Spring Silkworms Other Stories:

Spring Silkworms, and Other Stories Dun Mao,1970      Spring Silkworms and Other Stories Mao Tun,2003 This is a collection of 15 short stories written by the famous Chinese author Mao Tun during the period of 1927-44. Through these stories he depicts Chinese society in the thirties: calamities in the countryside and economic depression caused by the dual pressure of imperialist aggression and feudal exploitation as well as the misery of the people and the process of their awakening. He also describes the upheavals experienced by people of various classes and strata during the period of the Japanese invasion. He portrays various characters including those workers who heroically resisted the enemy, students who took part in movements to save the nation, weak-kneed vacillating petty bourgeois intellectuals, wealthy capitalists who hated the people and supported the reactionary policies of the Kuomintang government, stock exchange speculators, women employees and young homeless waifs in the cities. Dealing with a wide range of subjects, this book is a mirror of the old China after the failure of the First Revolutionary Civil War when it was under reactionary Kuomintang rule. These stories are outstanding for their progressive outlook and artistry. Shen Yanbing, 1896-1981, better known by the pen name Mao Tun, was a member of the generation that created a truly vernacular Chinese literature in the early twentieth century. After the founding of the People's Republic of China in 1949, he was named Minister of Culture.      Spring Silkworms, and Other Stories Dun Mao,1979      Spring Silkworms and Other Stories Maodun,Dun Mao Tun,1979      Spring Silkworms and Other Stories □ □,1956      The Chinese Text Yingxiong Zhou,1986 The collection opens with Harry Levin's "What is Literature if Not Comparative?" read in the Second Hong Kong Comparative Literature Conference, 1982, and used here to highlight the significance of a comparative outlook in literary studies. It is followed by five constellations of Chinese-Western comparative studies, some of which were read in the same conference and others specifically solicited. The areas studied include classical Chinese drama, Chinese narrative, Chinese influence in modern American literature, Chinese aesthetics, and contemporary Chinese literature. M. Lau,Chih-tsing Hsia,Leo Ou-fan Lee,1981 This volume brings together some of the best and most historically significant works of short fiction written in China in this century: 44 stories by twenty different authors including such important figures in the development of Chinese modernism as Lu Hsiang-shan, Mao Tun, Ting Ling, and Shen Tsung-wen. The companion volume to the highly acclaimed Traditional Chinese Stories which covered the period from the former Han dynasty to the beginning of Chinese modernism, this new volume presents modernist short fiction from the thirty-year period leading up to the Communist revolution of 1949, after which Chinese literature entered a new phase of development.      Biographical Dictionary of the People's Republic of China Yuwu Song,2014-01-10 This biographical dictionary is an indispensable research tool for information about the prominent persons of the past seven decades in China. The book documents nearly 600 Chinese individuals who contributed for better or worse to the development of Chinese life and culture since the founding of the People's Republic of China in 1949. Though the book is weighted toward political figures, it includes persons in business, the military, academia, medicine, social movements, the arts, entertainment, and athletics. In addition to an objective description of the person's life, an analysis is provided that identifies the individual's contributions and importance.

The Power of Print in Modern China Robert Culp, 2019-05-28. Amid early twentieth-century China's epochal shifts, a vital and prolific commercial publishing industry emerged. Recruiting late Qing literati, foreign-trained academics, and recent graduates of the modernized school system to work as authors and editors, publishers produced textbooks, reference books, book series, and reprints of classical texts in large quantities at a significant profit. Work for major publishers provided a living to many Chinese intellectuals and offered them a platform to transform Chinese cultural life. In The Power of Print in Modern China, Robert Culp explores the world of commercial publishing to offer a new perspective on modern China's cultural transformations. Culp examines China's largest and most influential publishing companies: Commercial Press, Zhonghua Book Company, and World Book Company during the late Qing and Republican periods and into the early years of the People's Republic. He reconstructs editors' cultural activities and work lives as a lens onto the role of intellectuals in cultural change. Examining China's distinct modes of industrial publishing, Culp explains the emergence of the modern Chinese intellectual through commercial and industrial processes rather than solely through political revolution and social movements. An original account of Chinese intellectual and cultural history as well as global book history, The Power of Print in Modern China illuminates the production of new forms of knowledge and culture in the twentieth century.

The Dianshizhai Pictorial Xiaoqing Ye, 2003. Brings to life the visual culture of the nightless city, late nineteenth-century Shanghai, through analyses of more than one hundred drawn depictions.

Chinese Film Classics, 1922-1949 Christopher G. Rea, 2021-06-01. Winner 2023 Choice Outstanding Academic Title. Chinese Film Classics, 1922-1949 is an essential guide to the first golden age of Chinese cinema. Offering detailed introductions to fourteen films, this study highlights the creative achievements of Chinese filmmakers in the decades leading up to 1949, when the Communists won the civil war and began nationalizing cultural industries. Christopher Rea reveals the uniqueness and complexity of Republican China's cinematic masterworks, from the comedies and melodramas of the silent era to the talkies and musicals of the 1930s and 1940s. Each chapter appraises the artistry of a single film, highlighting its outstanding formal elements, from cinematography to editing to sound design. Examples include the slapstick gags of Laborer's Love (1922), Ruan Lingyu's star turn in Goddess (1934), Zhou Xuan's mesmerizing performance in Street Angels (1937), Eileen Chang's urbane comedy of manners Long Live the Missus (1947), the wartime epic Spring River Flows East (1947), and Fei Mu's acclaimed work of cinematic lyricism Spring in a Small Town (1948). Rea shares new insights and archival discoveries about famous films while explaining their significance in relation to politics society and global cinema Lavishly illustrated and featuring extensive guides to further viewings and readings Chinese Film Classics 1922 1949 offers an accessible tour of China s early contributions to the cinematic arts

Visualizing Beauty Aida Yuen Wong, 2012-01-01 Visualizing Beauty examines the intersections between feminine ideals and changing socio political circumstances in China Japan and Korea during the first half of the twentieth century Eight essays present a broad range of visual products that informed concepts of beauty and womanhood including fashion interior design magazines newspaper illustrations and paintings of and by women Studying Traditional Woman and New Woman as historical categories this anthology contemplates the complex relations between feminine subjectivity and the promotion of modernity commerce and colonialism

Honorable Merchants Richard John Lufrano, 1997-01-01 In light of East Asia s current economic success it has become increasingly clear that Confucian social thought long assumed in Western scholarship to be a major stumbling block to economic development can under the proper circumstances have exactly the opposite effect Lufrano s study is the most sustained and sophisticated of recent reevaluations of Confucianism s role in the rapid commercial development in the late Ming to mid Qing period It will be of great interest and value to scholars in the growing field of Chinese business history and should be welcomed by those interested in the Confucian roots of Pacific Rim business practice

The Peasant Family and Rural Development in the Yangzi Delta, 1350-1988 Philip C. Huang, 1990 How can we account for the durability of subsistence farming in China despite six centuries of vigorous commercialization from 1350 to 1950 and three decades of collectivization between 1950 to 1980 Why did the Chinese rural economy not undergo the transformation predicted by the classical models of Adam Smith and Karl Marx In attempting to answer this question scholars have generally treated commercialization and collectivization as distinct from population increase the other great rural change of the past six centuries This book breaks new ground in arguing that in the Yangzi delta China s most advanced agricultural region population increase was what drove commercialization and collectivization even as it was made possible by them The processes at work which the author terms involutionary commercialization and involutionary growth entailed ever increasing labor input per unit of land resulting in expanded total output but diminishing marginal returns per workday In the Ming Qing period involution usually meant a switch to more labor intensive cash crops and low return household sidelines In post revolutionary China it typically meant greatly intensified crop production Stagnant or declining returns per workday were absorbed first by the family production unit and then by the collective The true significance of the 1980 s reforms the author argues lies in the diversion of labour from farming to rural industries and profitable sidelines and the first increases for centuries in productivity and income per workday With these changes have come a measure of rural prosperity and the genuine possibility of transformative rural development By reconstructing Ming Qing agricultural history and drawing on twentieth century ethnographic data and his own field investigations the author brings his large themes down to the level of individual peasant households Like his acclaimed The Peasant Economy and Social Change in North China 1985 this study is noteworthy for both its empirical richness and its theoretical sweep but it goes well beyond the earlier work in its inter regional comparisons and its use of the pre and post 1949 periods to illuminate each other

Encyclopedia of the World Novel, 1900 to the Present Michael David Sollars, Arbolina Llamas Jennings, 2015-04-22 Praise for the print edition a useful and engaging reference to the vast world of the novel in world literature

Gutenberg in Shanghai Christopher A. Reed, 2011-11-01 In the mid 1910s what historians call the Golden Age of Chinese Capitalism began accompanied by a technological transformation that included the drastic expansion of China's Gutenberg revolution Gutenberg in Shanghai examines this process It finds the origins of that revolution in the country's printing industries of the late imperial period and analyzes their subsequent development in the Republican era This book which relies on documents previously unavailable to both Western and Chinese researchers demonstrates how Western technology and evolving traditional values resulted in the birth of a unique form of print capitalism whose influence on Chinese culture was far reaching and irreversible Its conclusion contests scholarly arguments that view China's technological development as slowed by culture or that interpret Chinese modernity as mere cultural continuity A vital reevaluation of Chinese modernity Gutenberg in Shanghai will be enthusiastically received by scholars of Chinese history and by specialists in cultural studies political science sociology the history of the book and the anthropology of science and technology
