Counterfactual Thinking David R. Mandel,Denis J. Hilton,Patrizia Catellani,2007-05-07 This book provides a critical overview of significant developments in research and theory on counterfactual thinking that have emerged in recent years and spotlights exciting new directions for future research in this area Key issues considered include the relations between counterfactual and casual reasoning the functional bases of counterfactual thinking the role of counterfactual thinking in the experience of emotion and the importance of counterfactual thinking in the context of crime and justice Human Rights as Social Representations Willem Doise,2003-08-29 There are currently a large number of historical philosophical political and judicial studies on human rights However a thorough social psychological analysis of their intervention in social relations extending across national and cultural boundaries has not been available This book fills that gap providing a detailed examination of the foundations of human rights principles the sources of their universality and their limitations Using the tools of social representation theory Willem Doise examines human rights as guiding ideas which can provide institutionalized standards He then explores how these standards can be used to evaluate the relationship of individuals with authorities and with each other Essential reading for scholars and students studying social representation theory and human rights it will also be of great interest to those working more generally in the fields of psychology sociology and anthropology

The Psychological Origins of Institutionalized Torture Mika Haritos-Fatouros,2012-12-06 Original research including interviews with former Greek torturers is supplemented by discussion of former studies military records and other sources to provide disturbing but valuable insights into the psychology of torture The book describes parallel situations such as the rites of passage in pre industrial societies and cults elite Corps military training and college hazing eventually concluding that the torturer is not born but made Of essential interest to academics and students interested in social psychology and related disciplines this book will also be extremely valuable to policy makers professionals working in government and all those interested in securing and promoting human rights The Cumulative Book Index ,1999 Forthcoming Books Rose Army,1998-04 Budapest Review of Books ,1999 Zoom In, Zoom Out Sandra Barriaes-Bouche,Marjorie Attignol Salvodon,2009-03-26 In the context of the transformations that Europe is undergoing Zoom in Zoom out Crossing Borders in Contemporary European Cinema attempts to serve as a testimony to the multiple ways in which European filmmakers are questioning the many borders of the continent European films have become a vital cultural space where the relationship between borders and identity is being renegotiated The films discussed here self consciously address the question of European identity while overtly crossing geographic cultural linguistic and aesthetic borders While all the articles explore the crossing of borders in Contemporary European films the volume maintains diverse themes and perspectives as subtopics It includes articles not only about films that deal thematically with border crossings but also articles that examine movies that cross borders in genres and techniques The articles have different theoretical approaches Film theory Cultural Studies History Sociology Philosophy and Psychoanalysis and cover films from well known cinematic traditions French Spanish German and Italian as well as lesser known cinematic traditions Yugoslavian Greek and Irish As a whole the essays frame the self conscious gesture by European filmmakers to define European cinema as a work in progress or at the very least as a project that like Europe itself raises as many questions as it answers This volume is a welcome addition to the growing critical literature on the evolution of the conception and practice of national cinema in Europe over the last two decades Sandra Barriaes Bouche and Marjorie Attignol Salvodon have chosen a solid selection of representative case studies that reflects different critical approaches to the problem of maintaining local or national cinema production in Europe during a period of intense globalization Their insightful introduction formulates the theme of unsettled borders and renegotiated identities that will resonate in the nine essays that follow With a focus on the critical concept of these unsettled borders the various authors explore the ways that the traditional mark of national space has been transformed through political and economic realignments as well as new technologies and the emergence of a new generation of filmmakers for whom national cinema no longer means what it did even twenty years ago The volume provides a good balance of critical approaches that includes auteur studies descriptions of state policies and the particular practices of filmmakers and producers in different parts of the continent Spain Germany Ireland the Balkans and finally useful appendices that provide a close up view of the complex nature of international co productions Marvin D Lugo Professor of Spanish Clark University This is an interesting collection of essays that has been well conceived and organised The standard of writing is high and I recommend publication I particularly commend the conceptual framework underpinning the volume This marries a cultural studies approach which still dominates the study of film in Area Studies and language departments across Europe and the US where filmic texts are increasingly used as teaching tools with the more industry based focus one tends to find adopted by Media and Screen Studies departments Thus this collection will appeal to a wide range of students and academics The introduction sets out the volume s overarching framework cogently and clearly giving a nuanced exploration of the way that the notion of the border can be used as a dynamic prism to help define and explore the limits of our understanding of Europe European identity and European culture within which cinema has long played a key role The editors give a good account for example of the way film has been employed as a space to explore the possibilities of European integration by EU politicians as well as highlighting the flaws inherent within this project They do however perhaps suggest a certain Western European North American centric view in their suggestion that the cinema of Yugoslavia Greece or Ireland is somehow less well known than other national and transnational cinemas explored here Less well known to whom However from the broad range of cinemas explored in the rest of the volume clearly this is not the case Particular high points for me are the chapters on the work of Fatih Akin by Janis Little Solomon and John Davidson s discussion of Schulze gets the Blues as well as Olivier Asselin s fascinating account of Database Cinema This will be a good addition to scholarship on European film and I look forward to receiving my copy
