Abstract

Recently, an elegant framework called $\mathcal{N}^2\mathcal{TL} [8]$ has been proposed for representing qualitative information about time intervals and durations. $\mathcal{N}^2\mathcal{TL}$ is a single network, therefore it avoids typical problems of bi-networks, and in addition it has interesting computational properties. In this paper, we extend $\mathcal{N}^2\mathcal{TL}$ in two directions: we enrich its expressive power introducing points and introducing the same computational properties, and we provide it with an automatic theory able to handle qualitative temporal information about points, intervals and durations in a unified framework. This theory is based on general interval axioms and two relations: general meets and not longer than.

1. Introduction

In many domains, it is more important to consider the relative information concerning the durations of two temporal intervals instead of considering the absolute knowledge about a single interval. If durations are taken as distances between endpoints of intervals then qualitative constraints as "the duration of the interval I is shorter than the duration of the interval J " cannot be represented in a binary constraint network since they concern four points. This problem is usually overcome encoding duration information in a network orthogonal to the interval relationship network, but this strategy presents some limits. In the IA framework [1] it does not guarantee the total consistency of the network [7]. In the same line, there are other bi-network based works proposed for representing information about durations: PIDN [2] and APDN [12]. PIDN is a point-duration network defined as a structure formed by two point algebra networks, separately but not independently, as binary constraints are introduced for relating point and duration information. APDN extends PIDN where only qualitative information is considered, by representing both qualitative and quantitative information about point events. Like other point-based approaches, they do not handle the disjointness of interval algebras.

The PIDN framework [9] considers a single network able to handle both qualitative and quantitative temporal information about points, intervals and durations, but its high expressive power is achieved at the price of its computational properties.

Recently, an elegant subframework of PIDN called $\mathcal{N}^2\mathcal{TL} [3]$ has been proposed. $\mathcal{N}^2\mathcal{TL}$ represents only qualitative information about time intervals and durations and it has interesting computational properties. The set of interval relations considered is an extension of 13 Allen's relations [1] integrated with qualitative information about durations $\{<, =, >\}$. For example, the relation k is extended to the three relations $\{k^<, k^=, k^>\}$, while other relations such as $\{rc, s, dc, d, di, f, fi\}$ which include implicit information about interval durations, are left unchanged. Thus, 25 basic relations between pairs of intervals are considered. The $\mathcal{N}^2\mathcal{TL}$ network exhibits similar characteristics as the IA-network concerning tractable subclasses (Consistent as well as Pre-consistent). But the level of local consistency to achieve global consistency is θ -consistency [4]
