The Cannibal Queen:

The Cannibal Queen, 1993      The Cannibal Queen Stephen Coonts, 1993-03      The Cannibal Queen Stephen Coonts, 1999-08-01 Stephen Coonts has been hailed as the best contemporary author writing about flying. In The Cannibal Queen he turns his storytelling genius to nonfiction with an exultant account of three glorious months in the summer of 91 spent in the cockpit of a 1942 Stearman vintage biplane. Joining the ranks of John Steinbeck and Charles Kuralt, Coonts takes us on an extraordinary adventure touching down in all forty-eight of the continental United States. On a clear sunny Saturday in June, Coonts and his fourteen-year-old son David take off from Boulder, Colorado, in a 1942 Stearman open cockpit biplane, a noisy forty-nine-year-old wood and canvas crate with a naked floozy painted on the side. The Queen started life as a World War II primary trainer, then spent over thirty years as an agricultural spray plane before being lovingly restored. For Coonts, who's logged thousands of hours in the Navy's most sophisticated aircraft, the Queen is flying as he's never known it before. Flying close to the earth, the wind teasing his helmet equipped with little more than a map and a compass. First stop is a Stearman fly-in in St. Francis, Kansas, there amid the barbecues and barber shop quartets, the tree-lined streets with their modest homes. Coonts feels nostalgia for small town America for a way of life he felt was dying. Yet by the end of the journey, having met the friendly, richly individual people in towns large and small across the land, he knows our nation has weathered her first two hundred years remarkably well and he is filled with hope for the future of this vast and varied land. First published in 1992, The Cannibal Queen was Coonts' first venture into nonfiction and is hailed today as a classic flying story. Coonts captures the joy and wonder of flight on every page. Over half the fan mail he has received through the years has been about this book. You owe it to yourself to go flying with Stephen Coonts.      The Cannibal Queen Stephen Coonts, 2010-11-30 The New York Times bestselling icon of the techno aviation thriller takes to the skies in this memoir of a great American adventure in an open cockpit biplane. It was a bird's-eye view of America and the trip of a lifetime for author Stephen Coonts and his fourteen-year-old son. But even for Coonts, who had clocked 1,600 hours as a naval aviator and was the recipient of the Distinguished Flying Cross commendation, this was a first. He'd be flying closer to the earth than he ever had before. His big yellow wood and canvas bird was the Cannibal Queen, a Stearman open cockpit biplane built in 1942. Destined for the scrap yard, it was rescued and restored for what Coonts would call his Stearman summer. On a clear June afternoon in 1991, Coonts and his son took off to see the country the same way the barnstormers flew their Jennys, with a map and a compass. Coonts followed highways, railroad lines, back roads, mountains, rivers, and landmarks. For the next three months, seeing old friends and meeting new ones, he touched down on the diverse landscapes of each of the forty-eight contiguous states to record the stories of the American countryside, its spirited people, and its rich history. Soaring from big cities to the heartland, experiencing everything from Bourbon Street jazz and small town barbershop quartets to greasy spoons and backyard barbecues, the author of Flight of the Intruder and The Art of War captures not only the singular thrill of biplane aviation but a nostalgia for the simple pleasures of an America thought lost and forgotten Stephen Coonts found it and in The Cannibal Queen he shares every exultant moment This ebook features an illustrated biography of Stephen Coonts including rare photos from the author s personal collection     The Cannibal Queen Catherine Cookson,1992     The Cannibal Queen Robert St. Clair,1944     The Grand Cosmic War Part-1 Sri Lakshman. R,2024-11-26 When humanity is deemed a parasite God decrees their destruction But Satan with the mysterious Omnipotent Darkers defies this judgment by transforming the remnants of humankind into New Humans beings prepared to confront the gods and reclaim their place in the universe In a cosmos fractured by prejudice and celestial strife angels spirits and dark creatures battle for survival and vengeance As light and darkness clash one question emerges does a true line separate them Embark on an epic journey through cosmic conflict to discover who will shape the ultimate fate of existence Note This book for readers 15 and older includes intense scenes of violence war and mature themes exploring complex issues like racism discrimination and moral struggles amid a world of conflict Approach with discretion due to the mature content     Gothic Images of Race in Nineteenth-Century England Howard L. Malchow,1996 In pursuing the sources for late eighteenth and nineteenth century demonization of racial and cultural difference this book moves back and forth between the imagined world of literature and the real world of historical experience between fictional romance and what has been called the parallel fictions of the human sciences of anthropology and biology The author argues that the gothic genre and its various permutations offered a language that could be appropriated consciously or not by racists in a powerful and obsessively reiterated evocation of terror disgust and alienation But he shows that the gothic itself also evolved in the context of the brutal progress of European nationalism and imperialism and absorbed much from them This book explores both the gothicization of race and the racialization of the gothic as inseparable processes     The Lives and Liberation of Princess Mandarava Bsam-gtan-glin-pa Phrin-las-'gro-'dul-las-rab-bde-ba-rtal,1998-06-15 This translation of a Tibetan treasure text tells the story of the Indian heroine Princess Mandarava principal consort of the eighth century Indian master Padmasambhava recounting her struggles and triumphs as a Buddhist teacher in her many lives     Cannibal Queen-22.00 S Coonts,
