The Capitalist Imperative Territory Technology And Industrial Growth By:

The Capitalist Imperative Richard Walker, Michael Storper, 1991-01-08 Why do cities regions and nations experience periods of pronounced growth and decline Why have the world's centres of economic activity been continually reshuffled as the industrial revolution has spread to new parts of the globe This book demonstrates that under capitalism the process central to growth is geographical industrialization and that the creation and use of territory is fundamental to economic development In doing so they make new contributions to the study of growth theory industrial economics technological change industrial organization labour market urban and regional development and theoretical human geography Beginning with the economics of disequilibrium growth the authors reveal the technological organizational and political foundations of industrialization and conclude by showing that the territorial forms that industry takes are central to the shape and survival of capitalism itself

Industrial Location James W. Harrington, Barney Warf, 2002-09-11 Location is vital to the efficiency and profitability of industrial activity Industrial Location presents a comprehensive introduction to and critical review of this field of growing academic and business interest In business the right choices have to be made to produce profit Industrial location is a fixed investment crucial to the strategy and capital investment of any organization Location also impacts upon non investors directly affecting employment the environment and economic activity in the locale Focusing chiefly on the United States but drawing on an international range of cases the authors explain the economic social and political forces which have shaped contemporary patterns of industrialization and examines the changing nature of production and systems

Industrial Clusters John F. Wilson, Chris Corker, Joe Lane, 2022-07-01 Industrial Clusters shows the latest state of knowledge on the topic of industrial clusters with a particular focus on clustering in the UK bringing together a chronological coverage of the phenomenon This set of original essays by a group of leading business and industrial historians offers fresh perspectives about clusters and clustering A primary emphasis of the collection is how knowledge is generated and disseminated across a cluster and whether these processes stimulated innovation and consequently longer term sustainability This analysis also prompts questions about which unit of analysis to examine from the entrepreneurs and firms they created through to the industry as a whole and district in which they are located or whether one should look outside the region for explanatory factors Covering regions as diverse as North Wales the Scottish Highlands the City of London the Potteries Sheffield and Lancashire the essays have been channelled to provide a detailed understanding of these issues The editors have also provided a challenging Conclusion that suggests a new research agenda that could well unravel some of the mysteries associated with clustering This edited collection will be of interest to international researchers academics and students in the fields of business and management history innovation industrialisation and clusters

Alternative Capitalisms: Geographies of Emerging Regions Robert Gwynne, Denis Shaw, Thomas Klak, 2014-05-12 This book aims to examine the effects of globalization and economic and political transformations in those parts of the world which are now regularly referred to as emerging regions These are Latin America and the Caribbean East Central Europe and the former Soviet Union and East Asia This book breaks new ground in three areas First of all it develops a critique of the use of the term emerging regions for geographers and social scientists and relates this to world systems theory Secondly it explores the development trajectories and challenges of countries in this so called emerging world countries that will be crucial to the evolution of the world economy in the twenty first century Thirdly it compares and contrasts the pathways of both economic and political change in the three world regions under focus This is a unique approach in terms of books published in both geography and the social sciences Within the context of the three world regions the book combines historical and contemporary analysis of the evolving world system In these regions we are concerned to understand the historical expansion and extension of capitalism and how its contemporary forms of production exchange and regulation are evolving The authors believe that at the present time these processes have produced alternative capitalisms economic and associated developments which while assuredly capitalist differ in various ways from those typical of the capitalist West or core economies of North America and Western Europe

Technology Transfer Goel Cohen, Gū'il Kuhan, 2004-02-20 This book identifies the major factors responsible for effective transfer of information and human expertise from an advanced country or a multinational corporation to the developing world

Restructuring the Global Automobile Industry Christopher M. Law, 2017-07-06 Originally published in 1991 this book examines the spatial implications of the changes to the automobile industry at world national and local levels The volume brings together the work of North American European and Japanese geographers economists and sociologists and includes perspectives from the components industry the shop floor experience and local economic policy making

Innovation and the Growth of Cities Zoltán J. Ács, 2003-01-01 Zoltan Acs explores the relationship between industrial innovation and economic growth at regional level and reaches conclusions as to why some regions grow and others decline The book focuses on innovation and the growth of cities by the use of endogenous growth theory

Working Regions Jennifer Clark, 2013-05-29 Working Regions focuses on policy aimed at building sustainable and resilient regional economies in the wake of the global recession Using examples of four working regions regions where research and design functions and manufacturing still coexist in the same cities the book argues for a new approach to regional economic development It does this by highlighting policies that foster innovation and manufacturing in small firms focus research centers on pushing innovation down the supply chain and support dynamic design driven firm networks This book traces several key themes underlying the core proposition that for a region to work it has to link research and manufacturing activities namely innovation and production in the same place Among the topics discussed in this volume are the issues of how the location of research and development infrastructure produces a clear role of the state in innovation and production systems and how policy emphasis on pre production processes in the 1990s has obscured the financialization of intellectual property Throughout the book the author draws on examples from diverse industries including the medical devices industry and the US photonics industry in order to illustrate the different themes of working regions and the various institutional models operating in various countries and regions Institutions, Incentives and Communication in Economic Geography Michael Storper, 2004 The author presents a challenging perspective on two key issues within contemporary economic and geographical debate In his first lecture the author reconsiders some of the foundations of comparative economics and institutionalism in an analysis of the societal and communitarian bases of social and economic development Arguing that the interaction between society and community defines critical incentives for actors the author suggests a context sensitive sociological framework for the institutional analysis of economic development The second lecture focuses on urban economics and argues that existing models of urban concentrations are incomplete unless grounded in a more precise understanding of the most fundamental aspect of proximity face to face contact BACK COVER Clusters in Urban and Regional Development Andrew Cumbers, Danny McKinnon, 2013-09-13 Going beyond the celebrated hot spots of economic development this book draws upon evidence from a broader range of cities and regions to help fill some important gaps in our knowledge of how clusters operate within the contemporary global economy This book was previously published as a special issue of the journal Urban Studies
