Surimi Technology:

Fish Processing Technology George M. Hall, 2012-12-06 As with the first edition this book includes chapters on established fish processes and new processes and allied issues The first five chapters cover fish biochemistry affecting processing curing surimi and fish mince chilling and freezing and canning These established processes can still show innovations and improved theory although their mature status precludes major leaps in knowledge and technology The four chapters concerned with new areas relevant to fish processing are directed at the increasing globalisation of the fish processing industry and the demands from legislation and the consumer for better quality safer products One chapter reviews the methods available to identify fish species in raw and processed products The increased demand for fish products and the reduced catch of commercially important species has led to adulteration or substitution of these species with cheaper species The ability to detect these practices has been based on some elegant analytical techniques in electrophoresis

Advances in food science technology and engineering are occurring at such a rapid rate that obtaining current detailed information is challenging at best While almost everyone engaged in these disciplines has accumulated a vast variety of data over time an organized comprehensive resource containing this data would be invaluable to have The Handbook of Food Science, Technology, and Engineering Yiu H. Hui, 2006 Trends in Fish Processing Technologies Daniela Borda, Anca I. Nicolau, Peter Raspor, 2017-10-30 The high market demand based on consumers trust in fish as a healthy and nutritious food resource made fish processing a very dynamic industry spurring many innovations in processing and packaging methods Trends in Fish Processing Technologies not only reflects what is currently new in fish processing but also points out where things are heading in this area This book provides an overview of the modern technologies employed by the industry It details the advances in fish processing including high pressure processing HPP pulsed electric field PEF treatment and minimally heat processing combined with microwave MW and radio frequency RF It provides references to food safety management systems and food safety quality indicators for processed fish in order to achieve an adequate level of protection Quality aspects and molecular methods for the assessment of fish and fish products integrity are introduced Fish products reformulation trends based on sustainability principles that tackles the reduction of salt content and the use of natural antimicrobials are presented Innovative packaging solutions for fish products are explored detailing intelligent packaging with freshness and time temperature indicators applications of modified packaging atmosphere antimicrobial bio nanocomposite packaging materials and biodegradable edible films used as primary fish packaging In addition to covering the current advancements in fish processing the book discusses fraud adulteration fair trade practices traceability and the need for added value clean and sustainable processing in the fish chain Food Structure J. M. V. Blanshard, J. R. Maximising the Value of Marine By-Products Fereidoon Shahidi, 2006-11-30 Despite declining stocks a major portion of the harvest of fish and marine invertebrates is discarded or used for the production of low value fish meal and fish oil Marine by products though contain valuable protein and lipid fractions as well as vitamins minerals and other bioactive compounds which are beneficial to human health Devising strategies for the full utilization of the catch and processing of discards for production of novel products is therefore a matter of importance for both the fishing industry and food processors Maximising the value of marine by products provides a complete review of the characterisation recovery processing and applications of marine by products Part one summarises the physical and chemical properties of marine proteins and lipids and assesses methods for their extraction and recovery Part two examines the various applications of by products in the food industry including health promoting ingredients such as marine oils and calcium as well as enzymes antioxidants flavourings and pigments The final part of the book discusses the utilization of marine by products in diverse areas such as agriculture medicine and energy production With its distinguished editor and international team of authors Maximising the value of marine by products is an invaluable reference for all those involved in the valorisation of seafood by products Learn how to devise strategies for the full utilisation of the catch Understand the importance of marine by products to human health Explores the use of marine by products in diverse areas such as agriculture medicine and energy production Advances in Fish Processing Technologies Ranendra K. Majumder,Amjad K. Balange,2023-02-01 Fisheries in India and elsewhere are a very important economic activity with total fish production growing each year in response to increasing demand from consumers With this growth it is important for developing countries to take advantage of new advances in fish preservation processing and packaging technologies This new volume Advances in Fish Processing Technologies Preservation Waste Utilization and Safety Assurance covers advances in fish processing technology green technologies for extracting nutraceuticals the role of endogenous enzymes in the quality of fish shellfish and their products disruptive technologies and restructured product based technologies The chapters introduce improved techniques that are available for handling transportation product development packaging preservation and storage of fish with the aim to present safe and convenient products to consumers The volume also addresses technology to reduce undesirable changes in fish due to processing The technologies discussed include high pressure processing irradiation pulsed light technology pulsed electric field microwave processing application of radio frequency ultrasound and more Topics such innovative methods for utilization of fish waste are discussed as well and quality and safety aspects of fish and fish products are covered with reference to antimicrobial resistance bacteria and new developments in safety and quality management systems of fish and fish products This volume provides a wealth of information for graduate and postgraduate students of fisheries and food science It will also be useful for food science professionals Seafood Processing Vazhiyil Venugopal,2005-11-01 With global fish production falling behind demand the aquaculture of selected species has become an effective method to augment fish availability Unlike natural species however cultured fish have limited consumer appeal Value addition techniques can not only help satisfy the rising consumer demand for processed fishery products but also enhanc Seafood Proteins Z. Sikorski,2012-12-06 Fish and marine invertebrates are important sources of nutrients for the world's population and many species have exceptionally high market value because of their exquisite sensory properties. Both the utilization of the available catch in different forms and the market price are affected by the quality of the fish. Proteins and nonprotein nitrogenous compounds play a crucial role in the nutritional value and sensory quality of seafoods as well as in the suitability of different species to various forms of processing, preservation and use in other branches of the food industry. This role of proteins results from their basic chemical and biochemical properties and functions in different tissues. A presentation of the actual state of knowledge on seafood nitrogenous compounds in one volume may contribute to a better understanding of the involvement of these components in all stages of handling and processing fish. It has been possible to prepare this text thanks to the cooperative effort of an international group of specialists. The editors of the book are greatly indebted to all colleagues who have willingly contributed to this volume sharing their knowledge and experience as well as to all persons who have granted permission to use their previously published materials. viii Preface ix A large part of the book has been prepared during my sabbatical in the Department of Marine Food Science, National Taiwan Ocean University (NTOU) in Keelung, Taiwan.

Safety and Quality Issues in Fish Processing H. Allan Bremner, 2002-08-13 Edited by a leading authority on quality issues and with a distinguished international team of contributors, this major new book summarizes important new research on improving quality in fish processing.

Food Storage Stability Irwin A. Taub, R. Paul Singh, 1997-12-29 Food Storage Stability addresses one of the foremost problems faced by food processors: how to stabilize food once it is harvested. Using a holistic approach, the book discusses the changes responsible for food quality deterioration and considers strategies for minimizing or eliminating these degradative changes. Topics include consumer perceptions and preferences, cellular changes, conversion of major constituents to more stable products, the effect of color and texture, packaging issues and practical strategies for storing foods frozen, chilled or at ambient temperature. Food Storage Stability is the only treatment of this subject that covers the diverse factors that influence quality retention in foods and integrates basic concepts in storage stability with practical applications. Food scientists and technologists concerned with changes in food quality are interested in ensuring that safe and appealing food products reach consumers; this is the book that will assist them with that important goal.

Chapters are written by eminent researchers in the field of food science and provide in-depth knowledge on the application of engineering aspects in food processing, food packaging, food quality and food safety. The book looks at the latest nanotechnology aspects for the detection of foodborne pathogens to ensure safety with respect to these pathogens. It provides detailed kinetics of quality and safety aspects of food and goes on to discuss the characteristics of edible films prepared from plasticized guar gum. Other topics include the production of novel biomolecules and their characterization, the microstructural properties of arabinoxylan aerogels, the antioxidant activity of oats harvested from draught areas the effect of quercetin isolated from Enicostemma littorale against cancer targets the latest trends in production of ethanol and fructo oligosachharides and much more
