The Philippine Journal Of Science Columbian Consequences:

The Philippine Journal of Science ,1928 Report of the Governor General of the Philippine Islands

Philippines. Governor,1928 Agents of Apocalypse Ken De Bevoise,1995-01-03 As waves of epidemic disease swept the Philippines in the late nineteenth century some colonial physicians began to fear that the indigenous population would be wiped out Many Filipinos interpreted the contagions as a harbinger of the Biblical Apocalypse Though the direct forebodings went unfulfilled Philippine morbidity and mortality rates were the world s highest during the period 1883 1903 In Agents of Apocalypse Ken De Bevoise shows that those mourning years resulted from a conjunction of demographic economic technological cultural and political processes that had been building for centuries The story is one of unintended consequences fraught with tragic irony De Bevoise uses the Philippine case study to explore the extent to which humans participate in creating their epidemics Interpreting the archival record with conceptual guidance from the health sciences he sets tropical disease in a historical framework that views people as interacting with rather than acting within their total environment The complexity of cause effect and agency structure relationships is thereby highlighted Readers from fields as diverse as Spanish American and Philippine history medical anthropology colonialism international relations Asian studies and ecology will benefit from De Bevoise s insights into the interdynamics of historical processes that connect humans and their diseases Annual Report of the Governor General, Philippine Islands Philippines.
