Selling Science Stephen E. Mawdsley, 2016-08-01 Today when many parents

seem reluctant to have their children vaccinated even with long proven medications the Salk vaccine trial which enrolled millions of healthy children to test an unproven medical intervention seems nothing short of astonishing In Selling Science medical historian Stephen E Mawdsley recounts the untold story of the first large clinical trial to control polio using healthy children 55 000 healthy children revealing how this long forgotten incident cleared the path for Salk's later trial Mawdsley describes how in the early 1950s Dr William Hammon and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis launched a pioneering medical experiment on a previously untried scale Conducted on over 55 000 healthy children in Texas Utah Iowa and Nebraska this landmark study assessed the safety and effectiveness of a blood component gamma globulin to prevent paralytic polio The value of the proposed experiment was questioned by many prominent health professionals as it harbored potential health risks but as Mawdsley points out compromise and coercion moved it forward And though the trial returned dubious results it was presented to the public as a triumph and used to justify a federally sanctioned mass immunization study on thousands of families between 1953 and 1954 Indeed the concept conduct and outcome of the GG study were sold to health professionals medical researchers and the public at each stage At a time when most Americans trusted scientists their mutual encounter under the auspices of conquering disease was shaped by politics marketing and at times deception Drawing on oral history interviews medical journals newspapers meeting minutes and private institutional records Selling Science sheds light on the ethics of scientific conduct and on the power of marketing to shape public opinion about medical experimentation

Walking Isn't Everything Jean Denecke, 2008 Walking Isn't Everything was written by Jean Denecke about her experience of living with polio This book discusses what it was like to get polio her experiences with various hospitals and doctors and her experience in the Roosevelt Foundation facility in Warm Springs Georgia Giving a glimpse of how the delivery of medical services have changed since the polio epidemics of the early 1950s the book describes what it was like to be a woman with a disability in that era Even though she was hospitalized for a long time after going to Warm Springs she was able to return to her home where she continued in her role as a wife and mother and later started her own business Walking Isn't Everything is more than just a biography of one remarkable woman it is a story of courage determination and love
