and Switzerland between 1900 and 1950 By focusing on the political economic cultural and social context that led to the construction of the particular images of China in each country the author demonstrates that national interests anxieties and issues influenced the way China was framed and resulted in different portrayals of China in each country The author s meticulous analysis of a vast amount of newspaper and magazine articles commentaries editorials cartoons and newsreels that have previously not been studied before also focuses on the transnational circulation of images of China While previous publications have dealt with the occurrence of the Yellow Peril and Red Menace in particular countries Framing China reveals that these images were interpreted differently in every nation because they both reflected and contributed to the discursive construction of nationhood in each country and were influenced by domestic issues cultural values pre existing stereotypes pressure groups and geopolitical aspirations

China Watch John King Fairbank, 1987 America s top China watcher the renowned pandit of modern Chinese history here provides an unrivaled overview of revolutionary China and Chinese American relations His reviews and critical commentary scrutinize our always fascinated often puzzled attitude toward this newly emergent superpower John Fairbank distinguishes two major motifs in recent Chinese American connections the American expectation of highly profitable trade and investment which so far have not materialized and the deep rooted missionary impulse to give the Chinese the best of our culture which includes our efforts to promote human rights The possibility of grafting our ideas of individual endeavor and God given prerogatives onto two thousand years of Confucianism with its emphasis on duty and collective harmony seems remote In contrast the outlook for mutually enriching economic dealings is much brighter Yet Fairbank cautions that we are dealing with a huge and disoriented nation struggling to enter the modern world with its own cultural identity intact and at least in the current period with its Communist Party in power Confucian tenets still prevail theory and practice are a unity policies are a form of conduct manifesting one s character and attacks on policy equal attacks on the ruling party These writings concern China in the mind s eye of America as it is interpreted through the works of American merchants diplomats missionaries and reporters observing China s travail of revolution For generalist scholar and sage alike China Watch offers many insights

Washington's Taiwan Dilemma, 1949-1950 David Finkelstein, 2014-04-15 The declaration of the People s Republic of China in October 1949 presented American foreign policy officials with two dilemmas how to deal with the communist government on the mainland and what to do about Chiang Kai shek s holdout Nationalist regime on Taiwan By early 1950 these questions were pressing hard upon U S civilian and military planners and policy makers for it appeared that the Red Army was preparing to invade the island Most observers believed that nothing short of American military intervention would preclude a communist victory on Taiwan How U S officials grappled with the question of what to do about Taiwan is at the heart of this study Prior to the publication of this book much of the historical literature on this critical period in U S policy toward China concentrated on the question of relations with the new regime in Beijing A focus on those debates has largely overshadowed the concomitant policy debates that centered around the question of how to deal with the Nationalist regime on Taiwan. As this study shows, the two issues were inextricably linked and developing a Taiwan policy was no less difficult or controversial. Heavily informed by an analysis of declassified U.S. government documents and other primary sources, this history strongly suggests that had North Korea not invaded the south in June 1950, the U.S. would not have intervened to save Chiang Kai-shek and Taiwan from near certain invasion. Beyond the narrative itself, this volume is also a case study into the complex and sometimes messy processes by which foreign policy is made. It explores the tensions that existed within the Truman administration between the State Department and various newly created entities such as the Department of Defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the National Security Council. Indeed, the history of policymaking for China and Taiwan in 1949-50 is also a case study in the early development of the post-war interagency system. It also underscores the tensions between the Executive and Legislative branches in the development of foreign policy. The study also brings to light little-discussed and often uncomfortable issues in Taiwan history, some of which still have relevance to politics on the island even today. These include the legacies of the Japanese colonial experience, the post-war Nationalist occupation, and the early stirrings of the Formosan independence movement, to name just a couple. Today, U.S. policy toward Taiwan remains a highly charged and fundamentally divisive issue in U.S.-China relations, especially the security dimensions of that policy. And even today, U.S. Taiwan policy is still subject to partisan politics in Washington as well as in Taipei. For those who still grapple with this issue, this volume presents the roots of the dilemma and essential background reading.

Perceptions of China and White House Decision-Making, 1941-1963
Adam S.R. Bartley, 2019-11-26. This book assesses and evaluates the decision-making behavior of United States presidents and their chief advisers from Roosevelt to Kennedy pertaining to China. Seeking to dispel the notion that each administration sought policy outcomes on the basis of a rational decision-making model, Bartley highlights the contradictions of adopted presidential decision-making processes and the nature of domestic politics as playing prejudicial and debilitating roles. The book demonstrates that elite decision-making processes interacted with assumptions made about Chinese behavior, interests, and attitudes only superficially and in some cases not at all. Misinformation and misperception were the natural outcomes. Reinforced by the politics of McCarthyism at home, intellectual debate on China policy was squashed, parochialism and nuance were shunned, and information was closed off. Ultimately, a divorce between the norm of behavior and the search for rational policy was registered in each administration. The net result was a lasting and destructive cognitive dissonance to fit expectations of a China reality constructed; information was ignored, overlooked, and distorted. Offering new insights into the China policies of consecutive administrations from 1941 to 1963, this volume will be of great interest to scholars and students of American foreign policy, security studies, and international relations.

China at War Hans van de Ven, 2018-02-12 China's mid twentieth century wars pose extraordinary interpretive challenges The issue is not just that the Chinese fought for such a long time from the Marco Polo Bridge Incident of July 1937 until the close of the Korean War in 1953 across such vast territory As Hans van de Ven explains the greatest puzzles lie in understanding China's simultaneous external and internal wars Much is at stake politically in how this story is told Today in its official history and public commemorations the People's Republic asserts Chinese unity against Japan during World War II But this overwrites the era's stark divisions between Communists and Nationalists increasingly erasing the civil war from memory Van de Ven argues that the war with Japan the civil war and its aftermath were in fact of a piece a singular process of conflict and political change Reintegrating the Communist uprising with the Sino Japanese War he shows how the Communists took advantage of wartime to increase their appeal how fissures between the Nationalists and Communists affected anti Japanese resistance and how the fractious coalition fostered conditions for revolution In the process the Chinese invented an influential paradigm of war wherein the Clausewitzian model of total war between well defined interstate enemies gave way to murky campaigns of national liberation involving diverse domestic and outside belligerents This history disappears when the realities of China's mid century conflicts are stripped from public view China at War recovers them
