattoo artist do it?

I think you should make your own design, or have your own idea and work it out with the artist in relation to what his other limits and talents are. It ultimately has to
