The Italian Influence On English Barometers From 1780:

The Italian Influence on English Barometers from 1780 Edwin Banfield, 1993 The author traces the origins and background of the early Italian migrant barometer makers and indicates how they made their way to Britain

Making Scientific Instruments in the Industrial Revolution A.D. Morrison-Low, 2017-03-02 At the start of the Industrial Revolution it appeared that most scientific instruments were made and sold in London but by the time of the Great Exhibition in 1851 a number of provincial firms had the self confidence to exhibit their products in London to an international audience How had this change come about and why This book looks at the four main and two lesser English centres known for instrument production outside the capital Birmingham Liverpool Manchester and Sheffield along with the older population centres in Bristol and York Making wide use of new sources Dr Morrison Low curator of history of science at the National Museums of Scotland charts the growth of these centres and provides a characterisation of their products New information is provided on aspects of the trade especially marketing techniques sources of materials tools and customer relationships From contemporary evidence she argues that the principal output of the provincial trade with some notable exceptions must have been into the London marketplace anonymously and at the cheaper end of the market She also discusses the structure and organization of the provincial trade and looks at the impact of new technology imported from other closely allied trades By virtue of its approach and subject matter the book considers aspects of economic and business history gender and the family the history of science and technology material culture and patterns of migration It contains a myriad of stories of families and firms of entrepreneurs and customers and of organizations and arms of government In bringing together this wide range of interests Dr Morrison Low enables us to appreciate how central the making selling and distribution of scientific instruments was for the Industrial Revolution

Directory of British Scientific Instrument Makers, 1550-1851 Gloria Clifton, 1995 This publication lists over 5 000 scientific instrument makers and retailers working in the British Isles together with a further 10 000 names of apprentices and associates The directory transforms our understanding of the history of the scientific instrument making trades in Britain Each entry includes estimated working dates specific trades addresses training apprentices types of instruments made and brief biographical details As such this volume not only provides essential information for collectors dealers museum curators and scholars but it will also have much to offer economic social and family historians with its evidence about master apprentice links trade connections and family relationships

Wolfe, 2022-08-27 This Encyclopedia offers a fresh integrated and creative perspective on the formation and foundations of philosophy and science in European modernity Combining careful contextual reconstruction with arguments from traditional philosophy the book examines methodological dimensions breaks down traditional oppositions such as rationalism vs empiricism calls attention to gender issues to insiders and outsiders minor figures in philosophy and underground movements among many other topics In addition and in line with important recent transformations in the fields of history of science and early modern philosophy the volume recognizes the specificity and significance of early modern science and discusses important developments including issues of historiography such as historical epistemology the interplay between the material culture and modes of knowledge expert knowledge and craft knowledge This book stands at the crossroads of different disciplines and combines their approaches particularly the history of science the history of philosophy contemporary philosophy of science and intellectual and cultural history It brings together over 100 philosophers historians of science historians of mathematics and medicine offering a comprehensive view of early modern philosophy and the sciences It combines and discusses recent results from two very active fields early modern philosophy and the history of early modern science Editorial Board EDITORS IN CHIEF Dana Jalobeanu University of Bucharest Romania Charles T Wolfe Ghent University Belgium ASSOCIATE EDITORS Delphine Bellis University Nijmegen The Netherlands Zvi Biener University of Cincinnati OH USA Angus Gowland University College London UK Ruth Hagengruber University of Paderborn Germany Hiro Hirai Radboud University Nijmegen The Netherlands Martin Lenz University of Groningen The Netherlands Gideon Manning CalTech Pasadena CA USA Silvia Manzo University of La Plata Argentina Enrico Pasini University of Turin Italy Cesare Pastorino TU Berlin Germany Lucian Petrescu Universit Libre de Bruxelles Belgium Justin E H Smith University de Paris Diderot France Marius Stan Boston College Chestnut Hill MA USA Koen Vermeir CNRS SPHERE Universit de Paris France Kirsten Walsh University of Calgary Alberta Canada All Things Austen Kirstin Olsen, 2005 Through more than 150 alphabetically arranged entries this fact filled compendium provides fascinating historical details about all the things that make up the material culture of Jane Austen's world Whitaker's Books in Print, 1998 Nuova Voltiana Fabio Bevilacqua, Lucio Fregonese, 2000 CURRENT CONTENTS, 1996

Under the Weather Tom Fort, 2007 Tom Fort whose writing has been variously described as jocund slightly loopy unbelievably poignant and deeply peculiar travels around Britain experiencing some of its extremer climates and some of its more typical with a view to explaining what we make and have made of the British weather and what it has made of us There are two interlocking strands the story of those who moved to an exceptional sometimes obsessive degree by the fascination felt by so many of us sought to know and understand our weather and the story of its impact on us our history our culture the way we think and behave He focuses on the people the clergymen the gentlemen of leisure the crackpots visionaries charlatans and shysters all now largely or utterly forgotten who volunteered and toiled for the cause telling their stories by tracking them down to the places usually their own gardens where they indulged their quite passion for measuring rainfall scrutinising dewdrops tapping their barometers and peering at their thermometers Once their age of the amateur scientist was over and the business of weather forecasting was annexed by professionals with state backing it became a less colourful affair The historical strand is in part a straightforward chronology an account of the part played by climate in our history how when the sun shone and rain fell in gentle abundance we prospered and multiplied how when the climate cooled bringing wet summers and savage winters we perished by plague and famine and retreated from places made unbelievable how in time as we matured from a rural peasant society our weather became less a matter of life and death though always on absorbing interest But beyond that there is another dimension to its influence on us the moral and spiritual one This is contentious but intriguing the extent to which we share as view of our weather and the extent to which it may have shaped us into the people we are
