The Early Dutch Sinologists (1854-1900) Koos (P.N.) Kuiper, 2017-07-10 In The Early Dutch Sinologists Koos Kuiper gives a detailed account of the studies and work of the 24 Dutchmen trained as interpreters for the Netherlands Indies before 1900 Most began studying at Leiden University then went to Amoy to study southern Chinese dialects Their main functions were translating Dutch law into Chinese advising the courts on Chinese law and checking Chinese accounts books later also regulating coolie affairs Actually their services were not always appreciated and there was not enough work for them later many pursued other careers in the Indies administration or in scholarship This study also analyses the three dictionaries they compiled Based on a wealth of primary sources it gives a fascinating picture of personal cross cultural contacts

Visual Representations of the Cold War and Postcolonial Struggles Midori Yamamura, Yu-Chieh Li, 2021-06-24 The essays and artworks gathered in this volume examine the visual manifestations of postcolonial struggles in art in East and Southeast Asia as the world transitioned from the communist capitalist ideological divide into the new global power structure under neoliberalism that started taking shape during the Cold War The contributors to this volume investigate the visual art that emerged in Australia China Cambodia Indonesia Korea Okinawa and the Philippines With their critical views and new approaches the scholars and curators examine how visual art from postcolonial countries deviated from the communist capitalist dichotomy to explore issues of identity environment rapid commercialization of art and independence These foci offer windows into some lesser known aspects of the Cold War including humanistic responses to the neo imperial exploitations of people and resources as capitalism transformed into its most aggressive form Given its unique approach this seminal study will be of great value to scholars of 20th century East Asian and Southeast Asian art history and visual and cultural studies

A Most Promising Weed Steven C. Rubert, 1998 Thousands of African men women and children worked on European owned tobacco farms in colonial Zimbabwe from 1890 to 1945 Contrary to some commonly held notions these people were not mere bystanders as European capitalism penetrated into Zimbabwe but helped to shape the work and the living conditions they encountered as they entered wage employment Steven Rubert's fine study draws on a rich variety of sources to illuminate the lives of these workers The central focus of the study is the organization of workers compounds the social relationships there and the labor of women and children paid and unpaid Rubert's findings indicate the beginnings of a moral economy on the tobacco farms prior to 1945

American Book Publishing Record, 2001

Excerpta Indonesica, 1990

The Moral Economy of the State William A. Munro, 1998 The Moral Economy of the State examines state formation in Zimbabwe from the colonial period through the first decade of independence Drawing on the works of Gramsci E P Thompson and James Scott William Munro develops a theory of moral economy that explores negotiations between rural citizens and state agents over legitimate state incursions in social life This analysis demonstrates how states try to shape the meanings of citizenship for agrarian populations by redefining conceptions of the public good property rights and community membership The book's focus on the moral economy of the state offers a refreshing perspective on the difficulties experienced by postcolonial African states in building stronger state and rural institutions

Muslims and Communists in Post-Transition States Ben Fowkes, Bulent Gokay, 2014-01-02 Popular uprisings have taken many different forms in the last hundred or so years since Muslims first began to grapple with modernity and to confront various systems of domination both European and indigenous The relevance of studies of popular uprising and revolt in the Muslim world has recently been underlined by shattering recent events particularly in Egypt Yemen Tunisia and Libya The book consists of a close analysis of the problematic of the Qur'an showing the openness of the text to Islamic reform and renewal the role of Islam in creating a specific form of communism in Albania and Kosovo the Chechen revolts against Russian rule after the collapse of the Soviet Union and the short lived period of alliance between communism and Islam in the early 1920s the history of alliances between British Muslims and socialists since the 1950s The book also traces the evolution of the Muslim Communist alliance during the twentieth century analyses the driving forces behind it looks at the new situation created by the democratic revolts of 2010-11 in the Middle East and attempts a prognosis for future relations between these and existing communist groups This volume contributes to the debate over the aims and methods of these popular uprisings This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Communist Studies and Transition Politics

Engineering Asia Hiromi Mizuno, Aaron S. Moore, John DiMoia, 2018-08-09 Weaving together chapters on imperial Japan's wartime mobilization Asia's first wave of postwar decolonization and Cold War geopolitical conflict in the region Engineering Asia seeks to demonstrate how Asia's present prosperity did not arise from a so called economic miracle but from the violent and dynamic events of the 20th century The book argues that what continued to operate throughout these tumultuous eras were engineering networks of technology Constructed at first for colonial development under Japan these networks transformed into channels of overseas development aid that constituted the Cold War system in Asia Through highlighting how these networks helped shape Asia's contemporary economic landscape Engineering Asia challenges dominant narratives in Western scholarship of an economic miracle in Japan and South Korea and the Asian Tigers of Southeast Asia Students and scholars of East Asian studies development studies postcolonialism Cold War studies and the history of technology and science will find this book immensely useful

Dutch Culture Overseas Frances Gouda, 2008 European colonial expansion led to Dutch notions of civilised society or the Dutch's community's flexible and relatively charitable attitudes toward others being scattered as in the Greek word diaspeirein to the four corners of the earth In some cases the exportation of Dutch cultural values to places overseas like North America endowed Dutchness with subtle new meanings But in colonial Indonesia Dutch political customs and traditions were transformed in the process of migrating to exotic locales In this book Frances Gouda examines the ways in which the Netherlands portrayed its unique colonial style to the outside world Why were citizens of a small and politically insignificant European nation able to represent as natural and normal their dominance over ancient civilizations on islands such as Java and Bali How did Dutch colonial residents explain the cultural differences between themselves and the supposedly primitive peoples of the Indonesian archipelago In trying to understand the gendering practices of colonial governance in the Netherlands East Indies Gouda also explores the interactions of Dutch and Indonesian women with European men FRANCES GOUDA earned a Ph D in history from the University of Washington in Seattle in 1980 She is currently professor of history and gender studies in the Political Science Department of the University of Amsterdam Asian Labor in the Wartime Japanese Empire Paul H. Kratoska,2014-12-18 During the Pacific War the Japanese government used a wide range of methods to recruit workers for construction projects throughout the occupied territories Mistreatment of workers was a major grievance both in widely publicized cases such as the use of prisoners of war and forced Asian labor to construct the Thailand Burma Death Railway and in a very large number of smaller projects In this book an international group of specialists on the Occupation period examine the labor needs and the recruitment and use of workers whether forced military or otherwise throughout the Japanese empire This is the first study to look at Japanese labor policies comparatively across all the occupied territories of Asia during the war years It also provides a graphic context for examining Japanese colonialism and relations between the Japanese and the people living in the various occupied territories

Whose Comfort?: Body, Sexuality And Identity Of Korean 'Comfort Women' And Japanese Soldiers During Wwii Yonson Ahn,2019-10-17 In recent years international attention has been recurrently drawn to violence against civilians including sexual violence during war as a means of furthering military or political goals The ongoing issue of comfort women has been debated not only among Asian countries including Japan Korea China Indonesia and the Philippines but also in numerous international forums This book examines the system of military comfort women in Asia and the Pacific created and maintained by Japan during World War II It uses the comfort women system as a lens for exploring the ways in which body sexuality and identity are deployed in the creation of patriarchal relations ethnic hierarchies and colonial nationalist power This book analyzes the role and nature of the comfort women system as a mechanism of social control by the colonial state This requires the examining of sexuality and body politics the social background of the victims wartime working conditions and regulation of soldiers sexuality This book aims to contribute to both the academic community and the community of civic groups through a work that spans the dimensions of history theory and activism Catalogue of the Library of the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology.
