The History Of The Raf:

History of the Royal Air Force Mike Sharpe,1999 The History of the RAF Christopher Chant,1997 Christopher Chant's The History of the RAF is an authoritative account of the RAF through the last 54 years culminating in the Gulf War. Carefully integrated text and photographs highlight the linked development of the service and its aircraft. The History of the Royal Air Force, 1984 Beskriver RAF fra 1918 til begyndelsen af 1980'erne The History of the RAF. Christopher Chant,1993 The Royal Air Force at Home Ian Watson,2010-06-19 Military public relations endeavors ultimately seek to build a sense of common interests and aims and so generally foster good relations with the people they defend and there in ensure a stable society. The armed forces when engaging on any public relations exercise have traditionally sought to provide an entertaining spectacle. For years this has been typified by parades, bands, mock battles, drill displays and other relevant feats of military prowess which have captured the imagination of the public and inspired potential recruits. The 20th Century brought a new dimension to the field of warfare and subsequently added a new strand to the fabric of public ceremony and displays by the armed forces. That new dimension was the arrival of powered flight. Display flying began within five years of the Wright Brothers making their milestone first flight. The first events staged in Britain which centered on demonstrations by flying machines were organized by the town councils of Blackpool and Doncaster and were held within days of each other in October 1909. 1920 was the year that the first of the famed and legendary Hendon Air Pageants was staged and this is where military air shows traditionally began. The Hendon Displays were organized and staged by the still fledgling Royal Air Force and it was probably due in no small part to the prestige and spectacle of this fresh new dimension of military pageantry together with other like events held at RAF airfields through the next two decades that the very existence of the RAF was saved from the threat of abolition. The history of the RAF's commitment one that compares almost uniquely with other air forces toward display flying through the years after World War II has now come of age. This account of their record in this often overlooked but then again traditional field of military customs describes and illustrates the major public RAF events since 1920. The History of RAF Aerobatic Teams From 1920 David Watkins,2011-06-13 The Royal Air Force has long recognized the value of display flying for pilot training, prestige and recruiting purposes and the standard of its formation aerobatic teams has always stood in favorable comparison with those of air forces of other nations. Aerobatics have always played a prominent part in RAF training. They are not performed merely to provide a spectacle for the public but are an essential step in the making of a pilot, giving him confidence in himself and his aircraft. Formation aerobatics give him the added factor of confidence in his leader and other members of the team. This history of RAF aerobatic teams is the result of many years of painstaking and meticulous research from its early beginnings with five Sopwith Snipes at the Hendon Pageant in 1920 to the present day Red Arrows. The book also contains an introduction which details the gradual development from experimental and stunt flying of the early aviators through the aerial artistry of using smoke to highlight maneuvers and tied together formation aerobatics to the introduction of jet teams after the war Also included in the book is a detailed index listing each team and its members from 1920 and it will undoubtedly provide an essential reference work on Royal Air Force formation aerobatic teams for aviation historians and enthusiasts History of the RAF Chaz Bowyer,1977
