Dieren van stromend water Percy Reginald Stephensen, 1967      The History and Description of Sydney Harbour
Percy Reginald Stephensen, Brian Kennedy, 1980      Transformation of Sydney's Industrial Historic Waterfront Ece Kaya, 2019-09-26 This book examines the impacts of tourism led transformations on the industrial historical waterfront at Darling Harbour and The Rocks in Sydney Australia in the context of urban restructuring and deindustrialisation The book also offers an extended reflection on the paradoxes between tourism and heritage This discussion is not a new concept However this book critically explores the significance of the industrial heritage assets of these areas and the implications of the transformation procedures Although Darling Harbour and The Rocks have generally been considered success stories of transformation with mixed touristic recreational residential and commercial activities this book examines and evaluates how industrial history and heritage values have been affected It demonstrates that tourism leisure led developments create urban landscapes in which cultural identity and historical assets are sacrificed and or reinvented      Pictorial History Lower North Shore Catherine Warne, 2005 Pictorial History Lower North Shore was first released in 1984 and reprinted in 1987 with a new edition printed in 2014 This edition is completely revised and updated The book covers the North Shore from Milson's Point taking in North Sydney Lavender Bay Willoughby Chatswood Crows Nest St Leonards Neutral Bay Cremorne Kirribilli and Northbridge The construction of the Sydney Harbour Bridge and the Expressway the social and cultural life north of the Bridge and the early days of the aboriginal inhabitants and white settlers are explored The book includes new photographs and maps and a chronology bibliography and index It retails for 24.95 Written by Catherine Warne      A Ceaseless Watch Angus Britts, 2021-04-15 A Ceaseless Watch Australia's Third Party Naval Defense 1919-1942 illustrates how Australia confronted the need to base its post World War I defense planning around the security provided by a major naval power in the first instance Britain and later the United States Spanning the period leading up to Australia's greatest security crisis the military threat posed by Japan throughout the majority of 1942 the work takes the reader all the way up to the defeat of the Imperial Japanese Navy by the United States Navy in the Solomon Islands campaign Angus Britts focuses on Anglo Australian defense relations from 1919-42 when the British were Australia's primary naval protectors until they were superseded in the Pacific by the United States in May 1942 at the battle of the Coral Sea Britts traces the process of the alignment or divergence of differing strategic interests between Australia and Britain in particular Taking place against the backdrop of Imperial Japan's expansionism debates within Australian political and defense circles during this period namely the nature of the most likely threat to the continent itself what became an important subplot to the events then unfolding in the Pacific Looking at the development of the Singapore strategy which utilized the British fleet at Singapore to protect Australia's interests Britts lays out how the cornerstone for Australian defense planning was based on the continued assurances from successive British governments that they would honor their naval commitments should Australia itself eventually come under serious threat from Japanese aggression The Australian American defense relationship evolved at a later stage within the timeframe in this work but the varying interactions between both nations throughout the interwar years are likewise addressed as is the foundation of their wartime relations Britts illustrates the difficulty in forming a defense relationship between small and great powers where the needs of the former are not subsumed by the interests of the latter from the interwar years to the start of World War II In an era when the entire Pacific region was at war the inability of a larger power to fulfill its side of a defensive pact with a smaller power shaped the future of the region itself Pictorial

History Eastern Suburbs Alan Sharpe,Joan Lawrence,1999 A Pictorial History of Balmain to Glebe Joan Lawrence,Catherine Warne,1995 Estuaries of Australia in 2050 and beyond Eric Wolanski,2013-08-28 The book addresses the questions Is Australia s rapidly growing human population and economy environmentally sustainable for its estuaries and coasts What is needed to enable sustainable development To answer these questions this book reports detailed studies of 20 iconic Australian estuaries and bays by leading Australian estuarine scientists That knowledge is synthesised in time and space across Australia to suggest what Australian estuaries will look like in 2050 and beyond based on socio economic decisions that are made now and changes that are needed to ensure sustainability The book also has a Prologue by Mr Malcolm Fraser former Prime Minister of Australia which bridges environmental science population policy and sustainability Sydney Harbour Ian Hoskins,2009 In 1925 DH Lawrence described a huge restless modern Sydney whose million inhabitants seem to slip like fishes from one side of the harbour to the other What was true then had been the case for centuries before and decades since Explores the story of this great waterway A Deep Sense of Wrong Beverley Boissery,1995-01-11 Shows the degradation of prison life and the triumph of the human spirit over overwhelming odds

The Lives of Stories Emma Dortins,2018-12-05 The Lives of Stories traces three stories of Aboriginal settler friendships that intersect with the ways in which Australians remember founding national stories build narratives for cultural revival and work on reconciliation and self determination These three stories which are still being told with creativity and commitment by storytellers today are the story of James Morrill s adoption by Birri Gubba people and re adoption 17 years later into the new colony of Queensland the story of Bennelong and his relationship with Governor Phillip and the Sydney colonists and the story of friendship between Wiradjuri leader Windradyne and the Suttor family Each is an intimate story about people involved in relationships of goodwill care adoptive kinship and mutual learning across cultures and the strains of maintaining or relinquishing these bonds as they took part in the larger events that signified the colonisation of Aboriginal lands by the British Each is a story in which cross cultural understanding and misunderstanding are deeply embedded and in which the act of storytelling itself has always been an engagement in cross cultural relations The Lives of Stories reflects on the nature of story as part of our cultural inheritance and seeks to engage the reader in becoming more conscious of our own effect as history makers as we retell old stories with new meanings in the present and pass them on to new generations

Bibliography of New South Wales Local History Christine Eslick, Joy Hughes, 1987 Arranged by area suburb and town list of serials published by local historical organisation index      Official Year Book of the Commonwealth of Australia No. 53, 1967 ,      From Bondi to the City Richard B. Sappey, 2014-06-06 This book is a history of what it was like to grow up in Sydney during the 1950s and 1960s This world was observed through the eyes of a child and young man The memories travel through Bondi in the 1950s from the Astra Hotel boarding houses flats small struggling shops going to school playing cricket and tennis all at a time when Australia itself was young and growing The golden fifties launched people into expanded hope through cars weekends their own homes and plentiful work There is the tranquillity of Pittwater a glassy stretch of water and deep bush where people cherished their weekends in small fibro cottages and tiny boats The journey goes to the old harbour of ships and wharves and nights at the speedway Life included Anzac Day marches sample bags at the Royal Easter Show street football Empire Day bonfires and the lady who read the tea leaves and the Menzies sympathisers and Commos in the family The world of work was also a journey through running deliveries in school holidays small factory life in Balmain and office work in the city The city moved quickly in terms of what jobs disappeared the rise and fall of businesses and what they sold and the flattening of old buildings and the rise of the glittering towers The city was part of life it sparkled enticed threatened expanded freedom challenged everything and never let you forget what it did and what you did      True Light and Shade Professor John Maynard, 2014-11-01 True Light and Shade is filled with beautiful images by convict artist Joseph Lycett that powerfully capture in intimate detail Aboriginal life a rare record of Aboriginal people within the vicinity of Newcastle and how they adapted to European settlement before cultural destruction impacted on these groups John Maynard writes an engaging short biography of Lycett and his life in Australia and follows this with a detailed commentary on each of the 20 images in the album Each image is reproduced in full on a double page spread and then on the spreads following details have been enlarged to accompany John's text as he takes us through exactly what is happening in every picture ceremony hunting and fishing carrying food carving up whalemeat land management and burning interactions with Europeans family life dances funeral rituals and punishment When you return again to examine the full image you see it in a completely different light John also includes written records from the time that corroborate Lycett's views Some dreamtime stories connected with the areas Lycett depicted are also included with accompanying Indigenous art One story explains the earthquakes in the area kangaroo jumping up and down The title quote true light and shade comes from Lycett's words I consider a complete drawing to be an accurate delineation of anything with its true light and shade As a Worimi man from the Newcastle Port Stephens region John Maynard brings his own knowledge and insight to his exploration of the drawings and to the fascinating character of Lycett himself John is currently a Director at the Wollotuka Institute of Aboriginal Studies at the University of Newcastle and Chair of Indigenous History He has held several major positions including as Deputy Chairperson of the Australian Institute of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Studies and Deputy Chair Humanities

National Indigenous Research and Knowledges Network      The Peculiar Case of the Electric Constable Carol Baxter, 2013-09-01 John Tawell was a sincere Quaker but a sinning one. Convicted of forgery he was transported to Sydney where he opened Australia's first retail pharmacy and made a fortune. When he returned home to England after fifteen years he thought he would be welcomed; instead he was shunned. Then on New Year's Day 1845 Tawell boarded the 7:42 pm train to London Paddington. Soon men arrived chasing a suspected murderer but the 7:42 had departed. The Great Western Railway was experimenting with a new fangled device: the electric telegraph, so a message was sent: a KWAKER man was on the run. The trial became a sensation involving no apparent weapon, much innuendo and a pious man desperate to save his reputation and would usher in the modern communication age. Told with narrative verve and rich in historical research, this is a delicious true tale of murder and scientific revolution in Victorian England.      Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1971      Urban History Yearbook 1982 David Reeder, 1982      Values in Cities James Lesh, 2022-09-23 Examining urban heritage in twentieth century Australia, James Lesh reveals how evolving ideas of value and significance shaped cities and places. Over decades a growing number of sites and areas were found to be valuable by communities and professionals. Places perceived to have value were often conserved. Places perceived to lack value became subject to modernisation, redevelopment and renewal. From the 1970s alongside strengthened activism and legislation with the innovative Burra Charter 1979 the values based model emerged for managing the aesthetic, historic, scientific and social significance of historic environments. Values thus transitioned from an implicit to an overt component of urban architectural and planning conservation. The field of conservation became a noted profession and discipline. Conservation also had a broader role in celebrating the Australian nation and in reconciling settler colonialism for the twentieth century. Integrating urban history and heritage studies, this book provides the first longitudinal study of the twentieth century Australian heritage movement. It advocates for innovative and reflexive modes of heritage practice responsive to urban social and environmental imperatives. As the values based model continues to shape conservation worldwide, this book is an essential reference for researchers, students and practitioners concerned with the past and future of cities and heritage.
