The Field That Wasn't Leveled Jibreel A. Rashad,2021-04-28 The Field That Wasn't Leveled is the true story of a young boy growing up in a lowermiddle class neighborhood in Dallas Texas Against all odds he manages to survive the tough streets of Oak Cliff while immersing himself into the world of sports becoming a high school and college football star For years he was told by his coaches that the gridiron was an equal playing field But no one ever told him about the field that wasn't After a brief tryout with the NFL New York Giants he would return to Dallas Texas only to find himself being a target in an FBI masterminded investigation With his faith intact he began walking upon The Field That Wasn't Leveled

TV as Curriculum Studies Jordan Corson,Dani Friedrich,2024-12-30 In recent decades TV has depicted schooling in wildly different ways During this time the field of Curriculum Studies has evolved with the generation and incorporation of different theories This book puts those theories to work by providing examples of how they could be used to read scenes of schooling on TV through a series of short accessible essays How would Jean Anyon think of schooling and class relations in Diff rent Strokes What does a queer reading of Buffy The Vampire Slayer tell us about students relationship to authority What does a cartoon created by one of Hip Hop's most imaginative minds offer to burned out teachers The book also includes essays from guest stars well known scholars in the field and several commercial breaks that provide additional resources for those interested in Curriculum Studies Guest stars are Wayne Au Denise Taliaferro Baszile Esther Ohito Rachel Talbert Roozbeh Shirazi Kate Strom and Boni Wozolek

Leon Williams, 2017-06-12 For nearly two decades Dr T Leon Williams has been visiting college campuses sharing his unique perspective of the historical relevance of the nation's progress through monologues of the beloved Rev Dr Martin Luther King Jr In The View from the Mountaintop Williams charts the course for the advancement of human relations from chance to change Drawing from his personal and professional experiences Williams attempts to make meaning of the lived experiences from childhood to adulthood that has shaped his attitude and perspective of America Through scholarly personal narratives and for the first time in Williams travels he shares his essays with the public Williams strategically addresses one question what would Dr King have to say today In his most provocative work Williams shares his perspective of rethinking nonviolence for the twenty first century Black Men on Race, Gender, and Sexuality Devon Carbado, 1999-07-01 In late 1995 the Million Man March drew hundreds of thousands of black men to Washington DC and seemed even to skeptics a powerful sign not only of black male solidarity but also of black racial solidarity Yet while generating a sense of community and common purpose the Million Man March with its deliberate exclusion of women and implicit rejection of black gay men also highlighted one of the central faultlines in African American politics the role of gender and sexuality in antiracist agenda In this groundbreaking anthology a companion to the highly successful Critical Race Feminism Devon Carbado changes the terms of the debate over racism gender and sexuality in black America The essays cover such topics as the legal construction of black male identity domestic abuse in the black community the enduring power of black machismo the politics of black male white female relationships racial essentialism the role of black men in black women's quest for racial equality and the heterosexist nature of black political engagement Featuring work by Cornel West Huey Newton Henry Louis Gates Jr A Leon Higginbotham Jr Houston Baker Marlon T Riggs Dwight McBride Michael Awkward Ishmael Reed Derrick Bell and many others Devon Carbado's anthology stakes out new territory in the American racial landscape Critical America A series edited by Richard Delgado and Jean Stephancic Whisper Writing Melissa M. Jones, 2004 Three teenage girls share their stories about life as students as young women with disabilities and as minorities in a male dominated special education school culture We Can't Go Home Again Clarence E. Walker, 2001-06-14 Afrocentrism has been a controversial but popular movement in schools and universities across America as well as in black communities But in We Can't Go Home Again historian Clarence E Walker puts Afrocentrism to the acid test in a thoughtful passionate and often blisteringly funny analysis that melts away the pretensions of this therapeutic mythology As expounded by Molefi Kete Asante Yosef Ben Jochannan and others Afrocentrism encourages black Americans to discard their recent history with its inescapable white presence and to embrace instead an empowering vision of their African specifically Egyptian ancestors as the source of western civilization

Walker marshals a phalanx of serious scholarship to rout these ideas. He shows for instance that ancient Egyptian society was not black but a melange of ethnic groups and questions whether in any case the pharaonic regime offers a model for blacks today asking if everybody was a King who built the pyramids. But for Walker Afrocentrism is more than simply bad history; it substitutes a feel good myth of the past for an attempt to grapple with the problems that still confront blacks in a racist society. The modern American black identity is the product of centuries of real history as Africans and their descendants created new hybrid cultures mixing many African ethnic influences with native and European elements. Afrocentrism replaces this complex history with a dubious claim to distant glory. Afrocentrism offers not an empowering understanding of black Americans' past, Walker concludes, but a pastiche of alien traditions held together by simplistic fantasies. More to the point, this specious history denies to black Americans the dignity and power that springs from an honest understanding of their real history. I won't let them be like me R. Latham Lechowick, 2024-03-11

Ezidi people, Yazidi Yazidi and their culture suffered greatly at the hands of Daesh before, during and after the 2014 Sinjar Shingal Genocide. Since the resulting forced migration, the Ezidi community, as one of the most marginalised societies in the Middle East, has undergone a significant amount of society-wide transformation. New avenues for agency have opened and Shingali Ezidi women have taken these opportunities to express transformed identities, filling spaces previously unavailable and altering traditional gender roles. This first extensive ethnographic work ever conducted with Ezidi women examines origins and developments of transformations in their female identity and agency. The analysis of their expressions and performances is particularly notable because of the subaltern position under numerous layers of minority, e.g. ethnicity, geography, religion, politics, culture, language, as well as gender. The aim of this study is to investigate the utilisation of subaltern identity to actualise agency among women after genocide. The Literary World, 1875. Animating Expressive Characters for Social Interaction Lola Cañamero, Ruth Aylett, 2008. Animated interactive characters and robots that are able to function in human social environments are being developed by a large number of research groups worldwide. Emotional expression as a key element of human social interaction and communication is often added in an attempt to make them appear more natural to us. How can such artefacts be given emotional displays that are believable and acceptable to humans? This is the central question of Animating Expressive Characters for Social Interaction. The ability to express and recognize emotions is a fundamental aspect of social interaction. Not only is it a central research question, it has been explored in animated films, dance and other expressive arts for a much longer period. This book is unique in presenting a multi-disciplinary approach to animation in its broadest sense, from internal mechanisms to external displays, not only from a graphical perspective but more generally examining how to give characters an anima so that they appear as life-like entities and social partners to humans.
