We then analyze (1) data that describe the past 11 years of PA education and (2) data that address the experience of recent graduates of PA education programs who have sought employment. Some evidence suggests that, although demand has kept pace with expanding supply, a perception clearly exists that the PA job market may be tightening in some regions of the United States.

Some argue that the sharp increase in annual PA graduates, coupled with similar increases in other health professions recently, could soon outstrip demand and prompt an oversupply.
