That is the question Shakespeare had posed this question which led me to this exploration of existence vs non existence One way to look at existence is by persistence after being recognized as a non existent human being Persistence is used as a vehicle through which one is transported to a reality that they feel is true Existence involves the recognized five senses i e feeling touching seeing viewing tasting and hearing When acknowledging these five senses one is able to function as a evolutionary human being leaning toward an international understanding of the benefits mankind received through God our Father However one can be self actualizing by using the senses available to one by the moment he needs the senses If for some reason all five senses are not available then compensation is brought to the forefront by making the other senses more intense thereby allowing for the maximization of a unified body functioning at its fullest Constantly reviewing applying and directing self to maximize each sense in accordance with his conscience leads to the betterment of society This betterment can be seen as either good or excellent Mediocrity has no place to focus on the purest of quests At this present writing it is felt that there are many loopholes in the systems developing a quasi or even a false sense of well being is it is the thought process of the brain and its motivation to excel or fail that might allow for a leaning of the masses to entice honest and demonstrative leadership Leadership that is existing to allow its citizens the fullest benefit for societal gain could occur if the masses are led by ethical persuasive and pure reasons For decisions made by a person in power to allow the consideration of an architectural mind building a peaceful environment in the land to which he rules either by a Republic or not Is one dilemma in mankind s pursuit of peace PAX Praise God for our diversity and welcoming new ideas Jeanne Brohl
