Ross,1994-11-16 In 1818 John Ross led an expedition to search for the Northwest Passage He got as far as Baffin Bay but when he reached the only practicable entrance to the passage he declared it to be no more than a bay enclosed by mountains. In subsequent years he was widely derided for that error and carried the scars of public and professional humiliation for the rest of his life. In 1829 he mounted a private expedition to search for the passage during which he became trapped in the Canadian Arctic and survived a four year ordeal of isolation and hardship. He proved that whatever his shortcomings as an explorer he could never be accused of lacking courage. James Clark Ross was one of the most experienced and respected explorers of his day. He led or took part in eight expeditions to the Arctic including John Ross 1818 and 1829 expeditions and three with the great explorer William Edward Parry. He also led a highly successful scientific expedition to the Antarctic in 1839-43. His many important discoveries included locating the North Magnetic Pole and he ensured the presence of the Ross family name throughout both polar regions: Ross Island, Ross Ice Shelf and Ross Sea in the Antarctic; James Ross Strait, Ross Bay, Ross Point and Ross Bay in the Arctic. Drawing on family papers and extensive research, M. J. Ross traces the careers of these two very different men, highlighting their achievements and defeats and presents a detailed picture of their private lives.
