Sthetic Principles:

Mathematical Aesthetic Principles/nonintegrable Systems Murray Muraskin, 1995 Mathematical aesthetics is not discussed as a separate discipline in other books than this even though it is reasonable to suppose that the foundations of physics lie in mathematical aesthetics This book presents a list of mathematical principles that can be classified as aesthetic and shows that these principles can be cast into a nonlinear set of equations Then with this minimal input the book shows that one can obtain lattice solutions soliton systems closed strings instantons and chaotic looking systems as well as multi wave packet solutions as output These solutions have the common feature of being nonintegrable i e the results of integration depend on the integration path The topic of nonintegrable systems has not been given much attention in other books Hence we discuss techniques for dealing with such systems

Aesthetics and the Sciences of Mind Greg Currie, Matthew Kieran, Aaron Meskin, Jon Robson, 2014-07-24 Through much of the twentieth century philosophical thinking about works of art design and other aesthetic products has emphasized intuitive and reflective methods often tied to the idea that philosophy's business is primarily to analyze concepts This philosophy from the armchair approach contrasts with methods used by psychologists sociologists evolutionary thinkers and others who study the making and reception of the arts empirically How far should philosophers be sensitive to the results of these studies Is their own largely a priori method basically flawed Are their views on aesthetic value interpretation imagination and the emotions of art to be rethought in the light of best science The essays in this volume seek answers to these questions many through detailed studies of problems traditionally regarded as philosophical but where empirical inquiry seems to be shedding interesting light No common view is looked for or found in this volume a number of authors argue that the current enthusiasm for scientific approaches to aesthetics is based on a misunderstanding of the philosophical enterprise and sometimes on misinterpretation of the science others suggest various ways that philosophy can and should accommodate and sometimes yield to the empirical approach The editors provide a substantial introduction which sets the scene historically and conceptually before summarizing the claims and arguments of the essays anthropology and non Western art scholarship While critically examining the available literature thereby addressing such basic issues as the existence of aesthetic universals the author elaborates on a central thesis which concerns the relationship between aesthetic preference and sociocultural ideals Drawing on empirical data from several African cultures he demonstrates that varying notions of beauty are inspired by varying sociocultural ideals thus shedding light on the phenomenon of cultural relativism in aesthetic preference Emphasizing unity within diversity the systematic anthropological approach offered in this volume invites the reader to reconsider aesthetic preference from an empirical cross cultural and contextual perspective
