

A romantic wedding scene featuring a bride and groom in white dresses standing on a thick, horizontal palm tree branch. The bride's long veil flows down and over the side of the branch. They are positioned against a clear blue sky with a few wispy clouds. To the left, a full palm tree stands tall. The background shows a calm turquoise ocean and a distant shoreline with greenery. The overall atmosphere is serene and tropical.

Each time I begin a book of travel I search for the reasons that sent me awandering Foolishness for I ought to know by this time the wander fever was born in my blood it is in the blood of my sister and brothers We were brought up in an inland town in Victoria Australia and the years have seen us roaming all over the world I do not think any of us has been nearer the North Pole than Petropaulovski or to the South Pole than Cape Horn children of a sub tropical clime we do not like the cold but in many countries in between have we wandered The sailors by virtue of their profession have had the greater opportunities but the other five have made a very good second best of it and always there has been among us a very understanding sympathy with the desire that is planted in each and all to visit the remote corners of the earth Anybody can go on the beaten track It only requires money to take a railway or steamer ticket and though we by no means despise comfort indeed because we know something of the difficulties that beset the traveller beyond the bounds of civilisation we appreciate it the more highly still there is something else beyond comfort in life Wherein lies the call of the Unknown To have done something that no one else has done or only accomplished with difficulty Where lies the charm I cannot put it into words only it is there the something calling beyond the mountains the Come and find me of Kipling That voice every one of the Gaunts hears and we all sympathise when another one goes
