Halpern, Dana S. Dunn, 2022-10-25 Thought and Knowledge applies theory and research from the learning sciences to teach students the critical thinking skills that they need to succeed in today's world. The text identifies, defines, discusses, and deconstructs contemporary challenges to critical thinking from fake news, alternative facts, and deep fakes to misinformation, disinformation, post-truth, and more. It guides students through the explosion of content on the internet and social media and enables them to become careful and critical evaluators as well as consumers. The text is grounded in psychological science, especially the cognitive sciences, and brought to life through humorous and engaging language and numerous practical and real-world examples and anecdotes. This edition has been streamlined with thoughtful consideration over what content to keep, what to cut, and how much new and current research to add. Critical thinking skills are presented in every chapter, empowering students to learn more efficiently, research more productively, and present logical, critical, and informed arguments. The skills are reviewed at the end of the chapter, and a complete list of skills with definitions and examples are included in the appendix. The text is supported by a companion website that features a robust set of instructor and student resources: www.routledge.com/cw/halpern. Thought and Knowledge can be used as a core text in critical thinking courses offered in departments of psychology, philosophy, English, or across the humanities and social sciences, or as a supplement in any course where critical thinking is emphasized.

Revising Fiction, Fact, and Faith Nathaniel Goldberg,Chris Gavalier,2020-07-01 This book addresses how our revisionary practices account for relations between texts and how they are read It offers an overarching philosophy of revision concerning works of fiction fact and faith revealing unexpected insights about the philosophy of language the metaphysics of fact and fiction and the history and philosophy of science and religion Using the novels of J R R Tolkien as exemplars the authors introduce a fundamental distinction between the purely physical and the linguistic aspects of texts They then demonstrate how two competing theories of reference descriptivism and referentialism are instead constitutive of a single semantic account needed to explain all kinds of revision The authors also propose their own metaphysical foundations of fiction and fact The next part of the book brings the authors philosophy of revision into dialogue with Thomas Kuhn s famous analysis of factual and specifically scientific change It also discusses a complex episode in the history of paleontology demonstrating how scientific and popular texts can diverge over time Finally the authors expand their philosophy of revision to religious texts arguing that rather than being distinct such texts are always read as other kinds that faith tends to be more important as evidence for religious texts than for others and that the latter explains why religious communities tend to have remarkable historical longevity Revising Fiction Fact and Faith offers a unique and comprehensive account of the philosophy of revision It will be of interest to a wide range of scholars and advanced students working in philosophy of language metaphysics philosophy of literature literary theory and criticism and history and philosophy of science and religion Poem Unlimited David Kerler,Timo Müller,2019-09-23 Questions of genres as well as their possible definitions taxonomies and functions have been discussed since antiquity Even though categories of genre today are far from being fixed they have for decades been upheld without question The goal of this volume is to problematize traditional definitions of poetic genres and to situate them in a broader socio cultural historical and theoretical context The contributions encompass numerous methodological approaches including hermeneutics poststructuralism reception theory cultural studies gender studies periods Romanticism Modernism Postmodernism genres elegy sonnet visual poetry performance poetry hip hop as well as languages and national literatures From this interdisciplinary and multi methodological perspective genres periods languages and literatures are put into fruitful dialogue new perspectives are discovered and suggestions for further research are provided
