Steroid Receptors And Hormone Dependent Neoplasia:

Steroid Receptors and Hormone-dependent Neoplasia James L. Wittliff, Otto Dapunt, 1980 Cancer Treatment Reports, 1980 Benign Prostatic Hypertrophy S. Boyarsky, M. Caine, G.D. Chisholm, P.A. Gammelgaard, P.O. Madsen, M.I. Resnick, H.W. Schoenberg, J.E. Susset, N.R. Zinner, 2012-12-06 For more than 60 years the Californian Family Hinman has exercised a very considerable influence on the development and practice of the highest grade of urology not only in the American West but worldwide The leitmotiv of the Hinman School has been honest and thoughtful consideration of the problems of the genitourinary system gone awry Character is the quintessence of the Hinmans This virtue distinguishes the present volume on benign prostatic hypertrophy assembled and edited by Frank Hinman Jr I first came under the spell of Frank Hinman Sr via his classic studies of renal counterbalance In brief in an experimental animal the ureter of one kidney was ligated and the subsequent renal hypertrophy of its contralateral mate was studied quantitatively from anatomic and functional stand points There were two central questions in the Hinman study How does a normal kidney of an experimental animal recognize that its load has been doubled abruptly What is the signal for renal hypertrophy Benign hypertrophy of the prostate is quite different from compensatory hypertrophy of the kidney It is now known that benign prostatic hypertrophy BPH is not a hypertrophy but a benign tumor consisting of a collection of spheroids of micro and macrodimensions In technical terms BPH is an adenofibromyoma Perusal of the present volume will reveal many fascinating facets of BPH of particular interest to urologists and others with an investigative bent of BPH does not occur in children BPH occurs as a medical rarity in mind Steroid Hormone Action and Cancer K. Menon, 2012-12-06 This volume is an outgrowth of a symposium held at the University of Michigan Ann Arbor Michigan October 27-29 1975 This symposium was organized to bring together basic scientists and clinicians for the purpose of exchanging new ideas and the latest information in the area of Steroid Hormone Action and Cancer The design of the symposium included both formal plenary sessions and informal roundtable discussion groups the chapters of this volume being drawn primarily from these proceedings During the last quarter of a century considerable progress has been made toward understanding the molecular mechanisms involved in steroid hormone action It now appears that the mechanism of action of the four major classes of steroid hormones is qualitatively similar Research during the past decade has demonstrated steroid hormone receptors in a variety of normal and neoplastic tissues Receptor containing neoplasms have been shown to be hormone dependent and undergo regression when treated with hormone antagonists Natural and synthetic steroids also have been employed for many years to successfully treat various types of cancer for example estrogens androgens and progestagens for breast cancer estrogens and progestagens for prostatic carcinoma progestagens for endometrial carcinoma and corticoids for leukemias All of these neoplasms have now been found to possess receptors for the steroids empirically used in their treatment Published Scientific Papers of the National Institutes of Health National Institutes of Health (U.S.), 1981 Each issue lists papers

published during the preceding year Physiopathology of Endocrine Diseases and Mechanisms of Hormone Action Roberto J. Soto, 1981 The Control of Tumour Growth and Its Biological Bases W. Davis, C. Maltoni, S. Tanneberger, 1984-01-31

Levine, 2012-12-06 This volume reviews our current knowledge concerning cancer. Several chapters discuss the contributions of genetic aspects of growth and progression as it relates to the etiology of cancer, metabolism, endocrine related aspects and nutrition to human cancer. As emphasized in Volumes I-V of this series, cancer progression. Moreover, our current knowledge concerning neoplastic diseases are multistep maladies. There are many concerning urbanization factors, radiation therapy induced causes for the appearance of neoplastic diseases. Earlier neoplasms environmentally induced neoplasms e.g. chapters in the series have reviewed molecular and cellular mesotheliomas induced by asbestos and malignant neoplasms aspects of tumor initiation, promotion and progression to neoplasms in organ transplant recipients are summarized, the invasive and metastatic phenotype. Contributions to the impact of AIDS on neoplasm development is reviewed. The impact of initiation and progression of neoplastic diseases are made by viewed from an epidemiologic perspective that explores multiple natural features of the environment and by its contaminants, multiple facets of immunity, infectious disease, sexual behavior and by nutritional factors. Neoplastic diseases show a direct and blood transfusion. Other chapters investigate the intimate relationship to a variety of environmental stimuli and influence of the host immune response in oncogenesis and the role of diseases of a non neoplastic nature. For example, familial relationship between atherosclerotic plaques and tumors.
