Between Earth and Empire John P. Clark, 2019-07-01 Between Earth and Empire focuses on the crucial position of humanity at the present moment in Earth history We are now in the midst of the Necrocene an epoch of death and mass extinction Nearing the end of the long history of Empire and domination we are faced with the choice of either continuing the path of social and ecological disintegration or initiating a new era of social and ecological regeneration The book shows that conventional approaches to global crisis on both the right and the left have succumbed to processes of denial and disavowal either rejecting the reality of crisis entirely or substituting ineffectual but comforting gestures and images for deep systemic social transformation It is argued that a large scale social and ecological regeneration must be rooted in communities of liberation and solidarity fostering personal and group transformation so that a culture of awakening and care can emerge Between Earth and Empire explores examples of significant progress in this direction including the Zapatista movement in Chiapas the Democratic Autonomy Movement in Rojava indigenous movements in defense of the commons the solidarity economy movement and efforts to create liberated base communities and affinity groups within anarchism and other radical social movements In the end the book presents a vision of hope for social and ecological regeneration through the rebirth of a libertarian and communitarian social imaginary and the flourishing of a free cooperative community globally

Divided Spirits Sarah Bowen,2015-10 Divided Spirits tells the stories of tequila and mezcal two of Mexico's most iconic products In recent years as consumers increasingly demand to connect with the people and places that produce their food the concept of terroir the taste of place has become more and more prominent Tequila and mezcal are both protected by denominations of origin DOs legal designations that aim to guarantee a product's authenticity based on its link to terroir Advocates argue that the DOs expand market opportunities protect cultural heritage and ensure the reputation of Mexico's national spirits Yet this book shows how the institutions that are supposed to guard the legacy of all Mexicans often fail those who are most in need of protection the small producers agave farmers and other workers who have been making tequila and mezcal for generations Divided Spirits suggests that we must move beyond market based models if we want to safeguard local products and the people who make them Instead we need systems of production consumption and oversight that are more democratic more inclusive and more participatory Page 4 of cover

The Devil and Commodity Fetishism in South America Michael T. Taussig, 2010-03-15 In this classic book Michael Taussig explores the social significance of the devil in the folklore of contemporary plantation workers and miners in South America Grounding his analysis in Marxist theory Taussig finds that the fetishization of evil in the image of the devil mediates the conflict between precapitalist and capitalist modes of objectifying the human condition He links traditional narratives of the devil pact in which the soul is bartered for illusory or transitory power with the way in which production in capitalist economies causes workers to become alienated from the commodities they produce A new chapter for this anniversary edition features a discussion of Walter Benjamin and Georges Bataille that extends Taussig s ideas about the devil pact metaphor
