process of industrialisation the Civil War conflict and the contested governance of nineteenth century cities While this study is firmly rooted in the experience of Philadelphia s machine builders its historiographic significance extends to many of the important themes of mid century American history By rejecting the conventional viewpoint that timid manufacturers were conservative supporters of the plantation South and insisting that workshop owners rejected slavery this study reinvigorates one of the Civil War s enduring interpretative battles Of interest to scholars of business economic social labour education urban and Civil War history it will no doubt stimulate further debate and add a new angle to our understanding of nineteenth century America
