The House on the Mound ,1958 Based on the lives of Jane and Hercules Douseman at Villa Louis at Prairie du Chien Wi

A Norse Settlement in the Outer Hebrides Niall Sharples,2019-12-19 The settlement at Bornais in the Western Isles of Scotland is one of the largest rural settlements known from the Norse period in Britain It spans the period from the fifth to the fifteenth century AD when the Atlantic seaboard was subject to drastic changes The islands were systematically ravaged by Viking raiders and then colonised by Norse settlers In the following centuries the islanders were central to the emergence of the Kingdom of Man and the Isles played a crucial role in the development of the Lordship of the Isles and were finally assimilated into the Kingdom of Scotland This volume explores the stratigraphic sequence uncovered by the excavation of Bornais mounds 2 and 2A The excavation of mound 2 revealed a sequence of high status buildings that span the Norse occupation of the settlement One of these houses constructed at the end of the eleventh century AD was a well preserved bow walled longhouse and the careful excavation and detailed recording of the floor layers has revealed a wealth of finds that provides invaluable insight into the activities taking place in this building The final house in this sequence is very different in form and use and clearly indicates the increasing Scottish influence on the region at the beginning of the thirteenth century The excavation of mound 2A provides an insight into the less prestigious areas of the settlement and contributes a significant amount of evidence on the settlement economy The area was initially cultivated before it became a settlement local and throughout its life a focus on agricultural activities such as grain drying and processing appears to have been important In the thirteenth century the mound was occupied by a craftsman who produced composite combs gaming pieces and simple tools The evidence presented in this volume makes a major contribution to the understanding of Norse Scotland and the colonisation of the North Atlantic in a period of dramatic transformations Earl Morris & Southwestern Archaeology Florence Cline Lister,Robert Hill Lister,1993 Reprint edition of this important look at the life and times of one of the true pioneers of Southwest archeology Includes a new preface by Florence C Lister Historical photos Includes index

Contributions by Alice M Brues Lyle W Konigsberg Paul W Parmalee and David H Stansbery Seksek 'e Hatana Aubrey L. Parke, 2001 This book is a collection of hanuju f eag tupu a and rogrogo myths legends and stories as well as some fakpeje ceremonial speeches and sua songs gathered in 1964 in Rotuma Many of the tales refer to specific places in Rotuma and its offshore islets called dependencies in the Rotuma Deed of Cession of 1881 The islet of Hatana is central to the origin myths of Rotuma Seksek e Hatan is more than a record of traditions and memoirs because it includes excerpts from an archaeologist s field notebook This approach sets the traditions of Rotuma in an archaeological and geographical landscape and in a context of ceremonial and traditional activities signs and omens Publisher s description The Hohokam Emil W. Haury, 2016-10-18 For a calculated 1 400 years Snaketown was a viable village but unlike so many tells in the Near East the people remained the same while their culture changed The smoothly graded typological sequences for most attributes suggest to me that the ethnic identity of the inhabitants was not interrupted that they were one and the same people experiencing normal internal evolutionary cultural modifications wth occasional boosts of features and ideas newly arrived from the outside Emil W Haury Archaeology at Shiloh Indian Mounds, 1899-1999 Paul D. Welch, 2006 One hundred years of archaeological excavations at an important American landmark the Shiloh Indian Mounds archaeological site a National Historic Landmark The Shiloh Indian Mounds archaeological site a National Historic Landmark is a late prehistoric community within the boundaries of the Shiloh National Military Park on the banks of the Tennessee River where one of the bloodiest battles of the Civil War was fought in April 1862 Dating between AD 1000 and 1450 the archaeological site includes at least eight mounds and more than 100 houses It is unique in that the land has never been plowed so visitors can walk around the area and find the collapsed remains of 800 year old houses and the 900 meter long palisade with bastions that protected the village in prehistoric times Although its location within a National Park boundary has protected the area from the recent ravages of man riverbank erosion began to undermine the site in the 1970s In the mid 1990s Paul Welch began a four year investigation culminating in a comprehensive report to the National Park Service on the Shiloh Indian Mounds These published findings confirm that the Shiloh site was one of at least fourteen Mississippian mound sites located within a 50 km area and that Shiloh was abandoned in approximately AD 1450 It also establishes other parameters for the Shiloh archaeological phase This current volume is intended to make information about the first 100 years of excavations at the Shiloh site available to the archaeological community Alternative Iron Ages Brais X. Currás, Inés Sastre, 2019-09-09 Alternative Iron Ages examines Iron Age social formations that sit outside traditional paradigms developing methods for archaeological characterisation of alternative models of society In so doing it contributes to the debates concerning the construction and resistance of inequality taking place in archaeology anthropology and sociology In recent years Iron Age research on Western Europe has moved towards new forms of understanding social structures Yet these alternative social organisations continue to be considered as basic human social formations which frequently imply marginality and primitivism

In this context the grand narrative of the European Iron Age continues to be defined by cultural foci which hide the great regional variety in an artificially homogenous area This book challenges the traditional classical evolutionist narratives by exploring concepts such as non triangular societies heterarchy and segmentarity across regional case studies to test and propose alternative social models for Iron Age social formations Constructing new social theory both archaeologically based and supported by sociological and anthropological theory the book is perfect for those looking to examine and understand life in the European Iron Age We are so grateful to the research project titled Paisajes rurales antiguos del Noroeste peninsular formas de dominacion romana y explotacion de recursos Ancient rural landscapes in Northwestern Iberia Roman dominion and resource exploitation HAR2015 64632 P MINECO FEDER directed from the Instituto de Historia CSIC and also to the Fundacion para la Ciencia e la Tecnologia Foundation for Science and Technology postdoctoral project SFRH BPD 102407 2014

The Economy of a Norse Settlement in the Outer Hebrides Niall Sharples, 2020-11-23 This book explores the economic evidence for the settlement at Bornais on South Uist It reports in detail on the large assemblages of material found during the excavations at mounds 2 and 2A There is important evidence for craft activity such as bone and antler working and this includes the only comb making workshop from a rural settlement in Britain A large proportion of the copper alloy bone and antler assemblages comprise pieces of personal adornment and provide important information on the dress and thereby social relations within the settlement occupation There is a large assemblage of iron tools and fittings which provides important information on the activities taking place at the settlement The information derived from the artefact assemblages is complemented by that provided by the ecofactual material Large amounts of animal fish and bird bones plus carbonised plant remains provide detailed information on agricultural practices and the processing preparation and consumption of foodstuffs It is clear that the Norse inhabitants of the settlement had access to a much richer variety of resources than had been exploited before the Viking colonisation of the region The settlement also had a significantly wider range of connections material culture indicates contacts to the south with the Irish Sea ports and Bristol and to the north with Shetland and the Viking homelands of Norway The evidence produced by these excavations is exceptional and provides an unparalleled opportunity to explore medieval life in the Scandinavian kingdoms of Western Britain

Sharples, 2025-07-10 Provides an introduction to the Viking colonization and Norse occupation of the Outer Hebrides The Vikings in the Hebrides provides an introduction to the Viking colonisation and Norse occupation of the Outer Hebrides Our knowledge of this period in the Hebrides has until recently been minimal as the historic evidence was negligible and the archaeology limited However two recent excavations at Bornais and Cille Pheadair have transformed our understanding of the period in the region These two excavations will provide much of the information that is set out in this book but there is also a comprehensive review of other important discoveries such as the Lewis Chessmen the burial at Cnip Lewis and the silver hoards from Stornoway Castle and Dìbidale in Lewis The excavations at Bornais have transformed our understanding of the Norse settlement of the North Atlantic It is possible to chart the evolution of domestic houses from the Viking longhouse to the post Medieval croft to analyse the distribution of finds on the house floors and to critically assess gender relationships over this long period The excavations have also produced large quantities of finds that demonstrate the links between the Western Isles and the wider world These include important assemblages of bone combs and comb making debris which enable a discussion of craft production and the fluctuating relationship of the Hebrides the Irish Sea zone and Scandinavia The presence of exotic green porphyry from Greece amber Ringerike art pottery from the Bristol Channel coins from Scandinavia England and the Low Countries all provide opportunities to contextualise the settlements and the region in the wider Medieval world This book places the Outer Hebrides at the centre of the Viking World and provides a unique contribution to our understanding of the islands importance at the critical period when Scotland was emerging as a major Medieval kingdom
