inner psychological conflicts of a woman and making her women characters emerge as self dependent individuals with a space of one's own. Through her bunch of wonderful novels Shashi Deshpande aims to highlight that everyone in this society should be treated as equals as human beings there should not be any compartmentalization on the basis of gender. Women should be given equal opportunity and weightage at par with men. This is possible only when women are independent in truest sense and they hold self reliance and self esteem. As a writer of human beings in general and women in particular Shashi Deshpande has wonderfully considered all these aspects in her writings with her ingenious narrative skill and creative spirit. This book has attempted to explore the journey of Deshpande's protagonists in quest of an exclusive identity which has the essence of individuality and self confidence and which make them stand apart from the stereotypical tags given by traditional patriarchal society. Amidst hindrances and oppressions of various kinds how Deshpande's women characters come out of their shell to carve a niche for themselves by utilizing their potential and willpower has formed the crux of the book. Comprehensive and analytical in nature the present book would prove an asset to students of English literature.

A Fluid Sense of Self Silvia Schultermund, Sebnem Toplu, 2010. In this era of increasing global mobility identities are too complex to be captured by concepts that rely on national borders for reference. Such identities are not unified or stable but are fluid entities which constantly push at the boundaries of the nation state thereby re-defining themselves and the nation state simultaneously. Contemporary literature pays specific attention to internal and external notions of belonging. Politics of Motion and definitions of self resulting from interpersonal relationships. Politics of Longing. This collection looks at texts by authors who are British American or Canadian but for whom a self definition according to national parameters is insufficient.

Indian Women's Short Fiction Joel Kuortti, Mittapalli Rajeshwar, 2007. Although Indian Women's Short Fiction has always enjoyed equal importance and popularity as their novels very little critical attention has been paid to it. So far Indian Women's Short Fiction seeks to fulfil this long felt need. It puts together fifteen perceptive and analytical articles by scholars across the world. The articles which are focussed on native Indian writing as well as diasporic short fiction deal with such interesting literary issues as construction of femininity, disablement and enablement, Bengali heritage, hybrid identities, nostalgia, representation of the partition, violence, tradition and modernity and cultural perspectivism. It is hoped that the book will prove useful to scholars interested in short fiction studies in general and Indian Women's Short Fiction in particular.

National Identity and Cultural Representation in the Novels of Arundhati Roy and Kiran Desai Sonali Das, 2018-04-18. This book is the first of its kind to examine the theories of nation and national identity in both the West according to the theories of Benedict Anderson and Salman Rushdie and in the East in the light of the works of Jawaharlal Nehru as they apply to the novels of Arundhati Roy and Kiran Desai The second part of the twentieth century witnessed a new interface between fiction and history called New History It brought into its purview the hitherto marginalized sections of society like slaves peasants workers women and children Whereas the subalterns in The Inheritance of Loss are disempowered by the brunt of globalisation and neo colonialism the subalterns in The God of Small Things face the ire of the deep seated divisions based on caste and gender bias in a postcolonial society In addition this book also deals with contemporary social issues like individual identity in a multicultural world where cultures and nature converge into myriad ways of living It will be of immense benefit to MA and MPhil students all over India as well as to PhD scholars and teachers of English literature both in India and abroad

Pears, 2015-10-29 The front covers of books written by Algerian women serve as the primary source of investigation in Front Cover Iconography and Algerian Women Writers These covers have implications that extend beyond selling the book What we see on one side of the page or in this case the cover recto controls what we read on the reverse in this case the text itself verso Using theories of the paratext including those of Gérard Genette and Jonathan Gray this book determines how four dominant iconographies used on the covers of Algerian women s writing Orientalist art the veil the desert and the author portrait work with and against the texts they represent These images have an impact on the initial reception of the book but beyond that book covers determine how both the informed and uninformed reader categorize and interpret francophone Algerian women's writing in France and beyond. As the covers help to sell the works, they also produce messages represented via their iconographies that embed themselves into the texts. A sometimes explicit and at the very least implicit dialog between the visual paratextual representation and the written textual one is created, a dialog that extends beyond the life of the physical book to a sort of canonical paradigm for reading these authors' works. Thus, even if the cover image appears ephemeral, it never truly disappears. Its powerful control over critical reception and ultimately interpretation of francophone Algerian women's writing remains.

Radical Feminism and Women's Writing Chandra Nisha Singh, 2007. The Book Places A Body Of Women's Fiction Against The Ideological Territory Of Radical Feminism With A Firm Belief In Its Social Political And Intellectual Essentiality. The Absence Of This Specific Discourse In Women's Texts Stirs An Urge For A Different Kind Of Gender Sensitivity Than Their Limited And Undefined Approach. Provides The Book Takes Into Its View A Huge Compendium Of Women's Fiction In Hindi And In Indian English Most Of Which Has Been Victim Of Hegemonic Biases And Overall Marginalization.

Women Writing Intimacy and Resistance Valérie Baisnée-Keay, Corinne Bigot, Nicoleta Alexoae-Zagni, Nathalie Saudo-Welby, Stephanie Genty, 2025-05-27. This collection explores how women writers in the English speaking world transform personal intimacy into political engagement, challenging cultural oppression across genres: life writing, novels, poetry, and theatre from the 19th century to today. Guided by the feminist slogan 'the personal is political', it bridges feminist, decolonial, ethnic, and queer studies, revealing how gender-based domination intersects with other forms of oppression. The authors highlight how these writers across various forms of expression imagine new modes of resistance and carve out space for social change.

Nineteenth-Century Women's Writing in Wales Jane Aaron, 2010-02-15. The first volume in the new series Gender Studies in Wales, this book argues that the way in which people came to perceive and to represent themselves as Welsh was profoundly affected by the gender ideologies prevalent during the Romantic and Victorian periods. Nineteenth Century Women's Writing in Wales: Nation, Gender and Identity introduces readers to a hundred Welsh women authors at work during the years 1780-1900, some writing in Welsh and some in English. In so doing, it rescues many of these authors from critical neglect and oblivion. In the second half of the nineteenth century, in particular, Welsh women writers in both languages were numerous and enjoyed a degree of influence on Welsh culture easily commensurate with that of women writers today. By covering the nineteenth century chronologically, this book traces the coming into being of the Welsh nation as its women, in particular, saw it and as they helped to create it.
